Hijacked Plane Given Release; Students Stay

TOKYO (AP) — North Korea announced the hijacked Japanese plane that flew to Pyongyang Friday with three crewmen and a Japanese official as hostages took off for home Saturday night, Japan Broadcasting Corp. reported.

The broadcast said North Korea's notification was passed to United Nations Command officials at the Korean truce village of Panmunjom.

The North Koreans had announced earlier the plane and the hostages would be sent back but that the nine radical leftist student hijackers would remain in North Korea.

Radio Pyongyang added that North Korean authorities will investigate the nine radical Japanese students who hijacked the plane and will "take appropriate steps" regarding them. They will not go back to Japan, the broadcast said, "because they do not want to return."

But Pyongyang denounced the hijackers as "arrogant" and accused Japan of taking advantage of the incident to embarrass North Korea.

The young hijackers freed the plane's 99 passengers and four stewardesses in Seoul Friday in exchange for Shinjiro Yamamura, a Japanese vice transportation minister who had volunteered to be a hostage.

The Japan Air Lines Boeing 727 then flew to Pyongyang, the capital of North Korea, with the hijackers, three crewmen and Yamamura aboard.

The correspondent sent word to Japan's Communist party that Yamamura, the crewmen and the youths had been taken to a Pyongyang hotel.

Nixon's Postage Hike Causing Controversy

Proposed Plan Part Of Pay Increase Deal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Initial congressional reaction has raised the possibility that trouble lies ahead for President Nixon's proposal to raise the price of a first-class postage stamp from 6 to 10 cents.

"A 10-cent first-class stamp is unconscionable," Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo., chairman of the Senate Post Office Committee declared Friday after Nixon's proposal was sent to Congress.

The proposed increase was part of a package plan Nixon offered to finance a 6 per cent wage increase the government promised all federal workers under terms of an agreement reached Thursday.

Government and postal union negotiators worked out the 6 per cent agreement, along with an additional boost of 8 per cent for postal workers only that would be effective when Congress approves Nixon's postal reform plan.

The agreement halted the immediate threat of a new postal workers' strike but it raised financing problems for the President.

Nixon's message left unanswered what will be done about the current 10-cent air mail rate. Assistant Postmaster General James W. Hargrove said the question is under study, adding the air mail rate might be merged with the first-class charge.

$2.3 Billion Package

The first-class stamp proposal would bring in $2.3 billion annually, Nixon said. Raising charges on other types of mail would produce another $300 million.

Under the proposal, parcel post would cost 15 per cent more, so-called "junk" advertising mail an extra 5 per cent, second-class mailings 12 per cent, and single-piece third-class mail, 67 per cent.

Collection Speedup

The President also proposed a speedup in collection of estate and gift taxes to produce a revenue windfall of $1.5 billion in the 1971 fiscal year. That, coupled with mail cost increases and money already budgeted for federal pay increases, would pay for Thursday's agreement, Nixon said.

But McGee said it is out of the question to "load the burden of paying for this significant move in the area of labor-management relations on the one class of mail that pays its own way. We are going to have to talk about and consider a more equitable distribution of this load."

Tax Hike Ruled Out

Nixon said his plan "will neither require extending the surtax nor raising income tax rates." But he said new and permanent revenue measures will be needed by mid-1971. He didn't say what type the administration will favor.

Defiant Air Traffic Controllers Stay Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defiant air traffic controllers ignored pleas to return to their radar consoles and control towers today and end their 11-day rebellion. Their leaders said only amnesty and third party mediation would bring them back.

The deadlock could be settled in 24 hours or less, declared attorney F Lee Bailey, if amnesty were granted and President Nixon stepped in to appoint a mediator.

Bailey, executive director of the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization, read as directed under a court-ordered agreement a statement ordering controllers "who are fit and able" to return on their next normal tour of duty.

The order apparently fell on deaf ears. The Federal Aviation Administration said there was little noticeable change in the number of absent controllers who have been calling in sick since the dispute began Wednesday of last week.

Only 69 of 153 controllers scheduled to work on the Friday night shift showed up at the FAA's key regional control center at Islip, L.I., which directs high altitude jet traffic in several Eastern states. On the first shift today, 26 of 56 called in sick. At the Chicago center, 78 of 134 reported in on the night shift, about the same as on previous nights.

"Just because Bailey and the others say go back to work—that doesn't mean anything. We're sick," said Larry Johnson a PATCO spokesman at the Washington control center in Leesburg, Va.

"It's fatigue, anxiety, whatever you want to call it," he said.

A federal judge in Cleveland called the sick-call absences by 125 Ohio controllers "child's play," and demanded they prove their alleged illnesses with medical certificates.

Reporters Backed By Federal Judge

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal judge has ruled that the government must prove "overriding national interests" are at stake before it can require a reporter to disclose "confidential associations" to a grand jury investigating the Black Panthers.

In making the ruling Friday, Judge Alfonso J. Zirpoli said, however, that the reporter, Earl Caldwell of the New York Times, must appear before the grand jury as a "public duty which every person within the jurisdiction of the government is bound to perform."

Zirpoli said the 2½-hour hearing in U.S. District Court on motions to quash two subpoenas served on Caldwell presented "issues that go to the very core of the First Amendment."

He said they were "issues of significant magnitude the resolution of which may well be determinative of the scope of the journalist's privilege in sensitive areas of freedom of speech, press and association not heretofore fully explored and decided by the Supreme Court of the United States."

The judge stayed his order pending appeal to the 9th Circuit of the U.S. Court of Appeals, provided notice of appeal is filed within 20 days.

U.S. Atty. James Browning Jr. said the government has not yet decided whether to appeal to higher courts. That decision would be made by the solicitor general, he said.

Attorneys for Caldwell and The Times said they also will study the feasibility of an appeal.

In New York, A. M. Rosenthal, Times managing editor, said Caldwell told him by phone that "he feels very happy about the whole thing. He feels the decision is a good one and, I'm sure, so do we."

At the beginning of the hearing, government attorneys agreed with Zirpoli's suggestion that they withdraw a subpoena issued in February requiring that Caldwell appear with notes and recordings of interviews with Black Panther leaders. A later subpoena ordered only that the Negro reporter appear for questioning.

But Zirpoli said Caldwell "need not reveal confidential associations that impinge upon the effective exercise of the First Amendment right to gather news for dissemination to the public through the press . . . until such time as a compelling and overriding national interest which cannot be alternatively served has been stablished to the satisfaction of the court."

The Associated Press, Newsweek magazine, and the Columbia Broadcasting System and five of its newscasters, acting as friends of the court, filed briefs in support of the move to quash the subpoenas.

Police Not Dopes, Find Marijuana Plants Growing

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Kalamazoo firemen doused a blaze at an apartment house Thursday, then noticed several live plants growing in the apartment.

Acting on a hunch, they asked police who were directing traffic outside the building to come in and take a look.

They arrested Peter Schubeck Jr., a 19-year-old Western Michigan University student.

Forged Letter Gets Young GOP Aide In Trouble

CHICAGO (AP) — A U.S. District Court jury has convicted Victor S. Kamber, a national Young Republican Leader, of submitting a forged letter to his draft board requesting a teacher's deferment.

The jury on Friday acquitted Kamber, 27, of an accompanying charge that in a letter to the board he had falsified his position at a Maryland college.

The evidence turned on the letter, purportedly signed by Dr. John G. Handley, a dean at Prince Georges Community College, Largo, Md.

The letter said Kamber was an associate professor and chairman of the speech department.

Handley testified he had neither signed nor authorized the letter.

Kamber, a former Chicago resident, has served as head of the Young Republican Leadership Conference in Washington for the past two years.

'Shoot-To-Kill' Orders Issued In Irish Hassle

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Terrorists exploded three bombs in the heart of Belfast today injuring at least two persons, despite a British army warning that troops may shoot to kill when they encounter rioters in the streets.

A time bomb in a wastebasket exploded in a store just as shops began opening. Two employes were wounded.

Police and British troops hustled shoppers out of danger after that blast and sealed off lower Donegal street.

Earlier two other bombs exploded in the shopping center of Belfast.

One bomb ripped through a tailor's on a main shopping street, blowing out windows and shattering glass in nearby shops. No casualties were reported.

A smaller blast gouged a foot-wide hole in the wall of a furniture store owned by Belfast mayor Joseph Cairns.

The explosion occurred on Royal Avenue in the city center — untouched by street warfare even at the peak of the trouble last August and September. The first blast was reported on Shankill Road, about a mile away.

Otherwise, the capital, scene of rioting pitting Catholics and Protestants against hundreds of troops, was quiet.

Gen. Sir Ian Freeland, Britain's army commander in Ulster, told a news conference Friday that gasoline bombs — a favorite weapon of the rioters — were lethal weapons and anyone concerned in their manufacture, transport or use faced up to 10 years imprisonment.

"What is more," he said "they are liable to be shot dead in the streets if, after warning, they persist."

Freeland received quick government backing. Roy Hattersley, British Minister with special responsibility for Northern Ireland, said in a broadcast that the general's statement was fully justified.

An army spokesman said later that Freeland's warning seemed to be "paying off."

The Ballymurphy area, where soldiers fired volley after volley of tear gas Wednesday and Thursday to break up missile-hurling crowds, was calm.

Escape Crash

RAPID CITY, S.D. (AP) — Nine men who escaped from the flaming wreckage of an Air Force B52 bomber were reported in satisfactory condition today at Ellsworth Air Force Base Hospital.

Fire fighting crews were credited with saving the lives of at least three of the men after the eight-jet airplane crashed while landing and caught fire Friday.

Some Truckers Stay Off Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Truck drivers in a few cities remained off their jobs today despite a general return to work by thousands of other Teamsters following settlement of a three-year contract.

As they abandoned their picket lines and climbed back aboard their trucks in all but a few cities Friday, union employes were mailing to the 425,000 drivers paper ballots on which they would pass judgment on the new contract.

It reportedly calls for a wage hike of $1.10 an hour over the life of the pact.

Wildcat strikes occurred in scattered cities after the old contract expired at midnight Tuesday and despite Thursday's settlement, drivers in some areas were still off the job today.

In Cleveland most of the 3,500 Teamsters involved refused to return to work. Police reported one rig was stopped and three shots were fired through the windshield. The driver was unhurt.

Union leaders there issued a statement deploring violence.

Drivers were also out in Tampa, Fla., where a dispute has erupted following the dismissal of 10 men at a single company.

And trucking operations in St. Louis were at a standstill because leaders of the 9,500 Teamsters said they had received no official word to go back to work.

Dr. Martin Luther King

Dr. King Slain Two Years Ago

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., civil rights leader, winner of the Nobel Peace Prize, father of four, has been dead two years today. He would have been 41 Jan. 15.

His widow, Mrs. Coretta Scott King, and the Kings' four children—Yolanda Denise, Martin Luther III, Dexter Scott and Bernice Alberitne—planned to lay a wreath on King's grave this morning, then spend the rest of the day at home, in seclusion.

In Memphis, where King was slain by a sniper's bullet on April 4, 1968, civil rights leaders planned a mass march as "a rededication to the ideal of Dr. King and a commitment to the principles of non-violence."

No official ceremonies were scheduled here, where King was born, went to school and launched his far-reaching quest for a better life for America's black and poor.

At the graveside, however, the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, King's successor as head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference SCLC, planned to address a meeting of predominantly black city workers, who have been on strike since March 17.

King had been leading demonstrations by sanitation workers in Memphis before he was shot dead while standing on a motel terrace.

Marchers Set In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — Demonstrators gathered today for a "March for Victory" billed as an answer to the antiwar parade that took the same Pennsylvania Avenue route last November.

Organizers said they expected as many as 100,000 persons to participate in the trek from the foot of Capitol Hill to the Washington Monument for a rally.

Some 250,000 persons, most of them young, followed that route in the Nov. 15 antiwar demonstration.

The 200 persons who gathered for a prayer meeting outside the Washington Cathedral on the eve of the march Friday night were primarily middle-aged.

"We're not here to stir up trouble," Dr. Carl McIntire, a fundamentalist radio preacher from Collingswood, N.J., and organizer of the march, told the group.

"We want victory here at home and victory in Vietnam . . . We pray that this country may not go down in defeat, that it may have a place of honor and glory."

He branded as "religious discrimination and an act of grievous injustice" the refusal of the cathedral officials to allow his group to hold its prayer meeting inside the church. There, 10,000 peace demonstrators held a service the eve of their November march.

SDS Members Sought By FBI

CHICAGO (AP) — FBI agents have intensified a national search for 12 members of the Weatherman faction of fStudents for a Democratic Society charged with inciting a riot in Chicago last autumn.

"It's going to be difficult to find some of these people," commented Thomas A. Foran, U.S. district attorney in Chicago. The 12 dropped out of circulation two months ago.

The eight men and four women were charged Thursday by a federal grand jury with violating a federal law that prohibits crossing state lines with the intent of inciting a riot.

This is the statute under which the Chicago 7 were tried on charges involving disturbances at the time of the 1968 Democratic National Convention: In a five-month trial that ended Feb. 18, the seven were acquitted of conspiring to cross state lines to incite riots, but five were convicted individually of crossing state lines for that purpose.

FBI agents in their search were concentrating on the Chicago, New York City and California areas where young radicals congregate.

The 12 include most of the leaders of the Weatherman group, which believes white radicals must launch a guerrilla war against the American establishment to free America's nonwhite population as well as the people of Vietnam.

The violence, called the Weatherman's "National Action" program, resulted in the arrest of more than 300 persons. Hundreds of youths poured out of Lincoln Park Oct. 8, broke windows, smashed parked cars and attacked policemen.

Policemen also were attacked Oct. 11 when another group ran through the downtown area hurling bricks at windows.

Among those indicted was Kathy Boudin, 26, who reportedly fled to Canada with Cathlyn Wilkerson, 24, one of 26 unindicted coconspirators in the case, after a March 6 townhouse explosion in New York's Greenwich Village.

THESE FOUR PERSONS are among 12 SDS Weatherman leaders who were indicted this week by a Chicago federal grand jury on charges of conspiring to travel interstate "with intent to incite, organize, promote, encourage, participate in and carry on a riot." From left are Mark Rudd, Jeffry Jones, Bernadine Dohrn and Cathy Boudin. All are accused in connection with disorders in Chicago last October. (AP Wirephoto)

SDS Members Sought By FBI

CHICAGO (AP) — FBI agents have intensified a national search for 12 members of the Weatherman faction of fStudents for a Democratic Society charged with inciting a riot in Chicago last autumn.

"It's going to be difficult to find some of these people," commented Thomas A. Foran, U.S. district attorney in Chicago. The 12 dropped out of circulation two months ago.

The eight men and four women were charged Thursday by a federal grand jury with violating a federal law that prohibits crossing state lines with the intent of inciting a riot.

This is the statute under which the Chicago 7 were tried on charges involving disturbances at the time of the 1968 Democratic National Convention: In a five-month trial that ended Feb. 18, the seven were acquitted of conspiring to cross state lines to incite riots, but five were convicted individually of crossing state lines for that purpose.

FBI agents in their search were concentrating on the Chicago, New York City and California areas where young radicals congregate.

The 12 include most of the leaders of the Weatherman group, which believes white radicals must launch a guerrilla war against the American establishment to free America's nonwhite population as well as the people of Vietnam.

The violence, called the Weatherman's "National Action" program, resulted in the arrest of more than 300 persons. Hundreds of youths poured out of Lincoln Park Oct. 8, broke windows, smashed parked cars and attacked policemen.

Policemen also were attacked Oct. 11 when another group ran through the downtown area hurling bricks at windows.

Among those indicted was Kathy Boudin, 26, who reportedly fled to Canada with Cathlyn Wilkerson, 24, one of 28 unindicted coconspirators in the case, after a March 6 townhouse explosion in New York's Greenwich Village.

THESE FOUR PERSONS are among 12 SDS Weatherman leaders who were indicted this week by a Chicago federal grand jury on charges of conspiring to travel interstate "with intent to incite, organize, promote, encourage, participate in and carry on a riot." From left are Mark Rudd, Jeffry Jones, Bernadine Dohrn and Cathy Boudin. All are accused in connection with disorders in Chicago last October. (AP Wirephoto)

Eight Injured In Two City Crashes

The crash of an automobile into a Ludington St. business building early today and the collision of two cars Friday afternoon injured a total of eight persons, three of whom continue as patients today in St. Francis Hospital.

Four young people were hurt when a car driven by David N. Johnston, 18, of 1609 17th Ave. S. collided with another car and then struck the King Optical Co. building at Ludington and 10th St. at 2:35 a. m. today, city police reported.

Johnston, his front-seat passenger, Lynn Barnhart, 17, of Escanaba Rte. 1, and Sharon Hilton, 17, of 1110 S. Lincoln Rd. and Patrick Morrow, 18, of 301 S. 16th St., in the rear seat of the auto, were all injured and taken to St. Francis Hospital.

Hit Car First

It was reported from the hospital today that three of the four continue as patients. They are listed in fair condition at this time. Johnston, driver of the car, was treated and released.

Miss Barnhart has head and scalp injuries, Miss Hilton appeared less seriously hurt, and Morrow has an injured foot, according to officers.

Escanaba police reported that Johnston was driving east on Ludington St., and that a car ahead of him, driven by John P. Kelker, 23, of 1603 N. 18th St., slowed at 10th to make a left turn. The Johnston car began passing and moved into the oncoming traffic lane, struck the Kelker car on the side and then ran into the west side of the King Optical building.

A large plate galss window was shattered and the car smashed the brick wall below the window. The injured were removed by ambulance.

Autos Collide

Kelker and his passengers, Dave Kositsky, 23, of 1228 S. Stephenson Ave., and Paul M. Woolford, 24, 118 S. 5th St., were unhurt.

Officers said their investigation is continuing.

In the accident at 4:39 p. m. Friday four persons were injured, none seriously.

Cars driven by Lawrence Olivares, 19, of 1415 1st Ave. S., and John A. Ferrari Jr., 209 N. 13th St., collided in the 800 block of N. Lincoln Rd. when Olivares pulled into Lincoln Rd. and into the path of the Ferrari car, police reported. They ticketed Olivares for failing to yield the right of way.

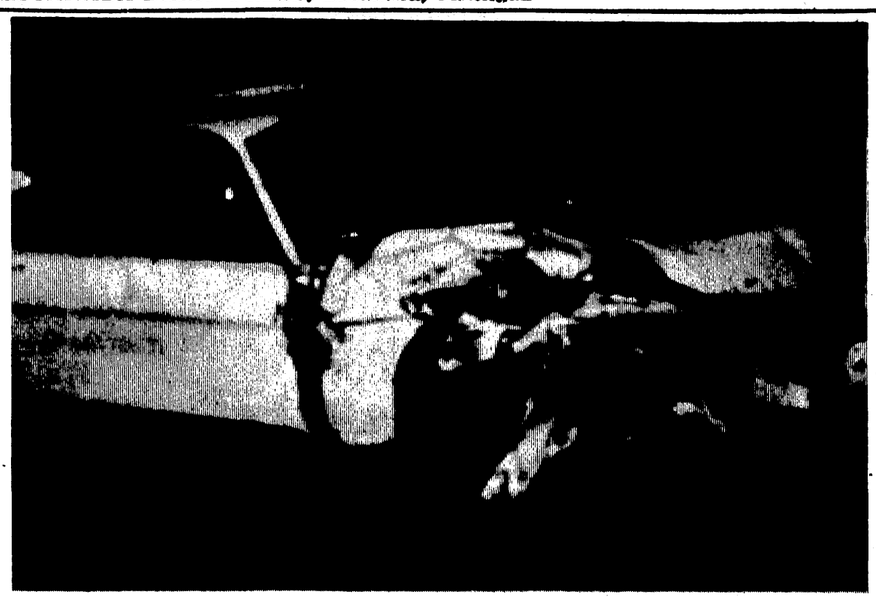

Arrest Driver

Olivares passenger, Allen Starrine, 20, of Rapid River Rte. 1, and Ferrai's passenger, Dave Miller, were also hurt.

City police reported the arrest of Gust C. Myrsten, 65, of 1411 Stephenson Ave., for driving while under the influence of intoxicants at 11:06 p. m. Friday. The arrest followed the officers' observation of Myrsten's erratic driving in the 1000 bloc kof Stephenson Ave.

Myrsten was not involved in an accident, police said.

Traffic violation summonses were issued by city police to Edward J. Destrampe, 615 N. 16th St., failing to evercise due care; Lawrence Brennan, 519 S. 8th St., failing to yield the right of way; Rodney J. Goodchild, Danforth Rte. 1, and Otto J. Swanson, Escanaba Rte. 1, both for speeding.

THIS AUTOMOBILE rammed into a west window of the King Optical Co. at 2:35 a. m. today, injuring its four occupants. The driver, David N. Johnston, 18, of 1609 17th Ave. S., was released from the hospital after treatment. Three passengers are reported in fair condition. The car's front end was wedged into the building. It is pictured after being hauled out. (Police Dept. Photo)

Judge Shipman Addresses Central Methodist Group

Social Concerns committees and other interested members of the Central United Methodist Church sponsored a program on April 2 featuring Dean Shipman, judge of the 94th judicial district.

Judge Shipman described his local volunteer probation program which involves some 70 local persons.

Tax Burden

According to Judge Shipman, early offenders who commit misdemeanors often continue in crime while on probation and commit felonies because of lack of próper counseling and human understanding. To provide professional social workers and psychologists to fill the void would be a substantial burden on the taxpayer, he said.

Volunteer Help

Experience in the local probation program has proven that trained volunteers can provide much of these needs and can be extremely effective in crime abatement, according to the speaker. Volunteers are carefully screened and then trained by an administrative assistant of the court staff.

Qualifications

In describing volunteer worker qualifications, Judge Shipman, emphasized the importance of good communicative skills. A minimum of five hours participation per month are required of all persons who volunteer to work with probationers. Judge Shipman reported that 80% of the probationers who receive counseling never appear in court again.

Began In 1959

The original volunteer probation program began in Royal Oak, Mich. in 1959 when Municipal Judge Keith J. Leenhouts became alarmed at the juvenile crime rate and decided to take corrective action.

The National Board of Social Concerns of the United Methodist Church was so impressed by the program in Royal Oak that it spent $24,000 to publicize its success and to encourage development of similar programs elsewhere.

Arrangements for the program speaker were made by Mrs. Clifford Frasher, chairman, WSCS Social Concerns committee and Mrs. Robert Katarincic, chairman of Council of Ministries committee on social concerns.

Cancer Crusade To Open Monday

"We need people who care enough to conquer cancer," said David Mason, chairman of the American Cancer Society's educational and fund-raising Crusade in Delta County.

Volunteers can alert friends and family to ways of helping to protect themselves against cancer; raise the funds, that raise hopes that cancer will be conquered, he said.

"Last year, about 400 volunteers in Delta County gave their time and talent to this great effort. They worked together with 2.3-million volunteers in thousands of American communities," said Mason.

"We need even more of these dedicated people on our side this year. There is a job for everyone with even a few hours to spare," he added.

Commencing Monday an important part of the Crusade will be the distribution of a leaflet listing protective measures against cancer.

"Many cancer deaths are needless because the chances of a cure are excellent if a diagnosis is made early. There are 1.5-million Americans alive today who are cured of cancer," said Mason.

Volunteers for Crusade 1970 are urgently needed by the Delta County American Cancer Society Unit, P. O. Box 300. "Or," said Mason "please call us at 786-1052.

Eight Injured In Two City Crashes

The crash of an automobile into a Ludington St. business building early today and the collision of two cars Friday afternoon injured a total of eight persons, three of whom continue as patients today in St. Francis Hospital.

Four young people were hurt when a car driven by David N. Johnston, 18, of 1609 17th Ave. S. collided with another car and then struck the King Optical Co. building at Ludington and 10th St. at 2:35 a. m. today, city police reported.

Johnston, his front-seat passenger, Lynn Barnhart, 17, of Escanaba Rte. 1, and Sharon Hilton, 17, of 1110 S. Lincoln Rd. and Patrick Morrow, 18, of 301 S. 16th St., in the rear seat of the auto, were all injured and taken to St. Francis Hospital.

Hit Car First

It was reported from the hospital today that three of the four continue as patients. They are listed in fair condition at this time. Johnston, driver of the car, was treated and released.

Miss Barnhart has head and scalp injuries, Miss Hilton appeared less seriously hurt, and Morrow has an injured foot, according to officers.

Escanaba police reported that Johnston was driving east on Ludington St., and that a car ahead of him, driven by John P. Kelker, 23, of 1603 N. 18th St., slowed at 10th to make a left turn. Cancer Crusade To Open Monday

"We need people who care enough to conquer cancer," said David Mason, chairman of the American Cancer Society's educational and fund-raising Crusade in Delta County.

Volunteers can alert friends and family to ways of helping to protect themselves against cancer; raise the funds, that raise hopes that cancer will be conquered, he said.

"Last year, about 400 volunteers in Delta County gave their time and talent to this great effort. They worked together with 2.3-million volunteers in thousands of American communities," said Mason.

"We need even more of these dedicated people on our side this year. There is a job for everyone with even a few hours to spare," he added.

Commencing Monday an important part of the Crusade will be the distribution of a leaflet listing protective measures against cancer.

"Many cancer deaths are needless because the chances of a cure are excellent if a diagnosis is made early. There are 1.5-million Americans alive today who are cured of cancer," said Mason.

Volunteers for Crusade 1970 are urgently needed by the Delta County American Cancer Society Unit, P. O. Box 300. "Or," said Mason "please call us at 786-1052.

Schweigert Will Seek Top U.S. Forest Post

BY DON HOENSHELL
Panax Staff Writer

LANSING — Acting Lt. Gov. Thomas F. Schweigert (R-Petoskey) will pitch for a top-level job in the U. S. Forest Service to help the nation save its environment.

He said he will know by mid-May his chances with the U. S. Department of Agriculture or the Department of the Interior.

Schweigert will leave state government Dec. 31 after 10 years as a northern Michigan Senator, barred by a geographical accident from running for a four-year term as lieutenant governor.

"Probably to the average voter it doesn't make much difference," he said. "The problem is the nomination process. You have to get through the convention."

Under the state's 1963 constitution, the governor and lieutenant governor run for office as a team. To the political power brokers, Schweigert lives too close to Gov. Milliken — 67 miles down the Lake Michigan shoreline from Petoskey to Traverse City.

Dead End

And Schweigert envisions a dead end for himself in Michigan politics.

"In Michigan, I can visualize at least a couple of (four-year) terms for Bill. By that time, I'd be 60 years old. So you are kind of locked in.

"I will have had the lieutenant governor's position for two years, for all practical purposes. If I could add anything to the ticket, I'd try. But the geography thing is the problem."

Race Building

As he spoke, Rep. Robert W. Davis (R-St. Ignace) started his own campaign for Schwiegert's seat. Davis, 37, was born in Marquette, is a funeral director, and was first elected to the House in 1966.

Schweigert sees other interest growing in the Senate as he waits for word from Washington.

Rep. Joseph P. Swallow (R-Alpena), former county prosecutor and a House member since 1964, has expressed interest "and there will be a lot of people jumping in," Schweigert said.

"I thought it would be well to announce my intentions now to give any interested candidate time to make his decision. It's an interesting district.

"You have industry largely around Alpena and Escanaba, a big resort industry. You name it and we have it, all kinds of things going on.

"The Senator from that district should be young and full of energy, well-educated and one who knows the area and its needs. It would help if he had an outside income."

Schweigert gets a $15,000 Senate salary and a $3,000 a year accountable expense account. He said his actual expenses regularly reach $7,000 a year leaving him a net of $11,000.

Roots In Michigan

In Schweigert's own mind, his future is elsewhere though he said he will always maintain his roots in northern Michigan where his two forestry firms oeprate on a statewide basis.

He holds sizeable financial chunks of the Northern Tree Co., 33 per cent of the stock, and Schweigert and Young Inc., 50 per cent of the stock. Both are based in Petoskey.

"I'd have to divorce myself from both of those (he now serves both as secretary-treasurer) in the Federal job," he said. "I'd have to avoid any conflict of interest."

The special light on Schweigert's horizon is President Nixon's new Council on Environmental Quality, assigned to tackle the nation's ecological concerns.

It will need funding, staff and a good relationship with Congress, an administrative and political problem for which Schweiegrt feels himself ideally suited to help solve.

Top Ranked Forester

Of the nation's 40,000 foresters, Schweigert is the highest ranking in the political field. He has friends at all levels, and as acting lieutenant governor, key contacts in other states.

"In dealing with Congress, I would anticipate very little trouble," he said.

"A forester is a rare animal. He doesn't get involved in the political scene. He is either barred from it by civil service (the Hatch Act) or, if he's with industry, by his corporate bosses."

Schweigert came to Lansing as a state Senator in 1960 after working as a U.S. Forester in northern Michigan since 1948, when he was transferred from Missouri.

In the capitol, he immediately joined the "Young Moderates," the four other new senators and two who had been here for one two-year term. They eventually took control of the chamber.

Now they've all gone on to other glories and Schweigert is the last.

Milliken To Choose

The others were John W. Fitzgerald, son of former Gov. Frank Fitzgerald and now an Appeals court judge; Stanley F. Thayer, now chairman of the Liquor Control Commission; Fred Hilbert, now a member of the State Board of Tax Appeals, Farrell C. Roberts, now an Oakland County Circuit Judge, John Stahlin, now a $1 a year man for the governor—and Milliken.

On March 20, Schweigert under a new law recognizing a vacancy created when Milliken became governor, was officially named as Michigan's first acting lieutenant governor in history.

His successor will have the shortened title of lieutenant governor.

Milliken has said he will handpick his own running mate. Rep. William P. Hampton (R-Bloomfield Hills) is publicly in the running, but others have been mentioned, Budget Director Glenn C. Allen, Labor Commissioner Barry Brown and Dr. John Dempsey, Milliken's aide in Detroit. Schweigert said no one has the inside track.

"It might be one of them, but the governor could come up with some different choice," Schweigert said.

Schweigert is happy in Lansing, is highly respected but knows that on Dec. 31 his home base will be elswhere.

"It's been a great experience," he said.

Two Teens Receive 'Stupidity' Label

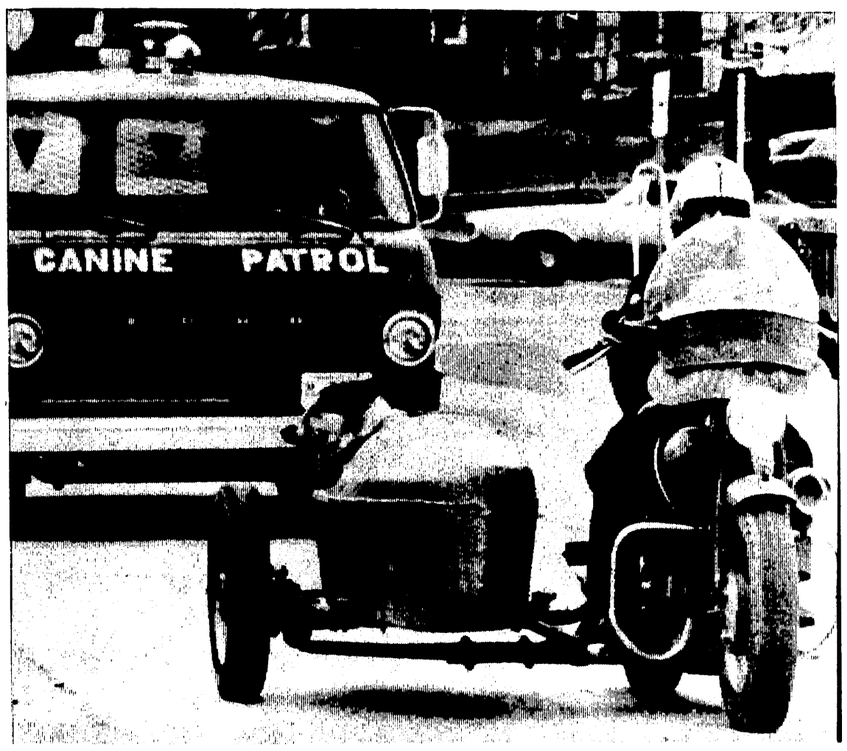

TOWSON, Md. (AP) — A Baltimore County circuit court judge told two teenagers charged with grand larceny he was finding them guilty of stupidity.

Judge John G. Turnbull held off until mid-June a decision on criminal charges of removing parts from a car parked on a dealer's lot.

The judge made the comment about stupidity after hearing Friday that both youths had good records and were due to graduate from high school in June.

O'Hara Welcomes Suit By Georgia Governor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. James O'Hara said this week the Democratic party welcomes a suit by Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox contesting the way political parties select delegates to presidential nomination conventions.

"We're looking forward to this opportunity to have the court look at this and lay down guidelines," the Michigan Democrat said.

O'Hara is chairman of a Democratic National Committee group which will recommended specific rules and practices for the 1972 convention.

"I think it is possible that a political convention will have to be conducted by persons selected on a one-man, one-vote basis," O'Hara told the Women's National Democratic Club.

But he said it will be difficult to pin down just who is a Democrat and who a Republican in states lacking party registration. And he added that even where there are party registrations for the latest general election, sentiment could have changed in the elapsed four years.

"We now will be involved in this with the courts and hope to thrash it out so that the convention will be fairly apportioned," O'Hara said.

Maddox and other Georgia officials sued both the Republican and Democratic national parties March 25, saying their national conventions were malapportioned and that the selection process of delegates violated the Supreme Court's one-man, one-vote mandate.

Maddox alleges it is illegal for a party to allot extra delegates to states which voted its way in the latest general election.

The Georgia plaintifs claim that since its votens went for the American Independent Party's candidate George Wallace in 1968, the state will be underrepresented at the 1970 GOP and Democratic national conventions.

O'Hara's 26-man rules committee has held hearings in Minneapolis and Atlanta and was in Oklahoma City today for another.

Other hearings are planned in Salt Lake City, Boston, New York, the Great Lakes area and in California, he said. The committee expects to recommend rules by the end of the year.

O'Hara said there must be more access to the convention by persons who can't afford the soaring costs of being a delegate and there must be a guarantee of more participation by delegates once at the convention.

Other suggestions are being solicited on how to reduce confusion on the convention floor—including widening the aisles and limiting the number of delegates.

Mishap Fatal

DETROIT (AP) — Joanne Bokram, 40, of Grosse Pointe Woods, was injured fatally Friday on Detroit's Woodward Avenue when her car hit several others and then slammed into a light pole. Police said she apparently hit the first vehicle when she attempted to reach into the glove compartment from the driver's seat.

Ore Loading At Slow Start; Ice Delays Vessels

The seventh boat of the season, the Sykes of Inland Steel, is back for a second load at the Chicago & North Western ore terminal in the first week of 1970 marine traffic at Escanaba.

Ice continues to be a problem, choking channels here and at the Straits of Mackinac and Sault Ste. Marie. But the fleet is persisting and with the help of Coast Guard cutter boats are moving, but slowly.

The North Western's new ore terminal (this is the second season) is operating without any real problems, says Paul Schilling, assistant ore superintendent.

Yesterday one of the largest ore carriers on the Lakes—the Ryerson—loaded 23,500 tons of pellet ore for Indiana Harbor. The Ryerson is also an Inland Steel boat.

The Sykes, the Ryerson, the Block and others are among the 250 vessels of the Great Lakes fleet (Canadian and U. S.) that will bring more than 75 million tons of raw ore and pellets to mill ports on the lakes during this 1970 season.

Ice in Green Bay is reported by the Coast Guard to be 18 to 24 inches thick. The cutter Mesquite has been assisting ore boats in an out here for the past week and is now working to open channels into Green Bay port.

A tanker is expected to be the first vessel into Green Bay next week—perhaps on April 8

At Sault Ste. Marie and the Straits ice conditions have slowed vessel movements to a near standstill. There is the hope expressed that the first ore boat will get through the St. Marys Canal, into Lake Superior and reach Marquette for an ore cargo within a week.

Whitefish Bay was reported frozen over with ice extending north into Lake Superior as far as Caribou Island; and at the Straits ice jams are reported from east of Mackinac Island in Lake Huron to well beyond St. Ignace in Lake Michigan.

N. Korean Spies Dumped Into Sea; 15 Crewmen Die

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — A speedboat believed carrying North Korean spies to South Korea was sunk in a four-hour battle early today, the South Korean Defense Ministry announced.

It was the third sinking of a North Korean infiltration craft since last September.

The Defense Ministry said all 15 crewmen of the 50-ton speedboat were drowned. The South Koreans suffered no casualties and the three ships which took part in the battle against the North Korean craft were not damaged, the announcement said.

Yesterday one of the largest ore carriers on the Lakes—the Ryerson—loaded 23,500 tons of pellet ore for Indiana Harbor. The Ryerson is also an Inland Steel boat.

The Sykes, the Ryerson, the Block and others are among the 250 vessels of the Great Lakes fleet (Canadian and U. S.) that will bring more than 75 million tons of raw ore and pellets to mill ports on the lakes during this 1970 season.

Ice in Green Bay is reported by the Coast Guard to be 18 to 24 inches thick. The cutter Mesquite has been assisting ore boats in an out here for the past week and is now working to open channels into Green Bay port.

A tanker is expected to be the first vessel into Green Bay next week—perhaps on April 8

At Sault Ste. Marie and the Straits ice conditions have slowed vessel movements to a near standstill. There is the hope expressed that the first ore boat will get through the St. Marys Canal, into Lake Superior and reach Marquette for an ore cargo within a week.

Whitefish Bay was reported frozen over with ice extending north into Lake Superior as far as Caribou Island; and at the Straits ice jams are reported from east of Mackinac Island in Lake Huron to well beyond St. Ignace in Lake Michigan.

N. Korean Spies Dumped Into Sea; 15 Crewmen Die

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — A speedboat believed carrying North Korean spies to South Korea was sunk in a four-hour battle early today, the South Korean Defense Ministry announced.

It was the third sinking of a North Korean infiltration craft since last September.

The Defense Ministry said all 15 crewmen of the 50-ton speedboat were drowned. The South Koreans suffered no casualties and the three ships which took part in the battle against the North Korean craft were not damaged, the announcement said.

Be Sure To Vote!

Monday is election day for the three municipalities in the area and as new people change the composition of a city council or city commission so will they change the government of the city.

That's why it's so important to vote.

Collectively, Escanaba, Gladstone and Manistique will elect seven persons to terms of varying lengths on city governing boards. All three communities have capable slates of candidates, but the most critical election is in Escanaba where voters will put into office a majority.

Because of a resignation of a Councilman is December, 1968, who had served less than a year of a four-year term and the subsequent appointment of a citizen to serve until the next election, three of the five seats on the Council will be determined in Monday's balloting. In Gladstone and Manistique, only two of five places will be elected.

Additionally, in Escanaba, if past practice is followed, the city will elect a mayor as councils in recent years have turned to the person with the greatest number of votes for the mayorship. Under Escanaba's council-manager form of government the mayor theoretically does not wield any more power than the presiding officer's gavel, but practically the mayor sits in a leadership position and can exert considerable influence over fellow councilmen.

Candidates for the four year term (two to be elected) are Harold F. Cloutier, John W. Curran, Ronald DeVos, Albin S. Pearson Jr., and Jon R. Taylor. Candidates for the two year term (one to be elected) are Leo Alperovitz, Richard J. Pryal and Eugene O. Slagstad.

In Gladstone, where the city's new voting machines will be used for the first time, the city by electing Constance Verhamme could put the first woman ever to serve on the city's commission into office.

The other candidates for the two three-year terms are incumbent Douglas Bovin, Elmer Caron, Thomas Elegeert and William Smith.

At Manistique, four men are seeking two seats on the City Council for four-year terms. They are Daniel C. Barber, Raymond L. Krusic, Thor Reque, incumbent and Douglas D. Rose.

* * *

The issues in local elections — council, commission, school board or county board — seldom are very apparent to most voters for several reasons. For one thing, in small communities friends run against friends and as such are reluctant to voice strong attacks against a neighbor or business associate. Secondly, the majority of the slate generally is made up of newcomers to public life and outside of personal accomplishments in community affairs have little in the way of "record" to either advance or defend. Even incumbent councilmen and commissioners, while they can inject the argument of experience, rarely have to worry about their voting record while in office. Most of the decisions of a commission, council or board come by unanimous vote and if the city is running smoothly complaints are not often sounded. As elections draw nearer, governing units also display a remarkable consistency — not only on the local level, but in state and national contests as well — to avoid action on any subject which carries the least bit of controversy.

In addition, the time between the deadline for filing nominating petitions and election day is too short to develop much of a meaningful dialogue on community affairs. Campaign messages are remarkably similar. Even such worth while programs as the "Meet The Candidates" program arranged by the League of Women Voters and the "Evening With The Candidates" broadcast in Escanaba and Gladstone this year by American Cablevision have limited range. Candidates are quick to point out "problems" but guarded about proposals for solution.

So voters will go to the polls Monday armed with a slate of names, a little background — residence address, occupation, community involvements — on the persons behind the names and their own personal observations.

It doesn't seem a very sound basis on which to ballot, but that's all the system provides and it has to be enough. What comes out of the ballot boxes may well determine the direction of each community in the months and years ahead.

That's why the election is so vital. It's every citizen's duty and responsibility to exercise his voting franchise to help determine who will make those decisions. Once the polls are closed, the precious opportunity to help govern is lost until the next election. Be sure to vote! That message is one which can't be repeated too often.

Republicans Search New York Candidate

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The New York State political scene is a snake pit.

Republicans and Democrats never know in advance of choosing nominees whether they will be taken on the flank by the Liberal Party, the Conservative Party, the ethnic Italians who don't worry about labels, or by the New York City Jewish population which goes for Liberals or Reform Democrats when Republican Jacob Javits isn't backing someone in his own party who is even more liberal than himself.

Knowing that calculation is chancy from a distance, the White House has kept its hands off Republican Gov. Nelson Rockefeller. They have figured that he is a winner anyway, and they want desperately to see a Republican State government in Albany after the 1970 Census is taken and the boys get around to redistricting.

So when Rockefeller insisted that the party select his appointee, Sen. Charles Goodell, to run for a Senate term in his own right, the White House swallowed its distaste. Charlie Goodell, who had a conservative record in the House before he became a Senator, is even worse than Bill Fulbright or Gene McCarthy when it comes to slandering President Nixon's foreign policy.

Curiously, Rockefeller doesn't go for Goodell's positions. But Goodell is a nominal Republican from upstate New York, and Rockefeller thinks he needs him on the ticket.

* * *

This, however, was before the Democrats began lining up behind Arthur Goldberg, the former U. S. Ambassador to the UN, for governor. The polls show Goldberg running ahead of Rockefeller. Nelson's checkbook is potent when it comes to underwriting campaign expenses, but what if Goldberg's appeal to liberals, labor leaders and orthodox Democrats can hold off Rockefeller at the wire?

So we come back to Sen. Goodell. It is late in the day to find an attractive Republican to oppose him, and he will probably receive the nomination by default. But if he can't help Rockefeller, and stands to sabotage Nixon in the Senate, who needs him?

If Rocky persists in running with Goodell, it will certainly enrage both the small-c conservative Republicans and the Capital C Conservative Party. This gives the Big-C Conservatives a veto power in the election.

If they run a good man for governor on their own, they can undoubtedly throw the winning margin to Goldberg. And it is very likely that, with a good Senatorial candidate, they can take enough votes away from the Republicans to put a Democrat in the Senate.

* * *

Why can't Rockefeller see this?

If he were to get behind an acceptable candidate for Senator, the Conservatives might withdraw their long-standing objections to Rocky. At the very least they might put sacrificial nonentities on their ticket and wink at desertions by their rank-and-file.

But who can go up against Goodell at this late hour? Rocky has scared off the Albany pros.

State Sen. John Marchi, who defeated John V. Lindsay in the New York Republican New York City mayoralty primary, has bowed out. He did this before Goldberg altered the name of the game, but it is doubtful that he would now change his mind. William J. Casey, a Long Island lawyer who backs Nixon's foreign policies and was called upon by the White House to help win the ABM public relations fight, made a gesture toward running a short while ago, and he might still be available.

A curious thing, however, happened the other day. When F. Clifton White, who specializes in running campaigns for other people, talked with some possible alternatives to Goodell including Bill Casey, he was startled to learn that the ghost of Priscilla Alden was still around. The "other candidates" said, in effect, "Why don't you speak for yourself, Clif?"

* * *

White most assuredly prefers to be a man behind the scenes. He has been prominent in Eisenhower, Nixon, Goldwater, and Reagan national politics. But what a candidate he would make in upstate New York!

He is a graduate of Colgate University in the pretty Chenango Valley. He taught for a time in the upstate public school system before becoming a professor at Cornell and at Ithaca College. He was Republican city chairman in Ithaca. He has been State President of the New York Young Republicans, and acting secretary of the Republican State Committee. He was once the Executive Deputy Commissioner of Motor Vehicles under Tom Dewey.

In brief, like Charles Goodell, he is very much a native upstate son. But he never deserted his own to go running after Manhattan liberals who, though they may vote for a Republican child of the pavements like Jack Javits, would never go for anybody in force from the Chatauqua or Finger Lake country.

Accept N. Vietnam Domination, Senator Tells U.S. Officials

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright says the United States should accept North Vietnam's domination of Indochina as a political fact of life that poses no threat to American security.

"North Vietnam is far too small a power to have any serious hope of conquering all of Southeast Asia, much less of posing any kind of a threat to the United States," the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said Thursday.

His Senate speech came during a new round of discussions on U.S. policy toward Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia. Senators of both parties began throwing their support behind a French proposal for an all-Indochinese conference to neutralize the three countries

Fulbright also supported the conference idea, but he declared it makes little difference—to the United States and to the area's inhabitants — who rules Indochina.

"The plain fact that comes out of the war in Vietnam—reinforced by recent events in Laos and perhaps Cambodia as well —is that, puny as it is by great power standards, North Vietnam is the paramount power in Indochina," he declared.

"We ought to welcome North Vietnam's pre-eminence in Indochina, because while North Vietnam has shown itself strong enough to dominate Indochina if let alone by outside powers, it has also shown itself willing and able to resist Chinese domination."

He emphasized he is not advocating a Communist-dominated Indochina. "I merely propose to accept it, if it arises from the local power situation, as something unwelcome but tolerable, and most emphatically not worth the extravagant costs of a war like the one we are now fighting."

Fulbright said from the standpoint of U.S. security, "the central fact about Indochina is that it does not matter very much who rules in those small and backward lands."

Sens. Fred R. Harris, D-Okla., and James B. Pearson, R-Kan., introduced a resolution to put the Senate on record in support of an all-Indochinese conference on neutrality.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers, after testifying three hours before Fulbright's committee, said the administration is studying the French plan, adding, "we are interested in any kind of negotiations that could lead to peace."

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield threw his support behind the conference plan. Harris said the purpose of the resolution is "to strengthen the administration's hand" in starting negotiations

The foreign relations session dealt mainly with Cambodia, and key members who have warned against U.S. involvement in that country said they were pleased by Rogers' assurances.

But Sen. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., said he plans to offer a bill barring American troops from Cambodia. Congress last year banned U.S. ground combat troops from Laos and Thailand.

Rogers said he told the committee the purpose of U.S. policy is "to guarantee the neutrality of Cambodia" and said he hopes North Vietnam will do so, too.

But Fulbright charged Nixon has adopted the Johnson administration's objective of seeking "to preserve some kind of American military foothold, either directly or by proxy, in an alien sphere of influence."

Opening lead—queen of diamonds.

There is such a thing as having too much imagination at the bridge table. It may be all right in a given situation to think about every last possibility, but, unless your judgment is exceptionally fine, this excess of zeal may do more harm than good. There are very few occasions in bridge where the simple game is not the best game.

Let's assume you're East and the bidding goes as shown. Your partner leads the queen and another diamond, which you win with the king.

Of course, you would now cash the king of spades — and that would be the end of the matter as the cards happen to lie. You would collect 100 points and probably go on to the next deal without further thought.

But the player who actually held the East hand did not follow this simple course of play. After winning the second diamond, his imagination began to churn violently. He saw that if he cashed the king of spades and it turned out that South had a singleton, declarer could establish two spade tricks in dummy by leading the J-10 through his A-Q.

So, to stop this from happening, East led the club queen at trick three. He thought that if South had a spade to lose he would still lose it.

East was almost — but not quite — right. South won with the king and started to draw trumps. Not only that, but he led out each and every one of his trumps, keeping the A-9 of clubs in dummy. In his own hand, at this point, South had the nine of spades and a club.

But poor East, on the last trump, had to choose a discard from his holding of the J-10 of clubs and ace of spades. He couldn't discard successfully, so South made five hearts doubled.

NBC Employes Ink 3-Year Pact

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Broadcasting Co. and the National Association of Broadcast Employes and Technicians have announced tentative agreement on a three-year contract.

NBC said Friday the agreement was subject to ratification by the 1,400 NABET members employed by network television and radio studios and company-owned stations across the country.

The tentative agreement, reached in San Diego, was announced after NABET had indefinitely postponed plans for a strike beginning Friday night. The company said the agreement removed any threat of a strike.

The tentative agreement reportedly called for a $55 weekly wage increase over three years.

Premature Grey Not Bad, Young Girl Told

Dear Ann Landers: I realize the chances that you will print my letter are one in a million but it's worth the try. I'm a 16-year-old girl whose hair is turning gray. Premature gray runs in our family and there's nothing I can do about it.

The kids at school have begun to notice and I get teased a little. Although I laugh it off, it bothers me.

Can you suggest a rinse that will not look artificial? My natural hair color is dark brown. Thank you.—Old Before My Time

Dear O. B.: You can go to a beauty shop and get some professional counsel. The decision should be made by an operator who can look at your hair and advise you on the basis of color, texture and style.

If I were you, though, I'd leave it alone. A high school girl with prematurely gray hair would be a standout in any crowd.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: I'd like to say something to that big mouth who is obviously a manhater from way back. True, girls don't get themselves pregnant but most of them know what causes pregnancy and it is their responsibility to avoid it.

The letter made it plain that the boy did his darndest to get rid of the girl but she chased him shamelessly and finally wore him down. I know how predatory females operate because a certain sex-bomb has been chasing me all over the campus for two years.

I've never asked her for a date. I've never given her a phone call, in fact, I don't give her the time of day. But she turns up wherever I happen to be, greets me with hugs and kisses, slobbers all over my face, and I can't get rid of her. Once she was waiting for me outside the men's john.

Not all males are strong, Ann. I can understand how a guy can be taken advantage of if he doesn't have good sense and will power. Just sign me—Hate Aggressive Females

Dear H. A. F.: What do you have that's so special? My readers will surely be asking me. What shall I tell them? I've never heard of a man being raped by a woman but if you don't reduce the animal magnetism you might be the first. Have you considered a chastity belt?

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: How can I get rid of a creep who won't give up? I'm a 16-year-old girl who knows lots of answers but not this one. To make matters worse my mom thinks this kid is great.

Whenever he calls on the phone Mom is so friendly it encourages him. Every time Mom and I get into a discussion about this pest we end up in a fight. She keeps wanting to know why I don't like him. I tell her it is because he is so sweet and attentive he makes me sick to my stomach. She says this is a crazy reason. Do you know what I mean? Please put it into words for me. I'm—Stymied

Dear Stymied: Yeah, I know what you mean. No challenge. Some girls can't stand a guy who is decent and considerate. They find life much more exciting when they are kicked around. I hope for your sake that you change your tune.

Under Escanaba's council-manager form of government the mayor theoretically does not wield any more power than the presiding officer's gavel, but practically the mayor sits in a leadership position and can exert considerable influence over fellow councilmen.

Candidates for the four year term (two to be elected) are Harold F. Cloutier, John W. Curran, Ronald DeVos, Albin S. Pearson Jr., and Jon R. Taylor. Candidates for the two year term (one to be elected) are Leo Alperovitz, Richard J. Pryal and Eugene O. Slagstad.

In Gladstone, where the city's new voting machines will be used for the first time, the city by electing Constance Verhamme could put the first woman ever to serve on the city's commission into office.

The other candidates for the two three-year terms are incumbent Douglas Bovin, Elmer Caron, Thomas Elegeert and William Smith.

At Manistique, four men are seeking two seats on the City Council for four-year terms. They are Daniel C. Barber, Raymond L. Krusic, Thor Reque, incumbent and Douglas D. Rose.

* * *

The issues in local elections — council, commission, school board or county board — seldom are very apparent to most voters for several reasons. For one thing, in small communities friends run against friends and as such are reluctant to voice strong attacks against a neighbor or business associate. Secondly, the majority of the slate generally is made up of newcomers to public life and outside of personal accomplishments in community affairs have little in the way of "record" to either advance or defend. Even incumbent councilmen and commissioners, while they can inject the argument of experience, rarely have to worry about their voting record while in office. Most of the decisions of a commission, council or board come by unanimous vote and if the city is running smoothly complaints are not often sounded. As elections draw nearer, governing units also display a remarkable consistency — not only on the local level, but in state and national contests as well — to avoid action on any subject which carries the least bit of controversy.

In addition, the time between the deadline for filing nominating petitions and election day is too short to develop much of a meaningful dialogue on community affairs. Campaign messages are remarkably similar. Even such worth while programs as the "Meet The Candidates" program arranged by the League of Women Voters and the "Evening With The Candidates" broadcast in Escanaba and Gladstone this year by American Cablevision have limited range. Candidates are quick to point out "problems" but guarded about proposals for solution.

So voters will go to the polls Monday armed with a slate of names, a little background — residence address, occupation, community involvements — on the persons behind the names and their own personal observations.

It doesn't seem a very sound basis on which to ballot, but that's all the system provides and it has to be enough. What comes out of the ballot boxes may well determine the direction of each community in the months and years ahead.

That's why the election is so vital. It's every citizen's duty and responsibility to exercise his voting franchise to help determine who will make those decisions. Once the polls are closed, the precious opportunity to help govern is lost until the next election. Be sure to vote! That message is one which can't be repeated too often.

Republicans Search New York Candidate

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The New York State political scene is a snake pit.

Republicans and Democrats never know in advance of choosing nominees whether they will be taken on the flank by the Liberal Party, the Conservative Party, the ethnic Italians who don't worry about labels, or by the New York City Jewish population which goes for Liberals or Reform Democrats when Republican Jacob Javits isn't backing someone in his own party who is even more liberal than himself.

Knowing that calculation is chancy from a distance, the White House has kept its hands off Republican Gov. Nelson Rockefeller. They have figured that he is a winner anyway, and they want desperately to see a Republican State government in Albany after the 1970 Census is taken and the boys get around to redistricting.

So when Rockefeller insisted that the party select his appointee, Sen. Charles Goodell, to run for a Senate term in his own right, the White House swallowed its distaste. Charlie Goodell, who had a conservative record in the House before he became a Senator, is even worse than Bill Fulbright or Gene McCarthy when it comes to slandering President Nixon's foreign policy.

Curiously, Rockefeller doesn't go for Goodell's positions. But Goodell is a nominal Republican from upstate New York, and Rockefeller thinks he needs him on the ticket.

* * *

This, however, was before the Democrats began lining up behind Arthur Goldberg, the former U. S. Ambassador to the UN, for governor. The polls show Goldberg running ahead of Rockefeller. Nelson's checkbook is potent when it comes to underwriting campaign expenses, but what if Goldberg's appeal to liberals, labor leaders and orthodox Democrats can hold off Rockefeller at the wire?

So we come back to Sen. Goodell. It is late in the day to find an attractive Republican to oppose him, and he will probably receive the nomination by default. But if he can't help Rockefeller, and stands to sabotage Nixon in the Senate, who needs him?

If Rocky persists in running with Goodell, it will certainly enrage both the small-c conservative Republicans and the Capital C Conservative Party. This gives the Big-C Conservatives a veto power in the election.

If they run a good man for governor on their own, they can undoubtedly throw the winning margin to Goldberg. And it is very likely that, with a good Senatorial candidate, they can take enough votes away from the Republicans to put a Democrat in the Senate.

* * *

Why can't Rockefeller see this?

If he were to get behind an acceptable candidate for Senator, the Conservatives might withdraw their long-standing objections to Rocky. At the very least they might put sacrificial nonentities on their ticket and wink at desertions by their rank-and-file.

But who can go up against Goodell at this late hour? Rocky has scared off the Albany pros.

State Sen. John Marchi, who defeated John V. Lindsay in the New York Republican New York City mayoralty primary, has bowed out. He did this before Goldberg altered the name of the game, but it is doubtful that he would now change his mind. William J. Casey, a Long Island lawyer who backs Nixon's foreign policies and was called upon by the White House to help win the ABM public relations fight, made a gesture toward running a short while ago, and he might still be available.

A curious thing, however, happened the other day. When F. Clifton White, who specializes in running campaigns for other people, talked with some possible alternatives to Goodell including Bill Casey, he was startled to learn that the ghost of Priscilla Alden was still around. The "other candidates" said, in effect, "Why don't you speak for yourself, Clif?"

* * *

White most assuredly prefers to be a man behind the scenes. He has been prominent in Eisenhower, Nixon, Goldwater, and Reagan national politics. But what a candidate he would make in upstate New York!

He is a graduate of Colgate University in the pretty Chenango Valley. He taught for a time in the upstate public school system before becoming a professor at Cornell and at Ithaca College. He was Republican city chairman in Ithaca. He has been State President of the New York Young Republicans, and acting secretary of the Republican State Committee. He was once the Executive Deputy Commissioner of Motor Vehicles under Tom Dewey.

In brief, like Charles Goodell, he is very much a native upstate son. But he never derested his own to go running after Manhattan liberals who, though they may vote for a Republican child of the pavements like Jack Javits, would never go for anybody in force from the Chatauqua or Finger Lake country.

Accept N. Vietnam Domination, Senator Tells U.S. Officials

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright says the United States should accept North Vietnam's domination of Indochina as a political fact of life that poses no threat to American security.

"North Vietnam is far too small a power to have any serious hope of conquering all of Southeast Asia, much less of posing any kind of a threat to the United States," the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said Thursday.

His Senate speech came during a new round of discussions on U.S. policy toward Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia. Senators of both parties began throwing their support behind a French proposal for an all-Indochinese conference to neutralize the three countries.

Fulbright also supported the conference idea, but he declared it makes little difference—to the United States and to the area's inhabitants — who rules Indochina.

"The plain fact that comes out of the war in Vietnam—reinforced by recent events in Laos and perhaps Cambodia as well —is that, puny as it is by great power standards, North Vietnam is the paramount power in Indochina," he declared.

"We ought to welcome North Vietnam's pre-eminence in Indochina, because while North Vietnam has shown itself strong enough to dominate Indochina if let alone by outside powers, it has also shown itself willing and able to resist Chinese domination."

He emphasized he is not advocating a Communist-dominated Indochina. "I merely propose to accept it, if it arises from the local power situation, as something unwelcome but tolerable, and most emphatically not worth the extravagant costs of a war like the one we are now fighting."

Fulbright said from the standpoint of U.S. security, "the central fact about Indochina is that it does not matter very much who rules in those small and backward lands."

Sens. Fred R. Harris, D-Okla., and James B. Pearson, R-Kan., introduced a resolution to put the Senate on record in support of an all-Indochinese conference on neutrality.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers, after testifying three hours before Fulbright's committee, said the administration is studying the French plan, adding, "we are interested in any kind of negotiations that could lead to peace."

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield threw his support behind the conference plan. Harris said the purpose of the resolution is "to strengthen the administration's hand" in starting negotiations.

The foreign relations session dealt mainly with Cambodia, and key members who have warned against U.S. involvement in that country said they were pleased by Rogers' assurances.

But Sen. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., said he plans to offer a bill barring American troops from Cambodia. Congress last year banned U.S. ground combat troops from Laos and Thailand.

Rogers said he told the committee the purpose of U.S. policy is "to guarantee the neutrality of Cambodia" and said he hopes North Vietnam will do so, too.

But Fulbright charged Nixon has adopted the Johnson administration's objective of seeking "to preserve some kind of American military foothold, either directly or by proxy, in an alien sphere of influence."

Opening lead—queen of diamonds.

There is such a thing as having too much imagination at the bridge table. It may be all right in a given situation to think about every last possibility, but, unless your judgment is exceptionally fine, this excess of zeal may do more harm than good. There are very few occasions in bridge where the simple game is not the best game.

Let's assume you're East and the bidding goes as shown. Your partner leads the queen and another diamond, which you win with the king.

Of course, you would now cash the king of spades — and that would be the end of the matter as the cards happen to lie. You would collect 100 points and probably go on to the next deal without further thought.

But the player who actually held the East hand did not follow tnis simple course of play. After winning the second diamond, his imagination began to churn violently. He saw that if he cashed the king of spades and it turned out that South had a singleton, declarer could establish two spade tricks in dummy by leading the J-10 through his A-Q.

So, to stop this from happening, East led the club queen at trick three. He thought that if South had a spade to lose he would still lose it.

East was almost — but not quite — right. South won with the king and started to draw trumps. Not only that, but he led out each and every one of his trumps, keeping the A-9 of clubs in dummy. In his own hand, at this point, South had the nine of spades and a club.

But poor East, on the last trump, had to choose a discard from his holding of the J-10 of clubs and ace of spades. He couldn't discard successfully, so South made five hearts doubled.

NBC Employes Ink 3-Year Pact

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Broadcasting Co. and the National Association of Broadcast Employes and Technicians have announced tentative agreement on a three-year contract.

NBC said Friday the agreement was subject to ratification by the 1,400 NABET members employed by network television and radio studios and company-owned stations across the country.

The tentative agreement, reached in San Diego, was announced after NABET had indefinitely postponed plans for a strike beginning Friday night. The company said the agreement removed any threat of a strike.

The tentative agreement reportedly called for a $55 weekly wage increase over three years.

Premature Grey Not Bad, Young Girl Told

Dear Ann Landers: I realize the chances that you will print my letter are one in a million but it's worth the try. I'm a 16-year-old girl whose hair is turning gray. Premature gray runs in our family and there's nothing I can do about it.

The kids at school have begun to notice and I get teased a little. Although I laugh it off, it bothers me.

Can you suggest a rinse that will not look artificial? My natural hair color is dark brown. Thank you.—Old Before My Time

Dear O. B.: You can go to a beauty shop and get some professional counsel. The decision should be made by an operator who can look at your hair and advise you on the basis of color, texture and style.

If I were you, though, I'd leave it alone. A high school girl with prematurely gray hair would be a standout in any crowd.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: I'd like to say something to that big mouth who is obviously a man-hater from way back. True, girls don't get themselves pregnant but most of them know what causes pregnancy and it is their responsibility to avoid it.

The letter made it plain that the boy did his darndest to get rid of the girl but she chased him shamelessly and finally wore him down. I know how predatory females operate because a certain sex-bomb has been chasing me all over the campus for two years.

I've never asked her for a date. I've never given her a phone call, in fact, I don't give her the time of day. But she turns up wherever I happen to be, greets me with hugs and kisses, slobbers all over my face, and I can't get rid of her. Once she was waiting for me outside the men's john.

Not all males are strong, Ann. I can understand how a guy can be taken advantage of if he doesn't have good sense and will power. Just sign me—Hate Aggressive Females

Dear H. A. F.: What do you have that's so special? My readers will surely be asking me. What shall I tell them? I've never heard of a man being raped by a woman but if you don't reduce the animal magnetism you might be the first. Have you considered a chastity belt?

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: How can I get rid of a creep who won't give up? I'm a 16-year-old girl who knows lots of answers but not this one. To make matters worse my mom thinks this kid is great.

Whenever he calls on the phone Mom is so friendly it encourages him. Every time Mom and I get into a discussion about this pest we end up in a fight. She keeps wanting to know why I don't like him. I tell her it is because he is so sweet and attentive he makes me sick to my stomach. She says this is a crazy reason. Do you know what I mean? Please put it into words for me. I'm—Stymied

Dear Stymied: Yeah, I know what you mean. No challenge. Some girls can't stand a guy who is decent and considerate. They find life much more exciting when they are kicked around. I hope for your sake that you change your tune.

NMU Graduates Improve Wages

MARQUETTE—Starting salaries for 1969 graduates of Northern Michigan University increased by more than 5.8 per cent over the previous year.

A report published by NMU's Placement Office shows that non-teaching graduates received an average salary of $8,172, up 7.0 per cent from 1968. The salary of those entering the teaching profession averaged $6,617, a jump of 4.4 per cent.

In the non-teaching area, the reported salaries for Northern's 1,035 graduates ranged from $10,500 at the top to $7,080 for new graduates in business administration, social service and liberal arts.

Graduates in education reported salaries ranging from $5,580 to $8,000, with special education and the sciences receiving the highest offers.

Four Interviews

The graduates averaged more than four interviews each, as representatives of 542 schools, business firms and governmental agencies made 4,350 recruiting visits to the campus.

Approximately 417 of the 644 graduates entering the teaching profession accepted jobs in Michigan. The rest accepted employment in one of 30 other states and six foreign countries. Of this latter total, 89 found employment in Wisconsin, mostly in the northeastern region.

In Michigan, Marquette County schools employed the greatest number of teaching graduates with 57, followed by Oakland with 30, Macomb with 27 and Wayne with 24.

Northern's 247 non-teaching graduates were placed in seven states. Agencies and firms employing the graduates ranged from Consumers Power Co., Jackson, to Abbott Laboratories, Chicago, Ill.

Demand For Teachers

Northern graduates reported "the type of work I do" as being the primary factor in accepting a position. Location of the job was the next highest for teaching graduates, while the opportunity for advancement was the second reason listed by non-teachers. Both groups ranked fringe benefits last among the seven reasons listed.

The demand for elementary teachers remained high, as Northern's placement office recorded 16,902 requests for the 177 seniors enrolled in the elementary education curriculum.

Areas of demand for high school teachers and the number of graduating seniors available included: special education, 3,483 requests, 30 students; English, 1,515 requests, 66 students; music, 1,336 requests, 18 students; industrial education, 1,310 requests, 67 graduates; mathematics, 1,256 requests, 35 students.

Keith Forsberg, director of placement, also reported that his office assisted 851 alumni in obtaining new employment in 29 states and Africa.

Judges Ignore Massachusetts War Ruling

BOSTON (AP) — Two federal judges have refused to block shipment of a Massachusetts soldier to Vietnam while his lawyers test a new state law that challenges the legality of the Vietnam war.

The law, signed Thursday by Republican Gov. Francis W. Sargent, says that, except for emergencies, "no inhabitant of the commonwealth . . . shall be required to serve" in foreign wars where there has been no declaration of war by Congress.

State Atty. Gen. Robert H. Quinn said that in a little more than 24 hours after the law took effect 10 Massachusetts servicemen asked his office to take legal action to spare them Vietnam duty.

The activity in the federal courts involved John Griffin, 22, of Holyoke, an infantryman under orders to report today at Ft. Dix, N.J., for assignment to Vietnam. Griffin was drafted last July.

His lawyers, Joseph S. Oteri and Monroe L. Inker, asked the courts to issue a temporary restraining order barring the government from sending Griffin outside the United States.

Oteri and Inker went first on Friday to Judge Andrew A. Caffrey in U.S. District Court. Caffrey denied their petition with the explanation that he lacked jurisdiction, because Griffin was stationed in New Jersey.

The lawyers then appealed to Chief Judge Bailey Aldrich of the 1st Circuit Court of Appeals. Aldrich denied the appeal without comment.

The lawyers said they might file a new appeal in New Jersey Monday.

They said they want to insure that Griffin would remain in the United States pending a court test of the law. Some legislative opponents of the law asaid they believe it is unconstitutional.

Weather Takes Turn For Better

By The Associated Press

Fair skies prevailed over a large part of the nation today, but April's first weekend was chilly from the Rockies to the Appalachians.

Snow fell from southern Colorado and northern New Mexico to eastern Kansas. Light rain dampened parts of the Midwest and the central Appalachians and occasionally turned to snow.

Genuinely warm weather was confined to far southern sections of the country. Overnight temperatures in the 20s and 30s were common through the midcontinent. The northern Rockies cooled down to the teens or lower.

Suomi Singers To Tour State

HANCOCK — The Suomi Singers, 29 students from Suomi College, will tour part of the Upper Peninsula and northern Lower Michigan April 9-15, presenting vocal and instrumental musical concerts.

The Singers tour includes a total of 19 public performances and ends with the annual Homecoming concert at Suomi.

Snelgrove Ends Career At Tech

HOUGHTON — A prominent geologist at Michigan Technological University has announced his retirement to become a visiting professor in Ankara, Turkey.

Dr. A. K. Snelgrove, who joined the MTU faculty in 1940, will assist in setting up a department of geology at Middle East Technical University. The institution was established in the mid-1950s through the United Nations. His professorship will be sponsored by the Agency for International Development.

FISHERY ZONE MANAGEMENT PLAN AS IT AFFECTS YOU!

LEGEND
Rehabilitation Zone — Commercial Fishing Zone — Sport Fishing Development Zone

Is your future sports fishing or the recreation dollar value it generotes worth 10 post cards and 10 minutes to you?

We are now beginning to see an increase in our sport game fish here. Coho, lake trout, rainbows, browns, northern pike and we have high hope for the others. This has been brought about by the D.N.R. planting programs and the zone management plan. One is not effective without the other!

We believe the sports fishing zones have been badly needed for years and worth fighting for to retain them. Note: commercial fishing is permitted in their zone and they will be allowed to harvest any surplus when good fish populations are restored in rehabilitation zones. This fine plan is in danger! It passed Nov. 7, 1969 but opponents have forced a new hearing. Write a postcard to each of the votes that count, as listed below . . . Today! Three basic kinds of monagement areas, or zones, are prescribed:

SPORT FISHING DEVELOPMENT ZONES — These generally will be closed to all commercial fishing. They are inshore areas with either an actual or potential high-quality sport fishery and will be managed to expand sport opportunities.

REHABILITATION ZONES — These will be open to commercial fishing but on closely regulated basis. Aim is to protect such endangered fish species as perch, walleyes and herring and, hopefully, to restore them to former abundance. Management efforts will be directed at increasing both commercial and sport fishing potential.

COMMERCIAL FISHING ZONES — These are the traditionally productive commercial fishing areas, and they will be managed with the interests of that industry foremost.

The Commission adopted the plan after hearing considerable expressed opposition from commercial fishermen, many of whom fear they will be forced out of business. Unquestionably, the total number of commercial fishermen will be further reduced. Their numbers have been slowly declining for many years as the quality of the fishery deteriorated.

Department fish biologists believe, however, that zone management will allow more commercial fishermen to operate, at least in the short-term future, than would a direct "limited entry" system which was an alternative possibility.

In voting unanimously for the plan, the five Commissioners individually charged the Department to apply the utmost flexibility in management so as to minimize hardships to individual commercial fishermen.

Commission Chairman August F. Scholle said he believed the zone plan would turn out to be the salvation of the commercial industry. He noted that Michigan had 1,460 licensed commercial fishermen in 1950 but only 350 this year, and predicted those 350 would soon be gone if nothing were done to bring the Great Lakes under firm management control.

NMU Graduates Improve Wages

MARQUETTE—Starting salaries for 1969 graduates of Northern Michigan University increased by more than 5.8 per cent over the previous year.

A report published by NMU's Placement Office shows that non-teaching graduates received an average salary of $8,172, up 7.0 per cent from 1968. The salary of those entering the teaching profession averaged $6,617, a jump of 4.4 per cent.

In the non-teaching area, the reported salaries for Northern's 1,035 graduates ranged from $10,500 at the top to $7,080 for new graduates in business administration, social service and liberal arts.

Graduates in education reported salaries ranging from $5,580 to $8,000, with special education and the sciences receiving the highest offers.

Four Interviews

The graduates averaged more than four interviews each, as representatives of 542 schools, business firms and governmental agencies made 4,350 recruiting visits to the campus.

Approximately 417 of the 644 graduates entering the teaching profession accepted jobs in Michigan. The rest accepted employment in one of 30 other states and six foreign countries. Of this latter total, 89 found employment in Wisconsin, mostly in the northeastern region.

In Michigan, Marquette County schools employed the greatest number of teaching graduates with 57, followed by Oakland with 30, Macomb with 27 and Wayne with 24.

Northern's 247 non-teaching graduates were placed in seven states. Agencies and firms employing the graduates ranged from Consumers Power Co., Jackson, to Abbott Laboratories, Chicago, Ill.

Demand For Teachers

Northern graduates reported "the type of work I do" as being the primary factor in accepting a position. Location of the job was the next highest for teaching graduates, while the opportunity for advancement was the second reason listed by non-teachers. Both groups ranked fringe benefits last among the seven reasons listed.

The demand for elementary teachers remained high, as Northern's placement office recorded 16,902 requests for the 177 seniors enrolled in the elementary education curriculum.

Areas of demand for high school teachers and the number of graduating seniors available included: special education, 3,483 requests, 30 students; English, 1,515 requests, 66 students; music, 1,336 requests, 18 students; industrial education, 1,310 requests, 67 graduates; mathematics, 1,256 requests, 35 students.

Keith Forsberg, director of placement, also reported that his office assisted 851 alumni in obtaining new employment in 29 states and Africa.

Judges Ignore Massachusetts War Ruling

BOSTON (AP) — Two federal judges have refused to block shipment of a Massachusetts soldier to Vietnam while his lawyers test a new state law that challenges the legality of the Vietnam war.

The law, signed Thursday by Republican Gov. Francis W. Sargent, says that, except for emergencies, "no inhabitant of the commonwealth . . . shall be required to serve" in foreign wars where there has been no declaration of war by Congress.

State Atty. Gen. Robert H. Quinn said that in a little more than 24 hours after the law took effect 10 Massachusetts servicemen asked his office to take legal action to spare them Vietnam duty.

The activity in the federal courts involved John Griffin, 22, of Holyoke, an infantryman under orders to report today at Ft. Dix, N.J., for assignment to Vietnam. Griffin was drafted last July.

His lawyers, Joseph S. Oteri and Monroe L. Inker, asked the courts to issue a temporary restraining order barring the government from sending Griffin outside the United States.

Oteri and Inker went first on Friday to Judge Andrew A. Caffrey in U.S. District Court. Caffrey denied their petition with the explanation that he lacked jurisdiction, because Griffin was stationed in New Jersey.

The lawyers then appealed to Chief Judge Bailey Aldrich of the 1st Circuit Court of Appeals. Aldrich denied the appeal without comment.

The lawyers said they might file a new appeal in New Jersey Monday.

They said they want to insure that Griffin would remain in the United States pending a court test of the law. Some legislative opponents of the law asaid they believe it is unconstitutional.

Weather Takes Turn For Better

By The Associated Press

Fair skies prevailed over a large part of the nation today, but April's first weekend was chilly from the Rockies to the Appalachians.

Snow fell from southern Colorado and northern New Mexico to eastern Kansas. Light rain dampened parts of the Midwest and the central Appalachians and occasionally turned to snow.

Genuinely warm weather was confined to far southern sections of the country. Overnight temperatures in the 20s and 30s were common through the midcontinent. The northern Rockies cooled down to the teens or lower.

Suomi Singers To Tour State

HANCOCK — The Suomi Singers, 29 students from Suomi College, will tour part of the Upper Peninsula and northern Lower Michigan April 9-15, presenting vocal and instrumental musical concerts.

The Singers tour includes a total of 19 public performances and ends with the annual Homecoming concert at Suomi.

Snelgrove Ends Career At Tech

HOUGHTON — A prominent geologist at Michigan Technological University has announced his retirement to become a visiting professor in Ankara, Turkey.

Dr. A. K. Snelgrove, who joined the MTU faculty in 1940, will assist in setting up a department of geology at Middle East Technical University. The institution was established in the mid-1950s through the United Nations. His professorship will be sponsored by the Agency for International Development.

Mrs. Earl J. Groleau (Gordon Nelson Studio)

Mary C. Coon, Earl J. Groleau Are Wed

Mary C. Coon of Escanaba became the bride of Earl J. Groleau of Rapid River during a double ring ceremony performed at 12 noon today, April 4 at St. Joseph's Church in Escanaba.

The Rev. Fabian Gerstle heard the solemn exchange of vows. Soloist at the Nuptial Mass was Mrs. Steve Powers of Milwaukee (the former Molly Larsen) cousin of the bride.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. James E. Coon, 1022 10th Ave. S. and the late James Coon. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Emil Groleau of Rte. 3, Rapid River.

Dotted Swiss

The bride, given in marriage by her grandfather, Herbert Tumath, wore a floor length filmy gown of dotted Swiss with Venise lace trim. The gown was fashioned with an Empire bodice, high collor, long cuffed sleeves and a chapel train.

A fresh flower headpiece secured her silk illusion veil and she carried a white basket filled with baby's breath, pompons, daisies and ivy.

Spring Colors

They were attired in floor length dotted Swiss gowns with lace trim in spring colors of blue, yellow, green, tangerine and aqua, styled with high necklines and Bishop's sleeves.

They wore fresh flowers in their hair to match their gowns and they carried baskets of carnations tinted to match their attire.

Miniature Bride

JoAnn Olson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Olson of Bay View, was the miniature bride and wore a replica of the bride's gown. She carried a white basket filled with spring flowers of assorted colors. John Malnar of Marquette and Ronald Malnar of Gladstone, cousins of the bride, were the ringbearers.

Serving as best man was George Majestic of Rapid River and groomsmen were 1st Lt. Marvin Coon of Savannah, Ga. and Dennis Coon of Lansing, brothers of the bride, John Anderson of Escanaba and John Wolfe of Rapid River. Seating the guests were Kirk Erickson of Gladstone and James Coon of Detroit.

Mothers' Attire

The bride's mother chose for her daughter's wedding a three piece gold ensemble with matching accessories and she was presented a cymbidium orchid corsage in gold tones. Mrs. Groleau selected a green dress and coat ensemble with matching accessories and she pinned a cymbidium orchid corsage in green tones. Grandmothers of the couple were also presented corsages.

Reception

The wedding reception is being held this afternoon from 4 to 8 at the Dutch Mill and will be followed by a dance. After a wedding trip through the U. P., the couple will reside at 1022 10th Ave. S.

The bride is a graduate of Escanaba Area High School and attended Bay de Noc Community College. Mr. Groleau is a Rapid River High School graduate and also graduated from Bryant & Stratton College in Milwaukee.

Mrs. Gerold L. Latsch

Gail Lynne Newborn, Gerold L. Latsch Wed

The United Methodist Church of Germfask was the setting Saturday, March 21 for the wedding of Gail Lynne Newborn and Gerold Leon Latsch, both of Germfask.

The Rev. R. Wyllys of McMillan officiated at the double ring nuptials at 2 p.m. Organist for the service was Mrs. Leonard Englund.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Newborn of Germfask and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Cecil H. Latsch, also of Germfask.

White Lace

The bride, chose for her wedding a floor length white lace dress styled with a rounded neckline, topped with a floor length matching lace coat fashioned with long cuffed sleeves with ruffle trim.

A pearl crown held her fingertip illusion veil and she carried a cascade bouquet of deep red roses and stephanotis.

Honor attendants for the couple were Barbara Holbrook, the bride's cousin and Lynn Latsch of Kalamazoo, brother of the bridegroom. Performing ushering duties was Earl Holbrook.

Pastel Blue

Miss Holbrook was attired in a floor length pastel blue taffeta gown with a matching whimsie headpiece. She carried a pink and white carnation bouquet.

Mothers of the bridal couple were presented orchid corsages and Mrs. Emmett Crawn, the bridegroom's grandmother pinned a mum corsage.

Reception

The reception was held at the Germfask School beginning at 4:30 p.m. and assisting with duties were Mrs. Charles Holbrook, Nancy Thibideau and Mrs. William Miller.

The newlyweds will reside in Sault Ste. Marie, where the bridegroom is presently attending Lake Superior College. Both young people are graduates of Manistique High School and the bride also attended Badger State Secretarial School in Green Bay.

Home League Meets Tuesday

The Salvation Army Home League will meet at 2 p. m. Tuesday at the Temple. The Rev. and Mrs. Merle Amundson of the Bark River Bible Church will present vocal selections and the Rev. Amundson will be the guest speaker for the day.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Truman Robinson and Mrs. Dan Evans.

Annual Dinner Planned Sunday At St. Michael's

PERRONVILLE — The Holy Name Society of St. Michael's Church in Perronville is hosting their annual sausage and corn beef dinner Sunday, April 5, serving from 11 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. in the parish hall.

Charles Wanic, president of the Holy Name Society, is general chairman in charge of arrangements for the dinner and he will be assisted by: John Bartoszek, preparation of Polish sausage; Al Mott, corn beef peparation; Mike Sape, publicity; Raymond Luchay and Leonard Gatien, tickets.

High school boys of the parish are in charge of setting the tables and serving and other members of the Holy Name Society will work in the kitchen helping with preparation and cleanup. Since the proceeds will benefit the entire parish family, all members of the parish are to bring a cake or salad for the dinner.

The public is invited to attend this annual affair and tickets may be obtained from members of the Holy Name Society or at the door. Dinner guests are also welcome to worship with the parish family at the 11:30 a.m. Mass.

Covenant Women To Meet Monday

Evangelical Covenant Church Women will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the church. The program for the evening will include a Bible film strip followed by a travel talk on the Eastern states by Mrs. Philip Rabine. Colored slides will also be shown.

Hostesses for the evening will be Mrs. Karl Bosk and Mrs. David Erickson. All Covenant Women are invited to attend as well as other interested persons.

Mrs. Earl J. Groleau (Gordon Nelson Studio)

Mary C. Coon, Earl J. Groleau Are Wed

Mary C. Coon of Escanaba became the bride of Earl J. Groleau of Rapid River during a double ring ceremony performed at 12 noon today, April 4 at St. Joseph's Church in Escanaba.

The Rev. Fabian Gerstle heard the solemn exchange of vows. Soloist at the Nuptial Mass was Mrs. Steve Powers of Milwaukee (the former Molly Larsen) cousin of the bride.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. James E. Coon, 1022 10th Ave. S. and the late James Coon. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Emil Groleau of Rte. 3, Rapid River.

Dotted Swiss

The bride, given in marriage by her grandfather, Herbert Tumath, wore a floor length filmy gown of dotted Swiss with Venise lace trim. The gown was fashioned with an Empire bodice, high collor, long cuffed sleeves and a chapel train.

A fresh flower headpiece secured her silk illusion veil and she carried a white basket filled with baby's breath, pompons, daisies and ivy.

Spring Colors

They were attired in floor length dotted Swiss gowns with lace trim in spring colors of blue, yellow, green, tangerine and aqua, styled with high necklines and Bishop's sleeves.

They wore fresh flowers in their hair to match their gowns and they carried baskets of carnations tinted to match their attire.

Miniature Bride

JoAnn Olson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Olson of Bay View, was the miniature bride and wore a replica of the bride's gown. She carried a white basket filled with spring flowers of assorted colors. John Malnar of Marquette and Ronald Malnar of Gladstone, cousins of the bride, were the ringbearers.

Serving as best man was George Majestic of Rapid River and groomsmen were 1st Lt. Marvin Coon of Savannah, Ga. and Dennis Coon of Lansing, brothers of the bride, John Anderson of Escanaba and John Wolfe of Rapid River. Seating the guests were Kirk Erickson of Gladstone and James Coon of Detroit.

Mothers' Attire

The bride's mother chose for her daughter's wedding a three piece gold ensemble with matching accessories and she was presented a cymbidium orchid corsage in gold tones. Mrs. Groleau selected a green dress and coat ensemble with matching accessories and she pinned a cymbidium orchid corsage in green tones. Grandmothers of the couple were also presented corsages.

Reception

The wedding reception is being held this afternoon from 4 to 8 at the Dutch Mill and will be followed by a dance. After a wedding trip through the U. P., the couple will reside at 1022 10th Ave. S.

The bride is a graduate of Escanaba Area High School and attended Bay de Noc Community College. Mr. Groleau is a Rapid River High School graduate and also graduated from Bryant & Stratton College in Milwaukee.

To have really succulent broiled chicken, allow ample time for the broiling process. It may take as long as 40 minutes to broil small broiler-fryes that have been cut into serving-size pieces.

Spring Is Sprouting All Over Escanaba

HA, YOU MISSED! These young men found time this week to play a game of marbles, a popular spring-time tradition. Left to right, Lee Olson, Steve Liscomb, Mike Baker, and Tom Westerberg. Tom's dog "Pepper" seems to be laughing at Mike after a bad shot. Below, Bob Korntved, 1328 Stephenson Ave., is sanding the paint on the "Rose of Sharon" in preparation of the sailing season ahead.

GOING UP? NOPE, COMING DOWN. The winter snows are leaving and it's time to remove the Parking restriction signs once again. Left to right, Gerald Eis, 1407 Stephenson Ave., and Julius Papineau, 1612 N. 20th St., city employes, do the job on U. S. 2 and 41 near the north city limits.

Photos By Lou Freeman

DRIVERS START YOUR ENGINES! Spring weather brings out the go-carts and mini-bikes. Preparing for a drag race is 13-year-old Mike Sundstrom, left, and James Walch, 10.

SO WHO NEEDS A SLIDE? Bruce Oshe climbs up the back side of a slide in Ludington Park and doesn't particularly care that the slides haven't been installed yet.

YOU THINK YOU GOT TROUBLES? Trees and kite strings will just never get along. Timmy Mayville, left, handles the kite while his brother Joe Mayville attempts to untangle the string from a tree.

Peas in a Pod?

All men are created equal! But their mothers see it differently. And their fathers don't hand out cigars simply to attest to their part in the population explosion.

It's natural to believe that our child is just a bit different from all the others.

Surely he has our love to start him off, our good sense to guide his development and our convictions to mold his.

Yes, our convictions! Are they stale religious cliches remembered vaguely from Sunday School lessons years ago? Or are they fresh, vigorous beliefs and commitments acquired through regular worship and spiritual searching?

Our child is different from all the others. His immediate heritage is a home built on our religious foundation.

Great Lakes' Ice: More Than A Cover

By DR. ERNEST MARSHALL
Dr. Marshall is Chief of the Ice and Snow Project, Great Lakes Research Center, Corps of Engineers.

Soon, a moisture-laden wind will sweep out of the Gulf, follow the Mississippi Valley north and spread out over the Great Lakes. Shippers will welcome the signal that winter's frozen grasp will soon be relaxed and full navigation of these vital waterways can begin anew.

In a period of only four months, a mere moment in geological time, the ice cover has become an extension of the land—an earth resource, and is now ready to revert back to a water resource.

The traditional interest has been in ice-versus-navigation, and ways to eliminate it, because of the economic factors which are involved. Today, however, we are equally concerned with the development of an understanding of the role of the ice canopy in Great Lakes oceanography. The complex role that it plays is only now being considered as an ecological link that must be thoroughly understood before a reasoned decision can be made as to whether extensive deicing technology is applied.

From an ecological viewpoint, the ice canopy spreads over the Great Lakes much like a heavy cloud cover over land. It restricts sunlight, changes the flow of currents and subtly alters the total water environment.

Many Uses of Ice

The role of the Great Lakes ice canopy varies with the stage of its development through the three to four months of the winter season. During the initial freeze-up period the felt-like ice cover is primarily a filter trap for organisms on the water surface and floating particulate matter. During the winter the ice sheet serves as a platform for airborne organic and inorganic sediments.

It also serves as a lid on the water surface to reduce turbulence, alter wind-driven currents, restrict absorption of oxygen, reduce evaporation and slow up the distribution of pollutants under the ice cover. It further serves as a platform for snows which sweep out atmospheric pollutants and include the chemical condensation nuclei.

Drifting masses of pressure ridges are the Great Lakes icebergs. They are like geologic plows when they run around and disturb both the bottom sediments and faunas.

The ice cover also introduces a retardation effect in calculating the flows out of the lakes and has to be accounted for in lake regulation plans.

Drifting Pollution

During the melting and breakup of the ice cover in the spring, meltwater puddles on the ice surface serve as natural petri-dishes to incubate organisms released from the ice, while melting snows serve as sites for the growth of algae which produce the "red snows."

Concentrations of windblown dusts develop thaw pits and the dirt itself serves to generate microclimates for the growth of organisms. Ice floes can act as drifting rafts of pollution which carry included matter far from its orginal site and release the pollution in a new area upon melting.

The one thing that we have learned, more important than any other factor, is that the rock-ice formation that covers the Great Lakes is a unique earth resource that needs to be more thoroughly investigated both on the ground and in the laboratory, as well as by techniques of remote sensing both from airborne and spaceborne platforms.

Major Questions

There are many things that we do not yet have the answers to: What effect would it have on the marine life if the distribution of this ice canopy were changed; what effect would it have on local weather conditions and agriculture if it didn't melt in its historic pattern.

How does this fit into the heightening competition between resource use possibilities, given the requirements of urbanization and industrialization and growing demands for environmental restoration and preservation; even to what effect the removal of this ice bridge would have on winter transportation between island communities and the mainland.

These are questions, among many others, that must be answered before a decision can be reached on the desirability of using deicing technologies in support of unlimited winter navigation. To answer those questions, resarch must continue and should be directed into these areas:

- Developing and utilizing airborne systems which can provide us with an all-weather capability — see through the clouds—to determine on a synoptic basis the areal distribution of ice.
- Continuing field studies to detail ice conditions in selected areas critical to navigation and to utilize existing engineering technologies to eliminate ice conditions adverse to navigation in the selected areas.
- Developing interdisciplinary studies of the role of the ice canopy in the physical and biological sciences so that this can lead to a better understanding of the ice canopy as a natural resource.

New Problems?

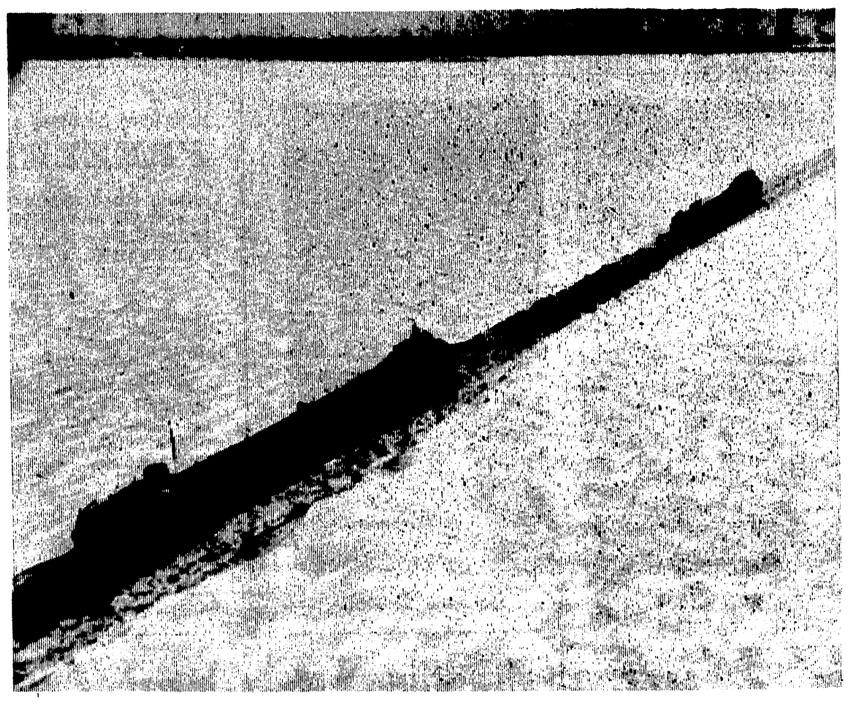

The Great Lakes have had a special significance to the long parade of people that have inhabited this region—from the aborigines, who used the lakes and connecting channels for hunting, trading and war routes, to the successive shifts of French, British and Americans who used these same routes for military, political and economic power.

From the navigational viewpoint, general navigation is suspended from about mid-December to early April.

Winter navigation on the open lake can cause icing on the superstructure which results in loss of trim, instability and excessive drafts which can preclude entrance to channels and locks. Operating in pack ice can cause hull, rudder and wheel damage resulting in lost time and higher insurance rates. Frozen cargo in docks, stockpiles and holds of vessels is common for granular materials.

Interlake navigation is often blocked in the entrance to the restricted chanelways by wind-driven pack ice which forms pressure ridges of great thickness and by various kinds of ice which often holds vessels in its grip. Winter operation of the locks is a problem affecting both interlake navigation and international access.

Before we make major disruptions of the Great Lakes ice cover, we muse be sure that we are not going to create a series of new problems just to solve one.

ALL WINTER ORE HAUL? The ore carriers Sykes and L. E. Block, creeping along an icy channel toward the C&NW ore dock at Escanaba, opened the navigation season here — but only with difficulty. While it is possible to operate boats throughout the winter, Dr. Ernest W. Marshall of the Corps of Engineers, wonders whether greater problems might not result with de-icing the Lakes. Big Mac Traffic For March Best For That Month

ST. IGNACE (AP) — The Mackinac Bridge Authority announced Friday traffic over the bridge during March was the highest for that month since the bridge opened in 1957. The Authority said traffic was up more than 25 per cent over the same month last year. The Authority attributed the hike to an early Easter holiday, school vacations and the state high school basketball tournament. For the first three months of the year bridge traffic was up more than 23 per cent.

Student Claims Long Hair Reason For 'Punishment'

DETROIT (AP) —An 18-year-old Wayne State University student who was sentenced to three weekends in jail, a fine of $25 and the loss of his driving privilege for one year says his long hair cost him the punishment.

John Gregory Faubert was arrested last Nov. 11 near the parking lot of a drive-in restaurant in Detroit. He said he drove into the parking lot and left immediately after someone threw a bottle at his car.

Faubert said an unmarked police car then stopped him and charged him with "driving through a drive - in restaurant for purposes other than constructed."

The offense normally carries a fine of $5.

Faubert appealed a conviction by a traffic court referee, and has the assistance of the American Civil Liberties Union. Faubert says when he was scheduled for appeal before Recorder's Court Judge George T. Ryan, the judge told him that he "may wind up in jail" if he didn't get a haircut. Faubert's hair is worn shoulder length.

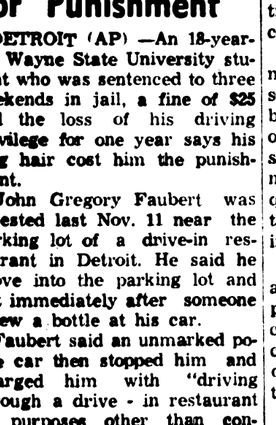

Judge Ryan said the long hair "had absolutely nothing to do with the sentence."

Faubert's attorney Mary Anne McMicken and the ACLU lawyer, Fredrick B. Bellemy, obtained a writ late Friday that delays the jail sentence until a further appeal is completed.

"I like my hair the way it is," said Faubert, "It's the principle of the thing."

Great Lakes' Ice: More Than A Cover

By DR. ERNEST MARSHALL
Dr. Marshall is Chief of the Ice and Snow Project, Great Lakes Research Center, Corps of Engineers.

Soon, a moisture-laden wind will sweep out of the Gulf, follow the Mississippi Valley north and spread out over the Great Lakes. Shippers will welcome the signal that winter's frozen grasp will soon be relaxed and full navigation of these vital waterways can begin anew.

In a period of only four months, a mere moment in geological time, the ice cover has become an extension of the land—an earth resource, and is now ready to revert back to a water resource.

The traditional interest has been in ice-versus-navigation, and ways to eliminate it, because of the economic factors which are involved. Today, however, we are equally concerned with the development of an understanding of the role of the ice canopy in Great Lakes oceanography. The complex role that it plays is only now being considered as an ecological link that must be thoroughly understood before a reasoned decision can be made as to whether extensive deicing technology is applied.

From an ecological viewpoint, the ice canopy spreads over the Great Lakes much like a heavy cloud cover over land. It restricts sunlight, changes the flow of currents and subtly alters the total water environment.

Many Uses of Ice

The role of the Great Lakes ice canopy varies with the stage of its development through the three to four months of the winter season. During the initial freeze-up period the felt-like ice cover is primarily a filter trap for organisms on the water surface and floating particulate matter. During the winter the ice sheet serves as a platform for airborne organic and inorganic sediments.

It also serves as a lid on the water surface to reduce turbulence, alter wind-driven currents, restrict absorption of oxygen, reduce evaporation and slow up the distribution of pollutants under the ice cover. It further serves as a platform for snows which sweep out atmospheric pollutants and include the chemical condensation nuclei.

Drifting masses of pressure ridges are the Great Lakes icebergs. They are like geologic plows when they run around and disturb both the bottom sediments and faunas.

The ice cover also introduces a retardation effect in calculating the flows out of the lakes and has to be accounted for in lake regulation plans.

Drifting Pollution

During the melting and breakup of the ice cover in the spring, meltwater puddles on the ice surface serve as natural petri-dishes to incubate organisms released from the ice, while melting snows serve as sites for the growth of algae which produce the "red snows."

Concentrations of windblown dusts develop thaw pits and the dirt itself serves to generate microclimates for the growth of organisms. Ice floes can act as drifting rafts of pollution which carry included matter far from its orginal site and release the pollution in a new area upon melting.

The one thing that we have learned, more important than any other factor, is that the rock-ice formation that covers the Great Lakes is a unique earth resource that needs to be more thoroughly investigated both on the ground and in the laboratory, as well as by techniques of remote sensing both from airborne and spaceborne platforms.

Major Questions

There are many things that we do not yet have the answers to: What effect would it have on the marine life if the distribution of this ice canopy were changed; what effect would it have on local weather conditions and agriculture if it didn't melt in its historic pattern.

How does this fit into the heightening competition between resource use possibilities, given the requirements of urbanization and industrialization and growing demands for environmental restoration and preservation; even to what effect the removal of this ice bridge would have on winter transportation between island communities and the mainland.

These are questions, among many others, that must be answered before a decision can be reached on the desirability of using deicing technologies in support of unlimited winter navigation. To answer those questions, resarch must continue and should be directed into these areas:

- Developing and utilizing airborne systems which can provide us with an all-weather capability — see through the clouds—to determine on a synoptic basis the areal distribution of ice.
- Continuing field studies to detail ice conditions in selected areas critical to navigation and to utilize existing engineering technologies to eliminate ice conditions adverse to navigation in the selected areas.
- Developing interdisciplinary studies of the role of the ice canopy in the physical and biological sciences so that this can lead to a better understanding of the ice canopy as a natural resource.

New Problems?

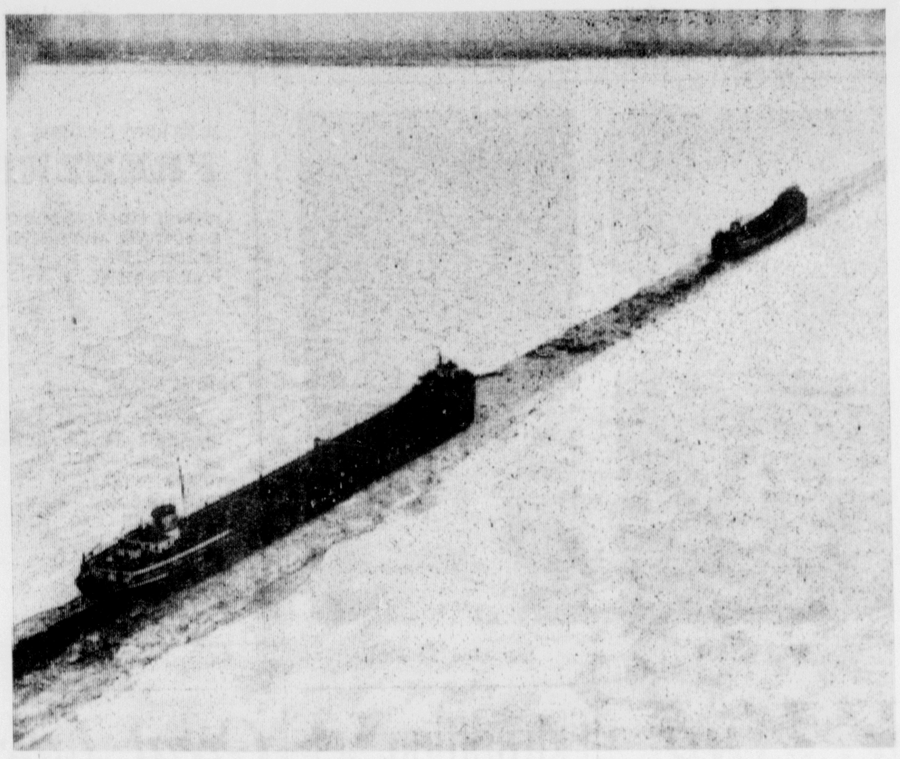

The Great Lakes have had a special significance to the long parade of people that have inhabited this region—from the aborigines, who used the lakes and connecting channels for hunting, trading and war routes, to the successive shifts of French, British and Americans who used these same routes for military, political and economic power.

From the navigational viewpoint, general navigation is suspended from about mid-December to early April.

Winter navigation on the open lake can cause icing on the superstructure which results in loss of trim, instability and excessive drafts which can preclude entrance to channels and locks. Operating in pack ice can cause hull, rudder and wheel damage resulting in lost time and higher insurance rates. Frozen cargo in docks, stockpiles and holds of vessels is common for granular materials.

Interlake navigation is often blocked in the entrance to the restricted chanelways by wind-driven pack ice which forms pressure ridges of great thickness and by various kinds of ice which often holds vessels in its grip. Winter operation of the locks is a problem affecting both interlake navigation and international access.

Before we make major disruptions of the Great Lakes ice cover, we muse be sure that we are not going to create a series of new problems just to solve one.

ALL WINTER ORE HAUL? The ore carriers Sykes and L. E. Block, creeping along an icy channel toward the C&NW ore dock at Escanaba, opened the navigation season here — but only with difficulty. While it is possible to operate boats throughout the winter, Dr. Ernest W. Marshall of the Corps of Engineers, wonders whether greater problems might not result with de-icing the Lakes. Big Mac Traffic For March Best For That Month

ST. IGNACE (AP) — The Mackinac Bridge Authority announced Friday traffic over the bridge during March was the highest for that month since the bridge opened in 1957. The Authority said traffic was up more than 25 per cent over the same month last year. The Authority attributed the hike to an early Easter holiday, school vacations and the state high school basketball tournament. For the first three months of the year bridge traffic was up more than 23 per cent.

Student Claims Long Hair Reason For 'Punishment'

DETROIT (AP) —An 18-year-old Wayne State University student who was sentenced to three weekends in jail, a fine of $25 and the loss of his driving privilege for one year says his long hair cost him the punishment.

John Gregory Faubert was arrested last Nov. 11 near the parking lot of a drive-in restaurant in Detroit. He said he drove into the parking lot and left immediately after someone threw a bottle at his car.

Faubert said an unmarked police car then stopped him and charged him with "driving through a drive - in restaurant for purposes other than constructed."

The offense normally carries a fine of $5.

Faubert appealed a conviction by a traffic court referee, and has the assistance of the American Civil Liberties Union. Faubert says when he was scheduled for appeal before Recorder's Court Judge George T. Ryan, the judge told him that he "may wind up in jail" if he didn't get a haircut. Faubert's hair is worn shoulder length.

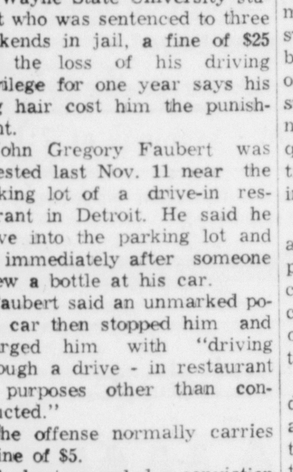

Judge Ryan said the long hair "had absolutely nothing to do with the sentence."

Faubert's attorney Mary Anne McMicken and the ACLU lawyer, Fredrick B. Bellemy, obtained a writ late Friday that delays the jail sentence until a further appeal is completed.

"I like my hair the way it is," said Faubert. "It's the principle of the thing."

Four Candidates Seeking Two City Council Seats

City electors will choose two candidates in Monday's biennial spring election. Four candidates have been certified for the four-year council seats at stake, the only issue city voters will be asked to decide.

Candidates are incumbent Thor Reque, seeking his second term, Daniel C. Barber, Raymond L. Krusic and Douglas D. Rose. Twelve-year veteran councilman Harold Carlson did not file for reelection.

A light voter turnout is expected. City Clerk Ralph Ekstrom said Friday that only 24 applications for absentee ballots had been made. Deadline for return of the abstentee was 2 p.m. today. There are 2,224 registered city voters.

The polls will open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m. This year a special board will count absentee ballots, under a new law, with the count beginning at 7 p.m. election night at City Hall. Voters in the 1st Precinct will ballot at the Lincoln School; 2nd Precinct, Youth Center; 3rd Precinct, the Lakeside School. Voters in the third Precinct are asked to note the change from the former City Hall to the Lakeside School.

The candidates all responded to a Daily Press request for statements which appear below along with brief biographical sketches. Listed alphabetically:

Daniel C. Barber, 28, owner-operator of the Gambles Store, is a 1960 graduate of the Manistique High School. He is past president of the Jaycees, a member of the Knights of Columbus and currently serves as co-chairman of the retail division of the Chamber of Commerce.

He and his wife, the former Donna Johnson, and their two children live at 546 Park Ave. This is his first bid for elective office.

Raymond L. Krusic, 33, operates the Lakeview Bowling Lanes. A Manistique native, he is a 1954 graduate of the Manistique High School. He was employed at the First National Bank before opening the bowling alley in 1960.

Krusic was elected to the City Charter Commission and has been city representative on the Tax Allocation Board for the past five years. He was chairman of the board last year. He served a three-month volunteer period as acting city clerk and treasurer in 1963 when the post was temporarily vacated.

He is a director of the State Savings Bank, a member of both the Third and Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus, and belongs to the Indian Lake Golf and Country Club.

He and his wife, the former Mary Lawrence, and their six children live at 428 Alger Ave.

Thor Reque is seeking his second four-year term on the council. He retired last June after 42 years as a school teacher.

A three year member of the Board of Supervisors before redistricting, he was chairman of both the Welfare and Education committiees. He has been city delegate for the past four years to the Upper Peninsula Commission on Area Progress (UPCAP), a voting delegate to the Michigan State Municipal League, member of the Airport Advisory Committee, city representative to the Community School Advisory Board and is treasurer of the Senior Citizens Drop-In Center.

Reque and his wife, Florence live at 631 Oak St.

Douglas Rose, 26, is a switchman for the General Telephone Company. An Alpena native, he graduated from Alpena High School and attended Alpena Community College for one year. He served in the U.S. Navy from 1962-64.

Rose, who is seeking his first elective office, transferred to Manistique in 1967 from Roscommon where he worked for two years.

He and his wife, Carolyn and son, Stephen live at 411 Intake Park Rd.

Each candidate made the following statements concerning their reason for seeking office:

BARBER: "I am concerned with the loss of our youth from this area after they graduate from high school. Many of our young residents leave because they are unable to find employment to provide a livelihood. With this thought, plus being concerned with conditions in this area in general, I have decided to become a city council candidate. I have been a resident of Manistique for the past 15 years and graduated from the high school. The past two years I have been owner-manager of the Gamble Store in Manistique."

KRUSIC: "Having been born and raised in Manistique and a businessman, naturally I am concerned about the problems and future of Manistique. I feel my experience as temporary city Clerk and treasurer and my service on the City Charter Commission makes me familiar with city accounting, ordinances and city government procedures. In times of ever-increasing costs, I also feel my business, accounting and financial experience may be of some value to the city. I do not represent any special interest group but hope to do the most good for the most people as I realize I will not be able to please everyone."

ROSE: "Because I am concerned about the individual members of our community, who collectively comprise the city, I am seeking to represent them as a city council member. I feel when a person is concerned he should be active. Although relatively new to Manistique, I have respect for its past. This is my home and I understand and share the pride involved in preserving various traditions. However, progress is desirable and I feel it is possible without destroying the interests of individual people. I am young, eager and truly concerned about the future of our community. I will be able to devote my time to representing you because I am not involved in other clubs or organizations."

REQUE: "My four years experience on the council can be valuable in continuing the programs the city has undertaken in recent years. We have achieved much and I hope we will continue to upgrade what we have. We have begun a program of street improvement, are seeking federal funding for a harbor improvement program, conducting a feasibility survey for a phospherous removal plant and considering other improvements. All of this progress is due to the cooperative spirit of the present council. If this cooperation is continued, I am sure much more can be achieved."

Briefly Told

Lakeside Lodge 371, F&AM, will hold a special communication Monday at 7:30 p.m. for a School of Instruction. The regular April meeting will be held the 7th at 8 p.m. Visiting Masons are invited to attend. Lunch will be served at both meetings.

Monday's hot lunch menu at at the Manistique Area Schools will include curly roni-with-meat-sauce, buttered wax beans, peanut butter, apple crisp and beverage.

Extradition Set In Wisconsin Car Theft Case

Melvin J. Morse, 52, no permanent address, pleaded guilty in District Court Thursday to driving with a revoked license and was ordered to serve three days in jail and pay a fine of $20 and costs of $30.

Morse is in jail serving his sentence and also awaiting extradition to Wisconsin to face charges of automobile theft. He agreed to extradition and arrangements are being made through Prosecuting Attorney G. S. Johnson's office, Public Safety officers said.

In addition, Morse also admitted to City Patrolman William Reno that he had broken and entered the Martin Novak residence, 406 Alger Ave., on Mar. 26 and taken a portable television set and a radio. Both of these items were sold, he said Police have recovered the radio and expect to reclaim the television set.

Morse came to the attention of city police officers at 2 a.m. Thursday when he was stopped for a defective equipment (no tail lights) check. When he was unable to produce an operator's license, he was lodged in jail.

Further investigation by City Patrolman William Reno revealed that Morse's license had been revoked and that the automobile he was driving, a 1963 Rambler with Wisconsin plates, had been reported stolen in Milwaukee on Mar. 27.

Upon questioning, Morse admitted his guilt in the auto theft, the fact that his driver's license had been revoked and the breaking and entering and theft of articles from the Novak home.

Upon his agreement to extradition and in view of his confession to the breaking and entering offense and the recovery of one item and expected recovery of the second, officers said these charges will be dropped since he faces a felony charge in Wisconsin.

City police arrested Aldred DeMars Sr., Cooks, Friday at 12:25 a.m. on W. Deer St. and charged him with driving while under the influence of intoxicants. Demars was jailed until his Friday morning bond arraignment before Magistrate Howard Magoon. He was released on his own recogniance and will appear for arraignment before Judge Charles Stark on Thursday, Apr. 9.

Bank In Lansing Target Of Robber

LANSING (AP) — Lansing Police report that the main branch of the American Bank and Trust Co. was robbed of an estimated $1,200 late Friday afternoon.

Police said a man thought to be in his mid-20's hid in the bank's basement after closing time. A guard inspecting an open vault door was hit from behind with a crow bar. The guard was hospitalized in good condition.

Police say the bandit escaped on foot.

Controlling Worst Drivers Aim Of Hare

LANSING (AP) — In a move to crack down on "Michigan's worst drivers," Secretary of State James M. Hare is urging all police agencies to check driving records each time they issue a moving violation ticket.

Hare praised some police agencies as "doing an excellent job in checking traffic offenders."

But he said others are "not checking as they should."

"Unless this check is made," Hare said, "We have an impossible situation in trying to control many of Michigan's worst drivers."

Hare said an average of 60 checks ad day clear his department's computer system, which is linked with the Law Enforcement Information Network (LEIN).

But that total compares with at least 3,000 moving violations issued daily by police, he noted.

Recent studies have shown that 33 out of each 100 suspended and 68 out of each 100 revoked drivers can be expected to drive while they are under suspension or revocation, the secretary of state reported.

Hare said he recognized that police agencies have problems "higher priority," such as criminal work and that many agencies are understaffed.

"But unless we can control the 'scofflaw' and keep him from driving in Michigan we have a problem of astronomical proportions — one that costs Michigan taxpayers many millions of dollars in property damage and many deaths and injuries annually."

Hare's comments, included in a memo to Michigan law enforcement agencies, added that:

"Suspensions and revocations are rising to new highs and it's absolutely imperative that officers check records through their car radio each time they issue a moving violation.

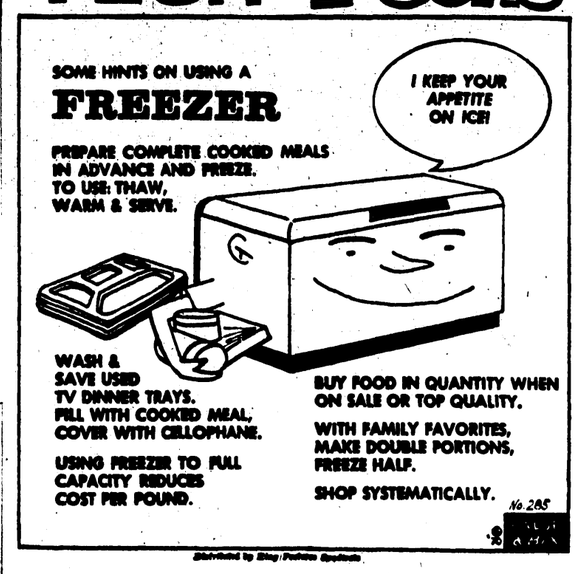

"Unless this is done, enforcement and safety agencies are obviously hamstrung in their effort to get some of the traffic tramps off Michigan roads."

Hospital

Admitted to Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital Thursday were Louis Guertin, Edith Mortensen, Dan Bosanic, Patricia Stapleton and Dean Deloria.

Discharged were Eva Salter, Betty Clark, Jessie Russell, Earl Gould, Kenneth Engel, Esther Griffin and baby, Patricia Springall, Joan Holmberg and baby and Gertrude Brown.

Great Lakes Military Haul Held 'Wasteful'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md., has complained to Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird that a test shipping of military cargo through Great Lakes ports in 1969 was outrageously wasteful and should not be tried again.

"This little experiment cost the taxpayers over $400,000," Tydings told the Senate this week.

Tydings said the test was undertaken by the Defense Department during the 1969 shipping season of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

"The test was undertaken at the behest of the Great Lakes maritime interests and encouraged by the Great Lakes Conference of Senators," Tydings said. "They were complaining that military cargoes were being shipped out of East Coast ports and that the lake facilities were thus unjustly ignored, he added.

Tydings recalled that last July he wrote Laird to say the test project was contrary to economic good sense. Other senators from Maryland, Maine, Delaware Virginia, New Jersey, Rhode Island and Connecticut also signed the letter.

Tydings said the test program has been completed and evaluated by the Defense Department and by the General Accounting office.

The analysis found that $415,218 excess costs were incurred in shipping the test cargo through the Great Lakes compared with East or Gulf Coast ports, Tydings said.

"The test was not only contrary to economic good sense, it was an outrageous waste of federal expenditures," Tydings said.

"We all recognize the need to eliminate unnecessary government spending," he continued. "I suggest we start here and drop what is obviously a political boondoggle.

"Let us make sure that another test not be conducted in the 1970 shipping season."

"A statement by Great Lakes senators that it was apparent that the all-water voyage would prove to be more efficient and cheaper than the two-part rail-plus ship method of routing cargo overland to the East Coast before placing it on oceangoing vessels has been shown to be incorrect," Tydings maintained.

"The St. Lawrence Seaway route costs more, not less. The fact is that Baltimore, Md., and her sister ports provide better service," he declared.

Five Drug Firms Agree To Refund Of $32.5 Million

NEW YORK (AP) — Five drug firms charged with fixing the price of broad-spectrum antibiotics between 1954 and 1966 have agreed to refund $32.5 million to the nation's private hospitals and 74 Blue Cross plans.

Lawyers for American Cyanamid Co., Bristol-Myers Co. Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp., Chas. Pfizer and Co. and the Upjohn Co. told of the settlement Friday in U.S. District Court.

It adds $12.5 million to a prior offer.

In separate negotiations, 43 state governments have agreed to share $82.6 million in refunds to individual consumers, as well as state, county and local governmental units.

However, seven states and some claimants decline to settle with the firms and are going ahead with triple-damage suits.

Judge Inzer B. Wyatt oversaw the negotiations.

Voters To Elect Commissioners

Gladstone residents will elect two persons from a field of five candidates to three-year terms on the City Commission when they go to the polls Monday.

Voters will ballot between 7 a. m. and 8 p. m. at the City Hall.

Candidates for the two seats on the commission are:

Douglas Bovin, 1607 Lake Shore Dr.; Elmer Caron, 702 Dakota Ave.; Thomas Elegeert, 709 Michigan Ave.; William Smith, Shorewood Motel, and Constance Verhamme, 709 Delta Ave.

Bovin is the only incumbent on the ballot. Commissioner Delbert Nelson, whose term also is expiring, did not seek reelection.

Other members of the commission are Arne Anderson, mayor, Raymond Norton and George Young.

The election will be the first in Gladstone under the two precinct system and voters will ballot by machine for the first time. Previously, four precints were used and voting was by paper ballot.

Instruction on the use of the voting machines will be given at the City Hall Monday. Two demonstration machines will be used to give voters an opportunity to see how they work before balloting on the commission. The commission election is the only issue to be considered.

GHS Lettermen Collect Easter Seal Drive Funds

Gladstone High School lettermen, under the direction of Don Pfotenhauer, collected a total of $236.30 for the Delta County Easter Seal drive for Crippled Children.

The funds, weighing in at 17½ pounds, were collected by students working in teams. Top teams were Bob Young, Lauri Nelson, Clifford Young and Kathy Gillis, checking in with $61.72; Bob Degrand and Joe Guennette, $40.11, and Mark Isaacson, Bob Richards and Ron Lantagne, with $35.12.

Lettermen and their able assistants canvassed the business district after church on Good Friday and again in the evening and on Saturday morning.

He has been city delegate for the past four years to the Upper Peninsula Commission on Area Progress (UPCAP), a voting delegate to the Michigan State Municipal League, member of the Airport Advisory Committee, city representative to the Community School Advisory Board and is treasurer of the Senior Citizens Drop-In Center.

Reque and his wife, Florence live at 631 Oak St.

Douglas Rose, 26, is a switchman for the General Telephone Company. An Alpena native, he graduated from Alpena High School and attended Alpena Community College for one year. He served in the U.S. Navy from 1962-64.

Rose, who is seeking his first elective office, transferred to Manistique in 1967 from Roscommon where he worked for two years.

He and his wife, Carolyn and son, Stephen live at 411 Intake Park Rd.

Each candidate made the following statements concerning their reason for seeking office:

BARBER: "I am concerned with the loss of our youth from this area after they graduate from high school. Many of our young residents leave because they are unable to find employment to provide a livelihood. With this thought, plus being concerned with conditions in this area in general, I have decided to become a city council candidate. I have been a resident of Manistique for the past 15 years and graduated from the high school. The past two years I have been owner-manager of the Gamble Store in Manistique."

KRUSIC: "Having been born and raised in Manistique and a businessman, naturally I am concerned about the problems and future of Manistique. I feel my experience as temporary city Clerk and treasurer and my service on the City Charter Commission makes me familiar with city accounting, ordinances and city government procedures. In times of ever-increasing costs, I also feel my business, accounting and financial experience may be of some value to the city. I do not represent any special interest group but hope to do the most good for the most people as I realize I will not be able to please everyone."

ROSE: "Because I am concerned about the individual members of our community, who collectively comprise the city, I am seeking to represent them as a city council member. I feel when a person is concerned he should be active. Although relatively new to Manistique, I have respect for its past. This is my home and I understand and share the pride involved in preserving various traditions. However, progress is desirable and I feel it is possible without destroying the interests of individual people. I am young, eager and truly concerned about the future of our community. I will be able to devote my time to representing you because I am not involved in other clubs or organizations."

REQUE: "My four years experience on the council can be valuable in continuing the programs the city has undertaken in recent years. We have achieved much and I hope we will continue to upgrade what we have. We have begun a program of street improvement, are seeking federal funding for a harbor improvement program, conducting a feasibility survey for a phospherous removal plant and considering other improvements. All of this progress is due to the cooperative spirit of the present council. If this cooperation is continued, I am sure much more can be achieved."

Extradition Set In Wisconsin Car Theft Case

Melvin J. Morse, 52, no permanent address, pleaded guilty in District Court Thursday to driving with a revoked license and was ordered to serve three days in jail and pay a fine of $20 and costs of $30.

Morse is in jail serving his sentence and also awaiting extradition to Wisconsin to face charges of automobile theft. He agreed to extradition and arrangements are being made through Prosecuting Attorney G. S. Johnson's office, Public Safety officers said.

In addition, Morse also admitted to City Patrolman William Reno that he had broken and entered the Martin Novak residence, 406 Alger Ave., on Mar. 26 and taken a portable television set and a radio. Both of these items were sold, he said Police have recovered the radio and expect to reclaim the television set.

Morse came to the attention of city police officers at 2 a.m. Thursday when he was stopped for a defective equipment (no tail lights) check. When he was unable to produce an operator's license, he was lodged in jail.

Further investigation by City Patrolman William Reno revealed that Morse's license had been revoked and that the automobile he was driving, a 1963 Rambler with Wisconsin plates, had been reported stolen in Milwaukee on Mar. 27.

Upon questioning, Morse admitted his guilt in the auto theft, the fact that his driver's license had been revoked and the breaking and entering and theft of articles from the Novak home.

Upon his agreement to extradition and in view of his confession to the breaking and entering offense and the recovery of one item and expected recovery of the second, officers said these charges will be dropped since he faces a felony charge in Wisconsin.

City police arrested Aldred DeMars Sr., Cooks, Friday at 12:25 a.m. on W. Deer St. and charged him with driving while under the influence of intoxicants. Demars was jailed until his Friday morning bond arraignment before Magistrate Howard Magoon. He was released on his own recogniance and will appear for arraignment before Judge Charles Stark on Thursday, Apr. 9.

Bank In Lansing Target Of Robber

LANSING (AP) — Lansing Police report that the main branch of the American Bank and Trust Co. was robbed of an estimated $1,200 late Friday afternoon.

Police said a man thought to be in his mid-20's hid in the bank's basement after closing time. A guard inspecting an open vault door was hit from behind with a crow bar. The guard was hospitalized in good condition.

Police say the bandit escaped on foot.

Controlling Worst Drivers Aim Of Hare

LANSING (AP) — In a move to crack down on "Michigan's worst drivers," Secretary of State James M. Hare is urging all police agencies to check driving records each time they issue a moving violation ticket.

Hare praised some police agencies as "doing an excellent job in checking traffic offenders."

But he said others are "not checking as they should."

"Unless this check is made," Hare said, "We have an impossible situation in trying to control many of Michigan's worst drivers."

Hare said an average of 60 checks ad day clear his department's computer system, which is linked with the Law Enforcement Information Network (LEIN).

But that total compares with at least 3,000 moving violations issued daily by police, he noted.

Recent studies have shown that 33 out of each 100 suspended and 68 out of each 100 revoked drivers can be expected to drive while they are under suspension or revocation, the secretary of state reported.

Hare said he recognized that police agencies have problems "higher priority," such as criminal work and that many agencies are understaffed.

"But unless we can control the 'scofflaw' and keep him from driving in Michigan we have a problem of astronomical proportions — one that costs Michigan taxpayers many millions of dollars in property damage and many deaths and injuries annually."

Hare's comments, included in a memo to Michigan law enforcement agencies, added that:

"Suspensions and revocations are rising to new highs and it's absolutely imperative that officers check records through their car radio each time they issue a moving violation.

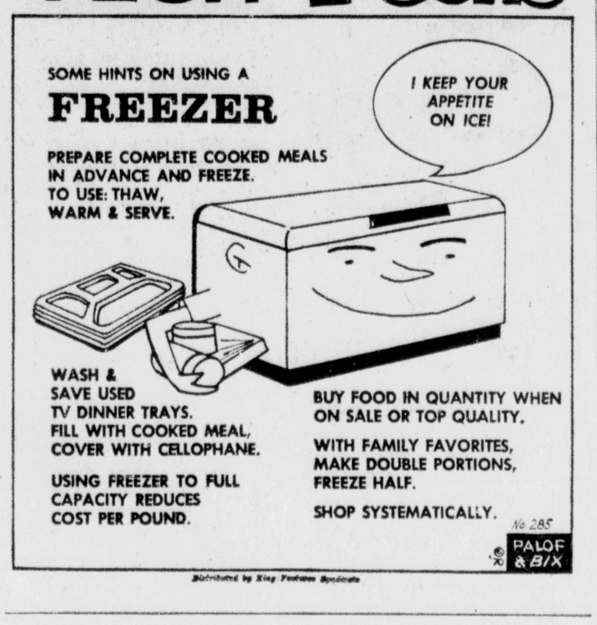

"Unless this is done, enforcement and safety agencies are obviously hamstrung in their effort to get some of the traffic tramps off Michigan roads."

Great Lakes Military Haul Held 'Wasteful'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md., has complained to Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird that a test shipping of military cargo through Great Lakes ports in 1969 was outrageously wasteful and should not be tried again.

"This little experiment cost the taxpayers over $400,000," Tydings told the Senate this week.

Tydings said the test was undertaken by the Defense Department during the 1969 shipping season of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

"The test was undertaken at the behest of the Great Lakes maritime interests and encouraged by the Great Lakes Conference of Senators," Tydings said. "They were complaining that military cargoes were being shipped out of East Coast ports and that the lake facilities were thus unjustly ignored, he added.

Tydings recalled that last July he wrote Laird to say the test project was contrary to economic good sense. Other senators from Maryland, Maine, Delaware Virginia, New Jersey, Rhode Island and Connecticut also signed the letter.

Tydings said the test program has been completed and evaluated by the Defense Department and by the General Accounting office.

The analysis found that $415,218 excess costs were incurred in shipping the test cargo through the Great Lakes compared with East or Gulf Coast ports, Tydings said.

"The test was not only contrary to economic good sense, it was an outrageous waste of federal expenditures," Tydings said.

"We all recognize the need to eliminate unnecessary government spending," he continued. "I suggest we start here and drop what is obviously a political boondoggle.

"Let us make sure that another test not be conducted in the 1970 shipping season."

"A statement by Great Lakes senators that it was apparent that the all-water voyage would prove to be more efficient and cheaper than the two-part rail-plus ship method of routing cargo overland to the East Coast before placing it on oceangoing vessels has been shown to be incorrect," Tydings maintained.

"The St. Lawrence Seaway route costs more, not less. The fact is that Baltimore, Md., and her sister ports provide better service," he declared.

Five Drug Firms Agree To Refund Of $32.5 Million

NEW YORK (AP) — Five drug firms charged with fixing the price of broad-spectrum antibiotics between 1954 and 1966 have agreed to refund $32.5 million to the nation's private hospitals and 74 Blue Cross plans.

Lawyers for American Cyanamid Co., Bristol-Myers Co. Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp., Chas. Pfizer and Co. and the Upjohn Co. told of the settlement Friday in U.S. District Court.

It adds $12.5 million to a prior offer.

In separate negotiations, 43 state governments have agreed to share $82.6 million in refunds to individual consumers, as well as state, county and local governmental units.

However, seven states and some claimants decline to settle with the firms and are going ahead with triple-damage suits.

Judge Inzer B. Wyatt oversaw the negotiations.

Voters To Elect Commissioners

Gladstone residents will elect two persons from a field of five candidates to three-year terms on the City Commission when they go to the polls Monday.

Voters will ballot between 7 a. m. and 8 p. m. at the City Hall.

Candidates for the two seats on the commission are:

Douglas Bovin, 1607 Lake Shore Dr.; Elmer Caron, 702 Dakota Ave.; Thomas Elegeert, 709 Michigan Ave.; William Smith, Shorewood Motel, and Constance Verhamme, 709 Delta Ave.

Bovin is the only incumbent on the ballot. Commissioner Delbert Nelson, whose term also is expiring, did not seek reelection.

Other members of the commission are Arne Anderson, mayor, Raymond Norton and George Young.

The election will be the first in Gladstone under the two precinct system and voters will ballot by machine for the first time. Previously, four precints were used and voting was by paper ballot.

Instruction on the use of the voting machines will be given at the City Hall Monday. Two demonstration machines will be used to give voters an opportunity to see how they work before balloting on the commission. The commission election is the only issue to be considered.

Bucks Triumph; Capture First Playoff Series

By The Associated Press

Lew Alcindor's up to his old tricks again.

He's got the Milwaukee Bucks dreaming of championships just as UCLA did during the years the amazing athlete played the-roll . . . just as he did at Power Memorial Academy in New York. In other words, Lew Alcindor became the first National Basketball Association team—oops, pardon the slip—The Milwaukee Bucks became the first team to advance to a divisional championship series in the NBA Friday night when they beat the Philadelphia 76ers 115-106.

Alcindor scored 46 points. It boosted his total for five playoff games to 181—an average just a shade over 36 points.

Chicago shot down the Atlanta Hawks, who were trying to make it four straight, in the night's other NBA playoff action, the Bulls winning 131-120. Atlanta holds a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven Western Division 1emfinals.

Los Angeles, behind 2-1, plays at Phoenix in tonight's only NBA action. The Los Angeles-Phoenix survivor takes on the Atlanta-Chicgo series' winner for the Western Division title.

Milwaukee now plays either New York or Baltimore, which trails the Knicks 3-2 with the Eastern Division series resuming Sunday at Baltimore.

"We should be ready for whichever one we face," said Milwaukee Coach Larry Costello, calling Baltimore and New York both "great clubs."

It was an uphill fight for Milwaukee, however. The 76ers had an 85-82 advantage after the first three periods. The Bucks didn't get their first lead of the second half until Alcindor made good on a three-point play to put Milwaukee ahead 92-90 in the fourth period.

"I like Alcindor all the time," said 76er Coach Jack Ramsay. "He is a thoroughly dedicated team player. Milwaukee played a great series."

Bill Cunningham and Wally Jones kept the 76ers in contention until the waning moments. Cunningham scored 28 and Jones 26.

Chicago, with Chet Walker and Clem Haskins providing the scoring punch, breezed past Atlanta in the first period and the Hawks could never get the upper hand, although they led briefly after intermission.

"It was a breakdown in our defense," said Richie Guerin, the Atlanta coach. "It could have been a natural letdown after a 3-0 lead, but it'll be over Sunday, that's for sure."

Dick Motta, Chicago's coach, isn't ready to just hand the series to the Hawks in the fifth game at Atlanta Sunday.

"I know no team has ever come back from 3-0 to win a playoff but there was a time when nobody gave us a chance of making the playoffs and we did," said Motta. "Thi win eliminates some self doubt. If we win at Atlanta Sunday, anything can happen"

Walker scored 39 points to lead Chicago while Haskins contributed 29. Joe Caldwell was high for the Hawks with 38 points.

Fails To Yell; Golfer Sued

DETROIT (AP) — A Detroit golfer who failed to yell "fore" when he teed off frfom the 15th hole has been ordered to pay $6,500 in damages to another golfer who was struck behind the left ear.

The golfer, Leon Heller, 56, hooked his tee shot to the left in august 1967 and struck Joseph Stack, who now lives in California.

Heller told a Wayne County Circuit Court jury that he didn't yell "fore" before making the shot because he is a consistent slicer, sending his drives off to the right. He said Stack was down range 120 yards and to the left.

Stack sued for $100,000 in damages, claiming that the injury left him short-tempered and prevents him from holding his old job as a salesman.

Heller testified that he relied on laws from Scotland that say golfers must always be alert for flying golf balls.

Stack countered by calling as a witness professional golfer Louis Powers, former head pro for Detroit's municipal golf courses. Powers said players must yell "fore" before and not after making shots.

Twins, Red Sox Picked To Win Division Titles

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — If anybody is going to beat the Baltimore Orioles in the American League East, it will be the Boston Red Sox. If anybody is going to top the Minnesota Twins in the American League West, it will be the Oakland A's.

It says here the Red Sox will do the job on the Orioles, although they finished third, 22 games back, in 1969, but Minnesota will stagger past Oakland in the West only to be ambushed by the Red Sox in the pennant playoff.

Jim Lonborg appears back on the beam. The addition of Gary Peters from the White Sox seems to have given the Red Sox a solid pitching base that includes Ray Culp and Mike Nagy. George Scott had an outstanding spring and Carl Yastrzemski had one of his best exhibition seasons. Catching appears to be Boston's chief problem now that Luis Alvarado has fitted into the infield at third base.

Here's the way the two divisions look from here:

East
1.Boston
2.Baltimore
3.Washington
4.Detroit
5.New York
6.Cleveland

West
1.Minnesota
2.Oakland
3.Kansas City
4.Chicago
5.California
6.Seattle-Milwaukee

The Orioles have a solid lineup from top to bottom with fine power in Boog Powell, Frank Robisnon, Brooks Rboinson and Paul Blair. Mike Cuellar, Dave McNally, Jim Palmer and Tom Phoebus are tough pitchers to crack. A rookie has to be a new Ty Cobb to break into the starting lineup still, this same awesome array of talent fell before the Mets last October. It could happen again.

Boston is hungry. With a new manager, Eddie Kasko, at the helm to create a new spirit of togetherness on a club that feuded with Dick Williams last year, they could recapture the spark of 1967.

Much depends on Alvarado, a hotshot shortstop in the minors but now a third baseman. If he makes it, Scott can remain in first where he prefers to play. Rico Petrocelli and Mike Andrews form a fine second short combo and the outfield of Yaz, Reggie Smith and Tony Conigliaro is second to none.

Ted Williams worked miracles with his Washington club last year, finishing only one game behind the Red Sox. With hitters like Frank Howard, Ken McMullen and Mike Epstein to carry the load, the Senators could sneak into third place.

The McLain case and a subsequent magazine article by Bill Freehan, who wrote of dissension in the clubhouse, may have wrecked the Tigers. Mickey Lolich must carry the heavy load. The lneup still is solid with Willie Horton, Al Kaline, Jim Northrop, Mickey Stanley, Norm Cash and Freehan to swing the bat. Who can replace McLain's 24 wins? The answer is easy — nobody.

Ralph Houk hopes to get more zing in the batting order with Curt Blefray in right field and Danny Cater on first. Rookie catcher Thurman Munson must come through big and Bobby Murcer must have a big year. Mel Stottlemyre, Fritz Peterson and Stan Bahnsen must struggle along without any big innings.

Ken Harrelson's loss was a tough blow to the Cleveland club even if Dean Chance comes back to help Sam McDowell.

The Twins floundered through spring training, losing nine in a row at one stage. Harmon Killebrew, bothered by a chronic knee condition, was slow coming around. Bill Rigney is counting on Luis Tiant to step in there with Jim Kaat, Jim Perry and Dave Boswell while the Killer and Tony Oliva do the heavy bombing.

Oakland might just be ready to make its move. The A's gave the Twins a scare last year until the very end. The addition of Don Mincher and Felipe Alou, plus the holdover power of Reggie Jackson and Rick Monday should keep them in most games.

Kansas City surprised a lot of people last year and Charlie Metro will be cracking the whip to get the most out of the players he personally picked as scouting director in the expansion draft. The White Sox are short on pitching and the Angels are weak at the bat. The three should finish in a pack with third fourth and fifth up for grabs.

And the Seattle Pilots? They won't even be in the league this season. Milwaukee's Brewers will have to be satisfied with dreams of the future.

Sizzling NHL Race Faces Key Games

NEW YORK (AP) — The tightest race in National Hockey League history steams into its final weekend Saturday with the East Division packed so tight that any one of four teams can still finish first.

The NHL commissioned Warner, Bicking and Fenwick, Inc., a New York firm, to have its computers figure out the various possibilities of East Division finishes. The computers came up with 125 possibilities for final standings after Sunday's games.

The only constant is Toronto's last place finish. The Maple Leafs cannot escape the cellar no matter what happens this weekend. But they can play a large role in the rest of the race.

Just five points separate first and fifth places with Chicago and Boston sharing first, Detroit third, Montreal fourth and New York fifth. The Rangers, however, trail Montreal by only two points and Detroit by just three.

By sweeping their final two games against the Red Wings, New York could qualify for the playoffs and finish as high as third, depending on what Montreal does in its last two games with Chicago.

The outcome of those Canadien—Black Hawk games and the two between Boston and Toronto will also determine who finishes first.

The Hawks and Bruins both have 95 points heading into the weekend but Chicago, with five more victories than the Bruins, has the edge.

If two teams finish the season tied in points, the team with the most victories is credited with the higher finish. If the victories are the same, then the team with the most goals scored gets the higher position.

Rarely is the race so close that the goals scored must be considered but that could also happen this weekend in the East scramble.

The race is so close that Montreal and Detroit both still have a shot at first place and, at the same time, either could miss the playoffs completely. It is an unprecedented situation.

Don Ruck, vice president of the NHL, said both league and individual club offices are being swamped with phone calls asking where and when the Stanley Cup playoffs will begin.

"We can't tell them," said Ruck. "We simply don't know. All we can tell them is that the Cup playoffs in the East Division will start somewhere on Wednesday, April 8."

Foster Favorite In Title Bout

MISSOULA, Mont. (AP) — Cool Bob Foster, a thinking man's champion, carries a vast advantage of reach, height and charisma into his light heavyweight title defense tonight against Montana brawler Roger Rouse, in this scenic western Montana city.

Foster has the standard fight line that he must beat Rouse and regain the light heavyweight title, but admits he's looking beyond that to a heavyweight shot against brutal Joe Frazier.

Foster somehow packs the wallop of a mule into a 6-foot-4 frame that looks deceptively slender and vulnerable. He will be going for his 43rd victory against the cut-prone Rouse.

Rouse battled Foster once before, losing on a fifth-round TKO when Foster opened up a gushing cut under one eye. The journeyman Rouse, now 34, has a 38-7-3 record in his 10 years of fighting in the ring.

Spartans Post Win No. 1,000

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The Michigan State University baseball team won a slugfest 11-6 victory over Miami Friday.

The Spartans had 16 hits which included four doubles, a triple and a home run. MSU catcher Phil Rashead had a homer with one on base in the fifth inning and a triple with bases loaded in the eighth. Rashead totaled five runs batted in and scored two himself while catching the entire game.

The leading hitter for the Spartans was center fielder Gary Boyze who belted three singles and a double and infielder Rob Ellis tagged a double and two singles.

This game marked the 1,000th win for the team since baseball came to the East Lansing campus in 1883 and MSU stands 9-1-2 for the spring training season.

Mets, Reds Picked To Win National League Divisions

ST. Petersburg, Fla. (AP) — Mets will fall flat on their faces. Maybe Gil Hodges will lose his magic. Maybe Tom Seaver and Jerry Koosman won't win at least 40 games. Maybe, but don't bet on it.

The Mets have bolstered the one weak spot in their infield with Joe Foy at third base. They picked up an experienced left-hander in Ray Sadecki. And they will have the full-season services of big Donn Clendenon.

After beating off the Chicago Cubs, Pittsburgh Pirates and St. Louis Cardinals—to say nothing of the Phillies and Montreal—they must take on the best in the West before they make the World Series again.

The best in the West could be any one of five teams. We exclude only San Diego from the race. Despite a pitching problem that still exists, that raw power in the Cincinnati Reds' order suggests they will outslug Atlanta, Houston, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Here's the way it looks from here in the two divisions:

East—1. New York; 2. Chicago; 3. St. Louis; 4. Pittsburgh; 5. Philadelphia; 6. Montreal. West—1. Cincinnati; 2. Atlanta; 3. Houston; 4. San Francisco; 5. Los Angeles; 6. San Diego.

The Pirates have been getting a big play from the sports writters in Florida.

But it is hard to overlook the Cubs, who had a 9½ — game lead on Aug. 13 and appeared ready to sell Series tickets. Losing that lead had to leave scars on the Cubs.

However, the big reason why we put them second is a shortage of starting pitchers behind Fergy Jenkins, Bill Hands and Ken Holtzman.

Getting back to the Mets for a moment, there is reason to believe that Nolan Ryan may be ready to step up right behind Seaver, Koosman and Gary Gentry to make a formidable staff.

Seaver and Koosman, of course, are the keys.

St. Louis is in a muddled situation because of the illness of Mike Shannon. Red Schoendienst has been trying Joe Torre, Phil Gagliano and Richie Allen at third base.

Ted Simmons, the rookie who is expected to be the No. 1 catcher, still is in the Army. The bullpen is in trouble without Joe Hoerner.

The Phillies are rebuilding the kids, installing Larry Bowa at short and Denny Doyle at second in the middle of the infield. They are short one outfielder. Much depends on comebacks by Chris Short and Jim Bunning in the pitching department.

Montreal is in over its head again but could do better than last year's sad 52-110 record.

In the West, the booming bats of the Reds will have to make up for pitching shortages.

The loss of Ron Reed was a blow to the Braves, taking away an 18-game winner for an indefinite period.

The Braves are a solid club and could repeat with another big year from Hank Aaron.

Many regard the Astros as the sleeper in the field. That pitching staff, led by Larry Dierker, Don.Wilson, Tom Griffin and Denny Lemaster, set a strikeout record lalt year.

Remember, they clobbered the Mets 10-2 in the season seriel. The addition of Joe Pepitone has to help.

Juan Marichal and Gaylord Perry on the mound and Willie McCovey and Willie Mays at the plate are going to keep the Giants in the thick of it..

They have finished. second five years in a row.

The Dodgers are another club that could blow up a storm if kids like Bill Buckner and possibly Steve Garvey come through. Much depends on Willie Davis in Center and the ability of Maurry Wills to play steadily.

San Diego should move up a few lengths but it is difficult to see them getting out of the cellar.

Bengals Face Washington In Season Opener Monday

A White House relief pitcher will launch baseball's 101st season Monday at Washington while Canada's young major league entry helps ring in tte last Crosley Field opener at Cincinnati, where it all began.

Neither President Nixon nor Vice President Agnew will be on hand for the Washington inaugural, which pits the Detroit Tigers, without Denny McLain, against Ted Williams' ambitious Senators.

Mickey Lolich is set to pitch for the Tigers in the absence of McLain, under suspension until July 1 for his 1967 gambling activities. Dick Bosman, American ERA king last year, will be the Washington starter.

David Eisenhower, Nixon's son-in-law and grandson of the former President, is a candidate to handle the traditional first-ball assignment.

At Cincinnati, where the Reds' forerunners began playing professionally in 1869, Jim Merritt will be on the mound for the home club against Joe Sparma and the Montreal Expos in the other traditional opening day game. The Reds are scheduled to shift from ancient Crosley Field to a new stadium in time to host the July 14 All-Star Game.

The spotlight shifts Tuesday to Milwaukee, new home of the ill-fated Seattle Pilots, which entertains California in its opener while all other clubs except St. Louis also swing into action, the Cardinals play their first game Wednesday at Montreal.

Milwaukee, without its own franchise since the Braves defected to Atlanta five years ago, plans a gala sendoff for the renamed Brewers—despite a hectic race against the clock to prepare for the opener. "We have four months of work to do in four days," Marvin Milkes, the American League club's general manager, said Friday.

In Tuesday's other AL games, league titlist Baltimore is at Cleveland, Minnesota at Chicago, Boston at New York, Oakland at Kansas City and Detroit at Washington.

The world champion New York Mets visit Pittsburgh, Atlanta is at San Diego, Chicago at Philadelphia, Houston at San Francisco and Cincinnati at Los Angeles in National League play.

The Orioles have been tabbed solid 9-to-5 favorites by Las Vegas bookmakers to repeat in the AL and St. Louis is the 7-2 choice in the NL, followed by the Mets and San Francisco, at 9-2.

While President Nixon has put in a bullpen call for the Washington opener, Baltimore's Dave McNally, Boston's Gary Peters and Los Angeles' Claude Osteen appeared geared for distance as their clubs' opening day pitchers.

McNally, a 20-game winner for the Orioles last season, Peters, obtained by Boston in a winter trade with the White Sox, and Osteen, another 20-victory man, were the standouts among half a dozen hurlers who worked Friday exhibition games in final tuneups for Tuesday starting assignments.

The Orioles bowed to Montreal 3-2 at Arlington, Tex., despite McNally's three-hit, seven inning stint. The Red Sox rallied for three ninth inning runs to top Cincinnati 3-1 at Tampa, Fla., as Peters yielded just two hits and stretched his scoreless string to 31 2-3 innings before being nicked for an unearned run in the eighth.

Osteen, who worked six innings, and Jim Brewer combined to limit California to three singles in the first eight innings, leading the Dodgers to a 7-2 victory over the Angels at Los Angeles.

Elsewhere, the Chicago Cubs outsocked the White Sox 13-12 in a 35-hit donnybrook punctuated with three grand slam homers —by the Cubs J. C. Martin and the Sox' Buddy Bradford and Syd O'Brien; St. Louis trimmed Eddie Stanky's University of South Alabama team 9-2 with the help of 13 walks and Atlanta, keyed by Hank Aaron's homer, spilled Oakland 4-2.

Doug Rader drove in four runs with a double and homer as Houston downed the Yankees 9-5, San Francisco edged Milwaukee 6-5, on Hal Lanier's eigmth inning infield hit, Pittsburgh blanked Columbus of the International League 5-0 and Cleveland bowed to Wichita of the American Association 7-5.

Palmer Shares Tourney Lead

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — He's still the king. He's 40 now, the hair is thinning in the front and the back of the neck is lined and seamed as a farmer's.

But Arnold Palmer still is No. 1, still the greatest attraction golf has known. And he still gets the job done.

The game's all-time leading money winner fashioned a sparkling first round 64, seven under par, and was tied for the top spot with golf's most famous bridesmaid, Tommy Aaron, going into today's second round in the $180,000 Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament.

The dynamic Palmer, winner of more than 50 tour events, drew galloping herd of fans from the huge gallery of about 15,000 and responded to their urging of "Go, Arnie, go" with a brilliant effort.

He gained a share of the top spot when he pitched to within 2½-feet on the final green and the sound that went up sounded like Shea Stadium during the World Series. It took him 15 minutes to fight his way to the press tent.

But at least part of his mind was on next week's prestigious Masters.

"Do you have some second thoughts now about coming to Greensboro instead of waiting for the Masters?" he was asked.

The famous grin spread over the putty face and Palmer responded:

Dave Bristol, new manager of the Seattle Pilots of the American League, broke into organized baseball as a second baseman in 1951.

Seals, Flyers Tied For Third

OAKLAND (AP) — A suspenseful numbers game is coming to a close in the National Hockey League West Division and the Philadelphia Flyers have been reluctantly drawn into the game.

The Flyers, who seemingly were assured of a playoff berth, found themselves tied today for third place with Oakland, which beat Los Angeles 4-1 Friday night in the only NHL contest.

Philadelphia ended the season today against Minnesota, faced with the possibility of being shut out of the playoffs if they lose or tie, because fifth-place Minnesota still has another game Sunday at Pittsburgh.

Oakland ends its season tonight at least-place Los Angeles, and the only way the Seals could miss the playoffs now would be to lose while Minnesota ties Philadelphia and also beats Pittsburgh.

If two, or all three teams, end the season in the tie, the team with the fewest victories is left out of the playoffs.

After Oakland's victory before 9,964 fans, second largest Oakland home crowd this season the situation looked like this:

Minnesota, with two games remaining, had 17 victories and 56 points. Philadelphia had 17 victories and 58 points. Oakland had 22 victories and 58 points.

The Seals exploded for three final-period goals to doom last-place Los Angeles.

Leading 1-0 on Earl Ingarfield's second-period score, the Seals got another goal by Ingarfield and one by Gary Jarrett and Bob Dillabough. Defenseman Doug Roberts contributed three assists.

Los Angeles averted a shutout on Bill Flett's goal at 17:24 of the final period.

Edwards Named Most Valuable

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Red Wings have canceled the Trophy Night proceedings that were to precede tonight's game at Olympia Stadium, but there's still a big honor for goalie Roy Edwards.

The Detroit hockey writers selected him Friday as the team's most valuable player in the season, making him only the third goalie to win the award since it was instituted.

Edwards edged Gordie Howe, who has won the honor 14 times, and defenseman Carl Brewer to take the award.

Bucks Triumph; Capture First Playoff Series

By The Associated Press

Lew Alcindor's up to his old tricks again.

He's got the Milwaukee Bucks dreaming of championships just as UCLA did during the years the amazing athlete played the-roll . . . just as he did at Power Memorial Academy in New York. In other words, Lew Alcindor became the first National Basketball Association team—oops, pardon the slip—The Milwaukee Bucks became the first team to advance to a divisional championship series in the NBA Friday night when they beat the Philadelphia 76ers 115-106.

Alcindor scored 46 points. It boosted his total for five playoff games to 181—an average just a shade over 36 points.

Chicago shot down the Atlanta Hawks, who were trying to make it four straight, in the night's other NBA playoff action, the Bulls winning 131-120. Atlanta holds a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven Western Division 1emfinals.

Los Angeles, behind 2-1, plays at Phoenix in tonight's only NBA action. The Los Angeles-Phoenix survivor takes on the Atlanta-Chicgo series' winner for the Western Division title.

Milwaukee now plays either New York or Baltimore, which trails the Knicks 3-2 with the Eastern Division series resuming Sunday at Baltimore.

"We should be ready for whichever one we face," said Milwaukee Coach Larry Costello, calling Baltimore and New York both "great clubs."

It was an uphill fight for Milwaukee, however. The 76ers had an 85-82 advantage after the first three periods. The Bucks didn't get their first lead of the second half until Alcindor made good on a three-point play to put Milwaukee ahead 92-90 in the fourth period.

"I like Alcindor all the time," said 76er Coach Jack Ramsay. "He is a thoroughly dedicated team player. Milwaukee played a great series."

Bill Cunningham and Wally Jones kept the 76ers in contention until the waning moments. Cunningham scored 28 and Jones 26.

Chicago, with Chet Walker and Clem Haskins providing the scoring punch, breezed past Atlanta in the first period and the Hawks could never get the upper hand, although they led briefly after intermission.

"It was a breakdown in our defense," said Richie Guerin, the Atlanta coach. "It could have been a natural letdown after a 3-0 lead, but it'll be over Sunday, that's for sure."

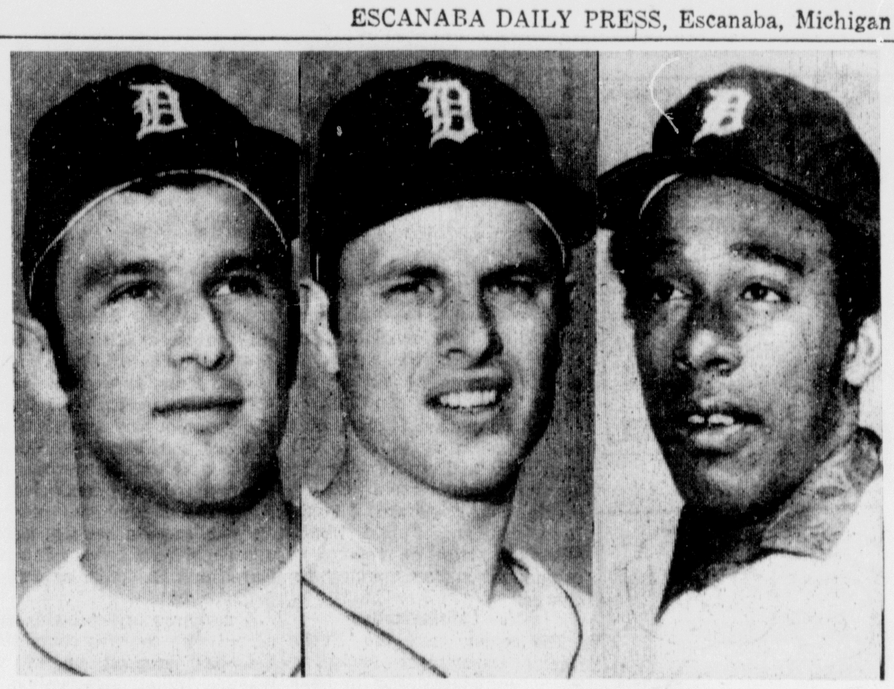

Dick Motta, Chicago's coach, isn't ready to just hand the series to the Hawks in the fifth game at Atlanta Sunday.

"I know no team has ever come back from 3-0 to win a playoff but there was a time when nobody gave us a chance of making the playoffs and we did," said Motta. "Thi win eliminates some self doubt. If we win at Atlanta Sunday, anything can happen"

Walker scored 39 points to lead Chicago while Haskins contributed 29. Joe Caldwell was high for the Hawks with 38 points.

Twins, Red Sox Picked To Win Division Titles

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — If anybody is going to beat the Baltimore Orioles in the American League East, it will be the Boston Red Sox. If anybody is going to top the Minnesota Twins in the American League West, it will be the Oakland A's.

It says here the Red Sox will do the job on the Orioles, although they finished third, 22 games back, in 1969, but Minnesota will stagger past Oakland in the West only to be ambushed by the Red Sox in the pennant playoff.

Jim Lonborg appears back on the beam. The addition of Gary Peters from the White Sox seems to have given the Red Sox a solid pitching base that includes Ray Culp and Mike Nagy. George Scott had an outstanding spring and Carl Yastrzemski had one of his best exhibition seasons. Catching appears to be Boston's chief problem now that Luis Alvarado has fitted into the infield at third base.

Here's the way the two divisions look from here:

East
1.Boston
2.Baltimore
3.Washington
4.Detroit
5.New York
6.Cleveland

West
1.Minnesota
2.Oakland
3.Kansas City
4.Chicago
5.California
6.Seattle-Milwaukee

The Orioles have a solid lineup from top to bottom with fine power in Boog Powell, Frank Robisnon, Brooks Rboinson and Paul Blair. Mike Cuellar, Dave McNally, Jim Palmer and Tom Phoebus are tough pitchers to crack. A rookie has to be a new Ty Cobb to break into the starting lineup still, this same awesome array of talent fell before the Mets last October. It could happen again.

Boston is hungry. With a new manager, Eddie Kasko, at the helm to create a new spirit of togetherness on a club that feuded with Dick Williams last year, they could recapture the spark of 1967.

Much depends on Alvarado, a hotshot shortstop in the minors but now a third baseman. If he makes it, Scott can remain in first where he prefers to play. Rico Petrocelli and Mike Andrews form a fine second short combo and the outfield of Yaz, Reggie Smith and Tony Conigliaro is second to none.

Ted Williams worked miracles with his Washington club last year, finishing only one game behind the Red Sox. With hitters like Frank Howard, Ken McMullen and Mike Epstein to carry the load, the Senators could sneak into third place.

The McLain case and a subsequent magazine article by Bill Freehan, who wrote of dissension in the clubhouse, may have wrecked the Tigers. Mickey Lolich must carry the heavy load. The lneup still is solid with Willie Horton, Al Kaline, Jim Northrop, Mickey Stanley, Norm Cash and Freehan to swing the bat. Who can replace McLain's 24 wins? The answer is easy — nobody.

Ralph Houk hopes to get more zing in the batting order with Curt Blefray in right field and Danny Cater on first. Rookie catcher Thurman Munson must come through big and Bobby Murcer must have a big year. Mel Stottlemyre, Fritz Peterson and Stan Bahnsen must struggle along without any big innings.

Ken Harrelson's loss was a tough blow to the Cleveland club even if Dean Chance comes back to help Sam McDowell.

The Twins floundered through spring training, losing nine in a row at one stage. Harmon Killebrew, bothered by a chronic knee condition, was slow coming around. Bill Rigney is counting on Luis Tiant to step in there with Jim Kaat, Jim Perry and Dave Boswell while the Killer and Tony Oliva do the heavy bombing.

Oakland might just be ready to make its move. The A's gave the Twins a scare last year until the very end. The addition of Don Mincher and Felipe Alou, plus the holdover power of Reggie Jackson and Rick Monday should keep them in most games.

Kansas City surprised a lot of people last year and Charlie Metro will be cracking the whip to get the most out of the players he personally picked as scouting director in the expansion draft. The White Sox are short on pitching and the Angels are weak at the bat. The three should finish in a pack with third fourth and fifth up for grabs.

And the Seattle Pilots? They won't even be in the league this season. Milwaukee's Brewers will have to be satisfied with dreams of the future.

Fails To Yell; Golfer Sued

DETROIT (AP) — A Detroit golfer who failed to yell "fore" when he teed off frfom the 15th hole has been ordered to pay $6,500 in damages to another golfer who was struck behind the left ear.

The golfer, Leon Heller, 56, hooked his tee shot to the left in august 1967 and struck Joseph Stack, who now lives in California.

Heller told a Wayne County Circuit Court jury that he didn't yell "fore" before making the shot because he is a consistent slicer, sending his drives off to the right. He said Stack was down range 120 yards and to the left.

Stack sued for $100,000 in damages, claiming that the injury left him short-tempered and prevents him from holding his old job as a salesman.

Heller testified that he relied on laws from Scotland that say golfers must always be alert for flying golf balls.

Stack countered by calling as a witness professional golfer Louis Powers, former head pro for Detroit's municipal golf courses. Powers said players must yell "fore" before and not after making shots.

Sizzling NHL Race Faces Key Games

NEW YORK (AP) — The tightest race in National Hockey League history steams into its final weekend Saturday with the East Division packed so tight that any one of four teams can still finish first.

The NHL commissioned Warner, Bicking and Fenwick, Inc., a New York firm, to have its computers figure out the various possibilities of East Division finishes. The computers came up with 125 possibilities for final standings after Sunday's games.

The only constant is Toronto's last place finish. The Maple Leafs cannot escape the cellar no matter what happens this weekend. But they can play a large role in the rest of the race.

Just five points separate first and fifth places with Chicago and Boston sharing first, Detroit third, Montreal fourth and New York fifth. The Rangers, however, trail Montreal by only two points and Detroit by just three.

By sweeping their final two games against the Red Wings, New York could qualify for the playoffs and finish as high as third, depending on what Montreal does in its last two games with Chicago.

The outcome of those Canadien—Black Hawk games and the two between Boston and Toronto will also determine who finishes first.

The Hawks and Bruins both have 95 points heading into the weekend but Chicago, with five more victories than the Bruins, has the edge.

If two teams finish the season tied in points, the team with the most victories is credited with the higher finish. If the victories are the same, then the team with the most goals scored gets the higher position.

Rarely is the race so close that the goals scored must be considered but that could also happen this weekend in the East scramble.

The race is so close that Montreal and Detroit both still have a shot at first place and, at the same time, either could miss the playoffs completely. It is an unprecedented situation.

Don Ruck, vice president of the NHL, said both league and individual club offices are being swamped with phone calls asking where and when the Stanley Cup playoffs will begin.

"We can't tell them," said Ruck. "We simply don't know. All we can tell them is that the Cup playoffs in the East Division will start somewhere on Wednesday, April 8."

Spartans Post Win No. 1,000

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The Michigan State University baseball team won a slugfest 11-6 victory over Miami Friday.

The Spartans had 16 hits which included four doubles, a triple and a home run. MSU catcher Phil Rashead had a homer with one on base in the fifth inning and a triple with bases loaded in the eighth. Rashead totaled five runs batted in and scored two himself while catching the entire game.

The leading hitter for the Spartans was center fielder Gary Boyze who belted three singles and a double and infielder Rob Ellis tagged a double and two singles.

This game marked the 1,000th win for the team since baseball came to the East Lansing campus in 1883 and MSU stands 9-1-2 for the spring training season.

Mets, Reds Picked To Win National League Divisions

ST. Petersburg, Fla. (AP) — Mets will fall flat on their faces. Maybe Gil Hodges will lose his magic. Maybe Tom Seaver and Jerry Koosman won't win at least 40 games. Maybe, but don't bet on it.

The Mets have bolstered the one weak spot in their infield with Joe Foy at third base. They picked up an experienced left-hander in Ray Sadecki. And they will have the full-season services of big Donn Clendenon.

After beating off the Chicago Cubs, Pittsburgh Pirates and St. Louis Cardinals—to say nothing of the Phillies and Montreal—they must take on the best in the West before they make the World Series again.

The best in the West could be any one of five teams. We exclude only San Diego from the race. Despite a pitching problem that still exists, that raw power in the Cincinnati Reds' order suggests they will outslug Atlanta, Houston, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Here's the way it looks from here in the two divisions:

East—1. New York: 2. Chicago; 3. St. Louis; 4. Pittsburgh; 5. Philadelphia; 6. Montreal. West—1. Cincinnati; 2. Atlanta; 3. Houston; 4. San Francisco; 5. Los Angeles; 6. San Diego.

The Pirates have been getting a big play from the sports writers in Florida.

But it is hard to overlook the Cubs, who had a 9½ — game lead on Aug. 13 and appeared ready to sell Series tickets. Losing that lead had to leave scars on the Cubs.

However, the big reason why we put them second is a shortage of starting pitchers behind Fergy Jenkins, Bill Hands and Ken Holtzman.

Getting back to the Mets for a moment, there is reason to believe that Nolan Ryan may be ready to step up right behind Seaver, Koosman and Gary Gentry to make a formidable staff.

Seaver and Koosman, of course, are the keys.

St. Louis is in a muddled situation because of the illness of Mike Shannon. Red Schoendienst has been trying Joe Torre, Phil Gagliano and Richie Allen at third base.

Ted Simmons, the rookie who is expected to be the No. 1 catcher, still is in the Army. The bullpen is in trouble without Joe Hoerner.

The Phillies are rebuilding the kids, installing Larry Bowa at short and Denny Doyle at second in the middle of the infield. They are short one outfielder. Much depends on comebacks by Chris Short and Jim Bunning in the pitching department.

Montreal is in over its head again but could do better than last year's sad 52-110 record.

In the West, the booming bats of the Reds will have to make up for pitching shortages.

The loss of Ron Reed was a blow to the Braves, taking away an 18-game winner for an indefinite period.

The Braves are a solid club and could repeat with another big year from Hank Aaron.

Many regard the Astros as the sleeper in the field. That pitching staff, led by Larry Dierker, Don.Wilson, Tom Griffin and Denny Lemaster, set a strikeout record lalt year.

Remember, they clobbered the Mets 10-2 in the season seriel. The addition of Joe Pepitone has to help.

Juan Marichal and Gaylord Perry on the mound and Willie McCovey and Willie Mays at the plate are going to keep the Giants in the thick of it..

They have finished second five years in a row.

The Dodgers are another club that could blow up a storm if kids like Bill Buckner and possibly Steve Garvey come through. Much depends on Willie Davis in Center and the ability of Maurry Wills to play steadily.

San Diego should move up a few lengths but it is difficult to see them getting out of the cellar.

Foster Favorite In Title Bout

MISSOULA, Mont. (AP) — Cool Bob Foster, a thinking man's champion, carries a vast advantage of reach, height and charisma into his light heavyweight title defense tonight against Montana brawler Roger Rouse, in this scenic western Montana city.

Foster has the standard fight line that he must beat Rouse and regain the light heavyweight title, but admits he's looking beyond that to a heavyweight shot against brutal Joe Frazier.

Foster somehow packs the wallop of a mule into a 6-foot-4 frame that looks deceptively slender and vulnerable. He will be going for his 43rd victory against the cut-prone Rouse.

Rouse battled Foster once before, losing on a fifth-round TKO when Foster opened up a gushing cut under one eye. The journeyman Rouse, now 34, has a 38-7-3 record in his 10 years of fighting in the ring.

Lake St. Clair Fish Get Okay From Officials

LANSING (AP) — Michigan authorities have concluded that there is no health hazard in drinking water or eating fish taken from Lake St. Clair.

That conclusion is part of a report presented to Gov. William G. Milliken Friday by experts in the state departments of Agriculture, Natural Resources and Public Health following study oe reports of contamination from mercury discharge.

No Contamination

The report said the Public Health Department found no mercury contamination in Lake St. Clair drinking water and no evidence to suggest Michigan should restrict commercial fishing in Lake Erie.

The Natural Resources Department said it would not curtail sport fishing on either lake. The joint report said "there is no risk of toxicity or illness in sport fishermen or others who occasionally eat fish from these waters."

At the same time, Wyandotte Chemical Corp. announced it would reduce its rate of mercury discharge to a maximum of 1-2 pounds daily by April 15 and hopes to eliminate it entirely within six months.

10-Pound Dumping

In the wake of reports of contamination of fish and water supplies by both American and Canadian industries, Wyandotte Chemical was found to have a mercury dumping rate of 10 pounds a day. A Canadian affiliate of Dow Chemical Co. was found to be discharging some 200 pounds of mercury a day.

The report released by Milliken's office said in part:

"There is no indication that there has been any recent large increase in mercury contamination of the lakes; in fact, recent action has greatly reduced the daily discharge.

"Based upon all available information, there is no evidence of any acute or chronic health problem due to mercury contamination of the water or fish.

Seizure Action Possible

"The food and drug administration has established 0.5 parts per million of mercury as an interim guideline to be used in protecting the public food supply," the report said, adding "seizure action will be immediate if the 0.5 ppm guideline is exceeded in fish for sale."

Tests are being continued on fish taken from lakes, St. Clair, Erie, Michigan, Huron and the Detroit and St. Clair rivers, the report said.

Mercury contamination discovered in tests of perch and walleye pike (also known as pickerel) from Lakes St. Clair and Erie already has resulted in the Canadian government clamping a ban on their sale and export.

Tests Being Taken

Similar tests are still being conducted on fish taken from the American side of the lakes.

James Beebe, acting director of the FDA office in Detroit, said he expected to have the results Monday.

Beebe said the FDA has set no official tolerance level for mercury in fish but follows the interim guideline which establishes a concentration of .5 parts per million as the limit over which interstate commerce is banned.

This is the same level set by Canadian food and drug authorities, but only half the limit established by Ontario scientists as a safety level.

High Mercury Content

Some samples tested in Canadian laboratories disclosed a mercury content of 1.36 parts per million in fish taken from Lake St. Clair last week.

Officials say they have not yet established what is the limit for human consumption — but they are taking no chances for the present. Mercury poisoning attacks the central nervous system and may cause death, according to some scientists.

Why hasn't a level been established for human consumption?

"Really there hasn't been a need," said Beebe. "No one has ever applied for a regulation where you would add mercury to a product and thereby need to have a safe tolerance—up to this point."

Beebe pointed out, however, that the 0.5 level of mercury in fish is one that obviously would not be from a natural background source.

Would Remove Product

"At that level, or above, we know something is wrong," he said, "and we would remove the product from the market."

Canadian authorities believe they have at least a partial answer to what went wrong. Investigation showed that the Dow Chemical plant at Sarnia, Ont., had been leaking about 200 pounds of mercury a day into the St. Clair River before a crash control program was started.

In addition, five Canadian pulp and paper mills were ordered to abandon the use of mercury to remove slime from paper rolls.

Meanwhile, another Michigan official said he believes fish in all the Great Lakes probably are contaminated by mercury.

Tests Conducted

Carlos Fetterolf, supervisor of the water quality appraisal section of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, said tests are being conducted to determine the amount of mercury—if any—in salmon, perch, and chub from Lakes Michigan, Huron and St. Clair, as well as Saginaw Bay.

A new mystery—possibly connected with the fish contamination—has dropped up at the Walpole Indian Reservation in the St. Clair flats. Chief Burton Jacobs reported that several dead muskrats had been found in marshy areas and are being tested for mercury poisoning.

Muskrat trappings on Walpole Island yields some $80,000 to $100,000 a year to the Indians there, according to Jacobs.

$4 Million Catch

In Canada, where the annual Lake Erie catch is worth $4 million on the commercial market, fishermen complained bitterly about the indefinite ban on the sale and export of perch and walleyes from the lake.

"We didn't do anything wrong—why should we be put out of business?" asked one commercial fisherman, Laverne Kelly of Erieau.

Under the ban, fishermen are permitted to continue making catches, but will have to freeze them until further tests for mercury levels are carried out.

Top level discussions are being held in Washington by the International Joint Commission, a Canadian - American group that considers problems of mutual interest to both countries.

Out of the meetings may come a new program for joint control of similar pollution problems in the future.

Lake Survey Publication Informative

DETROIT (AP)—Know what to do if you're fishing or pleasure boating on the Great Lakes and see a square, red Coast Guard flag flying with a square black center?

The answer is: Get out of there as fast as you can. It's a storm warning and winds of 55 miles an hour or higher are expected. A triangular red flag is a small craft warning.

Know what to do if you want the Black River bridge at Port Huron to open for your boat?

Sound your horn: One long, two short and one long blast. This also is the signal for any bridges on the Saginaw River, but other signals are required elsewhere.

On what frequency do you make an SOS "Mayday" call in case of trouble? Answer: 2182 kHz.

Want a detailed description of coast line, harbors, islands and reefs on the Great Lakes and their connecting waters, as well as on the Hudson River and Lake Champlain?

You can find these things and literally hundreds of others in the 1970 edition of "Great Lakes Pilot," a publication of the U.S. Lake Survey of the Army's Corps of Engineers. It retails at $3.25 and is available from Lake Survey offices in Detroit's Federal Building.

There are nine pages of laws regarding navigation and navigable waters and 72 pages of rules and regulations, along with what the penalties are for violations.

Depths of waters and distances between various points are given in charts for all the lakes, and a table for conversion of knots into miles per hour also is included.

The book itself covers 599 pages and it has a 24-page index.

Special Studies In Alcoholism Set

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A specialist in studies on alcoholics says most compulsive drinkers are too moral, too conscientious and set goals that are too high for them.

Blythe Sprott, associate professor of health studies at California State College at Los Angeles, told an interviewer Friday: "Alcoholics have an overdeveloped conscience."

They use alcohol to anesthetize their guilt at falling short, he said.

"Alcoholics are often found among the most up-and-coming young executives, and that's why many companies nowadays have become so interested in restoring them to full efficiency," the educator said.

Kopechne Inquest Notes Misplaced?

EDGARTOWN, Mass. (AP) — The question of what happened to the stenographic notes of the Mary Jo Kopechne inquest has arisen only a few days before the Dukes County grand jury opens its own investigation into her death.

Miss Kopechne, a former campaign secretary for the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, was found dead in Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's car after it plunged off a narrow bridge into a tidal pool last July 18.

The notes of the testimony were taken by Harold T. McNeil and Sidney R. Lipman, professional court reporters from Boston. Under orders of Judge James A. Boyle, who presided at the District Court inquest, the notes were turned over to the court each day along with the typed transcript.

By an order of the state Supreme Court, the transcript, the judge's report and any other documents received as exhibits were impounded at the conclusion of the inquest, and later were turned over to the Suffolk Superior Court in Boston for safekeeping.

The clerk of the Suffolk court, Edward V. Keating, who sent to Edgartown to pick up the papers after the January inquest, said they were in a heavy cardboard box the size of a fifling cabinet drawer.

Inside were sealed envelopes, each marked as containing transcript, the judge's report, and other exhibits. None bore any notation to indicate the notes were in them, he said.

In Edgartown, neither Judge Boyle nor the clerk of his court, Thomas A. Teller, would discuss the disposition of the notes.

Specialized VA Programs Get Nixon's Okay

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon moved Friday to expand the specialized medical programs of the Veterans Administration to meet the needs of the men returning from Vietnam.

Nixon asked Congress for an immediate appropriation of $15 million for the fiscal year ending this June 30 and another $50 million in the VA's medical care budget request for fiscal year 1971.

The Veterans Administration has a medical budget of $1.54 billion for the current year and has asked Congress to approve $1.70 billion for next year.

"I am determined that no American serviceman returning with injuries from Vietnam will fail to receive the immediate total medical care he requires," Nixon said in a statement.

"This commitment will require more than dollars to redeem; it will require sound management of existing VA facilities, wise use of existing personnel and equipment and—most importantly a sensitivity to the needs of our veterans, personal as well as medical," he said.

The President said the $15 million supplemental appropriation he requested would be spent in April, May and June partly to clear up the excessive backlog of dental claims of Vietnam veterans.

It would provide funds also to improve the staffing of existing specialized medical programs, especially the spinal cord injury centers and the coronary-intensive care units; carry out plans for taking hemodialysis units into the homes of veterans suffering from serious kidney ailments; and help meet increased costs of needed drugs and medicines.

Nursing Home Upgrading Set In Five States

DETROIT (AP) — A program to upgrade nursing homes in Michigan and four other states was outlined today by the Michigan Nursing Home Association.

Incentive payments to be made under a "flexible payment schedule" would vary from $9.55 to $20 a day in state reimbursements for each patient under medicaid.

Maximum payments would be awarded only to first-rate, skilled-care homes, a spokesman for the association explained.

The plan calls for a complete overhaul of the existing medicaid program which now pays $14.50 a day regardless of services offered. The program was drawn up by top nursing home officials in Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio, Texas and Wisconsin.

Marvin Diamond, a Spokesman for the Michigan association, said a higher payment scale for better homes would serve as an important stimulus to nursing home improvement.

"The state now can punish homes for poor maintenance," he said, "but it offers no reward to improve service and facilities."

Diamond said that if the plan were adopted nationally "It could save medicaid from almost certain downfall at the end of the year—something has to be done and the state knows it."

Nursing home officials in Michigan believe that new state medicaid regulations are overly restrictive for the small operator, with requirements geared to facilities rather than services, he added.

Under the proposed plan, each home would start with a base fee of $9.55 per patient. To this would be added a 25-cent reimbursement for each extra service provided, up to a limit of $3.

In addition, other incentive points would be based on pay scales, services offered and degree of staff professionalism, up to a maximum of $20 per patient.

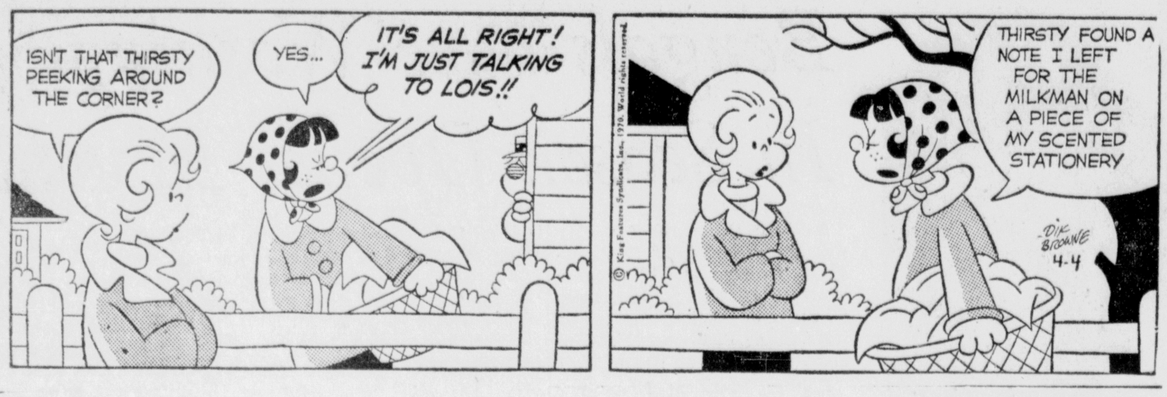

'70 Car No Match For Huge Snowball

KALAMAZOO (AP) — A half-dozen Western Michigan University students decided to have some fun in the snow Thursday and started to roll up a gigantic snowball.

When it reached a diameter of about five feet, the snowball started rolling down a hill.

It kept going until it was stopped by a 1970 model car parked nearby. The result: a smashed hood and shattered windshield, with damage estimated at $500 by the owner, Edwin Basile, another student.

Stop Dredging

CHICAGO (AP) — The Army Corps of Engineers has halted its dredging of the Great Lakes —at least temporarily.

The only exception is in waste disposal areas, the Corps' Chicago office said. The Corps has been dumping dredging wastes into the lakes for years.

"We've restricted dredging in all the Great Lakes pending a new antipollution policy statement from President Nixon.

Card of Thanks

Briere

We wish to thank our friends, neighbors and relatives for their kindness and sympathy in our bereavement, the death of our dear sister, mother and grandmother, Angeline Briere. We are especially grateful to Rev. Clifford Nadeau for his comforting words, to the pallbearers, to those who sent flowers, spiritual bouquets, those who offered the use of their cars.

The Family Of
Angeline Briere

Meyer

We wish to thank our friends, neighbors, and relatives for their kindness and sympathy in our bereavement in the death of our wife, mother, and sister, Mary Meyer.

We particularly want to thank the St. Francis Hospital nurses and sisters on the 3rd floor, Father Thompson, Father Schaefer and Dr. LeMire.

Our thanks also to all those who furnished cars or drove, to the pallbearers, those who donated food, gifts of spiritual bouquets and Mass cards, to the Reiss Coal Co. employes, Birds Eye and AMVETS, and all those who helped in any way. Your thoughtfulness will always be remembered.

George Meyer and Sons,
Fred and Jon Kelker

Stop Dredging

CHICAGO (AP) — The Army Corps of Engineers has halted its dredging of the Great Lakes —at least temporarily.

The only exception is in waste disposal areas, the Corps' Chicago office said. The Corps has been dumping dredging wastes into the lakes for years.

"We've restricted dredging in all the Great Lakes pending a new antipollution policy statement from President Nixon.

38 Communities, Firms Cited For Pollution

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — The Lake Michigan Pollution Enforcement Conference this week branded 38 communities and industries violators of its cleanup orders issued nearly two years ago.

All are accused of failing to meet deadlines for completing some phase of the Lake Michigan pollution abatement program set up by earlier sessions of the federal-state conference.

Only Michigan, of the four states involved, got a pat on the back for doing the job, before the conference recessed.

Citations went to municipalities as large as Milwaukee and as small as Kiel, Wis., and to businesses ranging from the United States Steel Corp. to the Baileys Harbor, Wis., laundry.

Besides Milwaukee, 18 Wisconsin cities and the Southern Colony and Training School at Union Grove were cited for failing to have effluent chlorination equipment operating before May, 1969.

All had been given extensions by the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources.

Any or all of the organizations receiving citations may get 180-day compliance orders.

said Murray Stein, conference chairman and chief enforcement officer for the federal Water Pollution Control Administration.

U.S. Steel was cited for not meeting deadlines on orders issued to its Waukegan, Ill., and South Works (Chicago) plants for diverting waste water from the lake.

Also named were six Indiana municipalities, including South Bend, which has been fighting an order from the Indiana Stream Pollution Board for 10 years.

The conference agreed to meet in about a month for an executive session to draw up new rules and timetables as a result of testimony at this week's session.

Also on the agenda for that meeting will be proposals for regulating discharges of heated water used to cool nuclear power plants. Only one now is in operation on the shores of Lake Michigan, but eight are in various states of construction.

Such plants require tremendous amounts of water for cooling.

Panama exports $52 million worth of bananas a year. The pampered fruit is grown in plastic bags to protect it from insects and scarring by wind-whipped leaves.

DNR To Discuss Coho-Littered Platte River

LANSING—The Department of Natural Resources announces it will hold a public hearing May 8 at the Benzie High School in the Benzonia-Beulah area to air alternative means of handling this fall's coho run in the Platte River.

DNR fisheries officials are now starting to shape plans for managing the river's fall run of salmon, which they will bring up for public discussion at the hearing.

The Department is focusing on ways to meet objections of anglers temporarily closing the Platte River to fishing in the fall.

Equally important, the DNR hopes to arrive at an answer for local streamside owners who have been upset over the problem of dead salmon littering their river banks in the winter.

DNR Aide Dies

GRAYLING (AP) — Charles F. Welch, 59, a state natural resources department employe since 1935, died Friday in a Grayling hospital after a long illness.

Welch, regional education supervisor at the department's Roscommon office, was a former secretary of the Michigan Outdoor Writers Association and had long been active with that organization.

THREE GIRL SCOUTS of Troop 216, the Jefferson School, were presented with awards for selling more than 100 boxes of Girl Scout cookies in the recent campaign. Building Code Records Now Open For Inspection

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit's Department of Building and Safety Engineering announced Friday that records on building code violations are open for public inspection.

The Detroit Commission on Community Relations two days ago said that it had been denied access to the records. The commission said it wants to check on the city's assessment of conditions at 22 apartment houses that it listed in 1967 as having a long history of building violations.

Gerald Sands, a building department supervisor said that the reports by department inspectors would be available for inspection, but copies could not be handed out.

38 Communities, Firms Cited For Pollution

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — The Lake Michigan Pollution Enforcement Conference this week branded 38 communities and industries violators of its cleanup orders issued nearly two years ago.

All are accused of failing to meet deadlines for completing some phase of the Lake Michigan pollution abatement program set up by earlier sessions of the federal-state conference.

Only Michigan, of the four states involved, got a pat on the back for doing the job, before the conference recessed.

Citations went to municipalities as large as Milwaukee and as small as Kiel, Wis., and to businesses ranging from the United States Steel Corp. to the Baileys Harbor, Wis., laundry.

Besides Milwaukee, 18 Wisconsin cities and the Southern Colony and Training School at Union Grove were cited for failing to have effluent chlorination equipment operating before May, 1969.

All had been given extensions by the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources.

Any or all of the organizations receiving citations may get 180-day compliance orders, said Murray Stein, conference chairman and chief enforcement officer for the federal Water Pollution Control Administration.

U.S. Steel was cited for not meeting deadlines on orders issued to its Waukegan, Ill., and South Works (Chicago) plants for diverting waste water from the lake.

Also named were six Indiana municipalities, including South Bend, which has been fighting an order from the Indiana Stream Pollution Board for 10 years.

The conference agreed to meet in about a month for an executive session to draw up new rules and timetables as a result of testimony at this week's session.

Also on the agenda for that meeting will be proposals for regulating discharges of heated water used to cool nuclear power plants. Only one now is in operation on the shores of Lake Michigan, but eight are in various states of construction.

Such plants require tremendous amounts of water for cooling.

DNR To Discuss Coho-Littered Platte River

LANSING—The Department of Natural Resources announces it will hold a public hearing May 8 at the Benzie High School in the Benzonia-Beulah area to air alternative means of handling this fall's coho run in the Platte River.

DNR fisheries officials are now starting to shape plans for managing the river's fall run of salmon, which they will bring up for public discussion at the hearing.

The Department is focusing on ways to meet objections of anglers temporarily closing the Platte River to fishing in the fall.

Equally important, the DNR hopes to arrive at an answer for local streamside owners who have been upset over the problem of dead salmon littering their river banks in the winter.

Hijacked Plane Given Release; Students Stay

TOKYO (AP) — North Korea announced the hijacked Japanese plane that flew to Pyongyang Friday with three crewmen and a Japanese official as hostages took off for home Saturday night, Japan Broadcasting Corp. reported.

The broadcast said North Korea's notification was passed to United Nations Command officials at the Korean truce village of Panmunjom.

The North Koreans had announced earlier the plane and the hostages would be sent back but that the nine radical leftist student hijackers would remain in North Korea.

Radio Pyongyang added that North Korean authorities will investigate the nine radical Japanese students who hijacked the plane and will "take appropriate steps" regarding them. They will not go back to Japan, the broadcast said, "because they do not want to return."

But Pyongyang denounced the hijackers as "arrogant" and accused Japan of taking advantage of the incident to embarrass North Korea.

The young hijackers freed the plane's 99 passengers and four stewardesses in Seoul Friday in exchange for Shinjiro Yamamura, a Japanese vice transportation minister who had volunteered to be a hostage.

The Japan Air Lines Boeing 727 then flew to Pyongyang, the capital of North Korea, with the hijackers, three crewmen and Yamamura aboard.

The correspondent sent word to Japan's Communist party that Yamamura, the crewmen and the youths had been taken to a Pyongyang hotel.

Nixon's Postage Hike Causing Controversy

Dad Kicks 'Habit'

Proposed Plan Part Of Pay Increase Deal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Initial congressional reaction has raised the possibility that trouble lies ahead for President Nixon's proposal to raise the price of a first-class postage stamp from 6 to 10 cents.

"A 10-cent first-class stamp is unconscionable," Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo., chairman of the Senate Post Office Committee declared Friday after Nixon's proposal was sent to Congress.

The proposed increase was part of a package plan Nixon offered to finance a 6 per cent wage increase the government promised all federal workers under terms of an agreement reached Thursday.

Government and postal union negotiators worked out the 6 per cent agreement, along with an additional boost of 8 per cent for postal workers only that would be effective when Congress approves Nixon's postal reform plan.

The agreement halted the immediate threat of a new postal workers' strike but it raised financing problems for the President.

Nixon's message left unanswered what will be done about the current 10-cent air mail rate. Assistant Postmaster General James W. Hargrove said the question is under study, adding the air mail rate might be merged with the first-class charge.

$2.3 Billion Package

The first-class stamp proposal would bring in $2.3 billion annually, Nixon said. Raising charges on other types of mail would produce another $300 million.

Under the proposal, parcel post would cost 15 per cent more, so-called "junk" advertising mail an extra 5 per cent, second-class mailings 12 per cent, and single-piece third-class mail, 67 per cent.

Collection Speedup

The President also proposed a speedup in collection of estate and gift taxes to produce a revenue windfall of $1.5 billion in the 1971 fiscal year. That, coupled with mail cost increases and money already budgeted for federal pay increases, would pay for Thursday's agreement, Nixon said.

But McGee said it is out of the question to "load the burden of paying for this significant move in the area of labor-management relations on the one class of mail that pays its own way. We are going to have to talk about and consider a more equitable distribution of this load."

Tax Hike Ruled Out

Nixon said his plan "will neither require extending the surtax nor raising income tax rates." But he said new and permanent revenue measures will be needed by mid-1971. He didn't say what type the administration will favor.

Defiant Air Traffic Controllers Stay Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defiant air traffic controllers ignored pleas to return to their radar consoles and control towers today and end their 11-day rebellion. Their leaders said only amnesty and third party mediation would bring them back.

The deadlock could be settled in 24 hours or less, declared attorney F Lee Bailey, if amnesty were granted and President Nixon stepped in to appoint a mediator.

Bailey, executive director of the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization, read as directed under a court-ordered agreement a statement ordering controllers "who are fit and able" to return on their next normal tour of duty.

The order apparently fell on deaf ears. The Federal Aviation Administration said there was little noticeable change in the number of absent controllers who have been calling in sick since the dispute began Wednesday of last week.

Only 69 of 153 controllers scheduled to work on the Friday night shift showed up at the FAA's key regional control center at Islip, L.I., which directs high altitude jet traffic in several Eastern states. On the first shift today, 26 of 56 called in sick. At the Chicago center, 78 of 134 reported in on the night shift, about the same as on previous nights.

"Just because Bailey and the others say go back to work—that doesn't mean anything. We're sick," said Larry Johnson a PATCO spokesman at the Washington control center in Leesburg, Va.

"It's fatigue, anxiety, whatever you want to call it," he said.

A federal judge in Cleveland called the sick-call absences by 125 Ohio controllers "child's play," and demanded they prove their alleged illnesses with medical certificates.

'Shoot-To-Kill' Orders Issued In Irish Hassle

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Terrorists exploded three bombs in the heart of Belfast today injuring at least two persons, despite a British army warning that troops may shoot to kill when they encounter rioters in the streets.

A time bomb in a wastebasket exploded in a store just as shops began opening. Two employes were wounded.

Police and British troops hustled shoppers out of danger after that blast and sealed off lower Donegal street.

Earlier two other bombs exploded in the shopping center of Belfast.

One bomb ripped through a tailor's on a main shopping street, blowing out windows and shattering glass in nearby shops. No casualties were reported.

A smaller blast gouged a foot-wide hole in the wall of a furniture store owned by Belfast mayor Joseph Cairns.

The explosion occurred on Royal Avenue in the city center — untouched by street warfare even at the peak of the trouble last August and September. The first blast was reported on Shankill Road, about a mile away.

Otherwise, the capital, scene of rioting pitting Catholics and Protestants against hundreds of troops, was quiet.

Gen. Sir Ian Freeland, Britain's army commander in Ulster, told a news conference Friday that gasoline bombs — a favorite weapon of the rioters — were lethal weapons and anyone concerned in their manufacture, transport or use faced up to 10 years imprisonment.

"What is more," he said "they are liable to be shot dead in the streets if, after warning, they persist."

Freeland received quick government backing. Roy Hattersley, British Minister with special responsibility for Northern Ireland, said in a broadcast that the general's statement was fully justified.

An army spokesman said later that Freeland's warning seemed to be "paying off."

The Ballymurphy area, where soldiers fired volley after volley of tear gas Wednesday and Thursday to break up missile-hurling crowds, was calm.

Some Truckers Stay Off Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Truck drivers in a few cities remained off their jobs today despite a general return to work by thousands of other Teamsters following settlement of a three-year contract.

As they abandoned their picket lines and climbed back aboard their trucks in all but a few cities Friday, union employes were mailing to the 425,000 drivers paper ballots on which they would pass judgment on the new contract.

It reportedly calls for a wage hike of $1.10 an hour over the life of the pact.

Wildcat strikes occurred in scattered cities after the old contract expired at midnight Tuesday and despite Thursday's settlement, drivers in some areas were still off the job today.

In Cleveland most of the 3,500 Teamsters involved refused to return to work. Police reported one rig was stopped and three shots were fired through the windshield. The driver was unhurt.

Union leaders there issued a statement deploring violence.

Drivers were also out in Tampa, Fla., where a dispute has erupted following the dismissal of 10 men at a single company.

And trucking operations in St. Louis were at a standstill because leaders of the 9,500 Teamsters said they had received no official word to go back to work.

Escape Crash

RAPID CITY, S.D. (AP) — Nine men who escaped from the flaming wreckage of an Air Force B52 bomber were reported in satisfactory condition today at Ellsworth Air Force Base Hospital.

Fire fighting crews were credited with saving the lives of at least three of the men after the eight-jet airplane crashed while landing and caught fire Friday.

Reporters Backed By Federal Judge

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal judge has ruled that the government must prove "overriding national interests" are at stake before it can require a reporter to disclose "confidential associations" to a grand jury investigating the Black Panthers.

In making the ruling Friday, Judge Alfonso J. Zirpoli said, however, that the reporter, Earl Caldwell of the New York Times, must appear before the grand jury as a "public duty which every person within the jurisdiction of the government is bound to perform."

Zirpoli said the 2½-hour hearing in U.S. District Court on motions to quash two subpoenas served on Caldwell presented "issues that go to the very core of the First Amendment."

He said they were "issues of significant magnitude the resolution of which may well be determinative of the scope of the journalist's privilege in sensitive areas of freedom of speech, press and association not heretofore fully explored and decided by the Supreme Court of the United States."

The judge stayed his order pending appeal to the 9th Circuit of the U.S. Court of Appeals, provided notice of appeal is filed within 20 days.

U.S. Atty. James Browning Jr. said the government has not yet decided whether to appeal to higher courts. That decision would be made by the solicitor general, he said.

Attorneys for Caldwell and The Times said they also will study the feasibility of an appeal.

In New York, A. M. Rosenthal, Times managing editor, said Caldwell told him by phone that "he feels very happy about the whole thing. He feels the decision is a good one and, I'm sure, so do we."

At the beginning of the hearing, government attorneys agreed with Zirpoli's suggestion that they withdraw a subpoena issued in February requiring that Caldwell appear with notes and recordings of interviews with Black Panther leaders. A later subpoena ordered only that the Negro reporter appear for questioning.

But Zirpoli said Caldwell "need not reveal confidential associations that impinge upon the effective exercise of the First Amendment right to gather news for dissemination to the public through the press . . . until such time as a compelling and overriding national interest which cannot be alternatively served has been stablished to the satisfaction of the court."

The Associated Press, Newsweek magazine, and the Columbia Broadcasting System and five of its newscasters, acting as friends of the court, filed briefs in support of the move to quash the subpoenas.

Forged Letter Gets Young GOP Aide In Trouble

CHICAGO (AP) — A U.S. District Court jury has convicted Victor S. Kamber, a national Young Republican Leader, of submitting a forged letter to his draft board requesting a teacher's deferment.

The jury on Friday acquitted Kamber, 27, of an accompanying charge that in a letter to the board he had falsified his position at a Maryland college.

The evidence turned on the letter, purportedly signed by Dr. John G. Handley, a dean at Prince Georges Community College, Largo, Md.

The letter said Kamber was an associate professor and chairman of the speech department.

Handley testified he had neither signed nor authorized the letter.

Kamber, a former Chicago resident, has served as head of the Young Republican Leadership Conference in Washington for the past two years.

Police Not Dopes, Find Marijuana Plants Growing

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Kalamazoo firemen doused a blaze at an apartment house Thursday, then noticed several live plants growing in the apartment.

Acting on a hunch, they asked police who were directing traffic outside the building to come in and take a look.

They arrested Peter Schubeck Jr., a 19-year-old Western Michigan University student.

Today's Chuckle

Marchers Set In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — Demonstrators gathered today for a "March for Victory" billed as an answer to the antiwar parade that took the same Pennsylvania Avenue route last November.

Organizers said they expected as many as 100,000 persons to participate in the trek from the foot of Capitol Hill to the Washington Monument for a rally.

Some 250,000 persons, most of them young, followed that route in the Nov. 15 antiwar demonstration.

The 200 persons who gathered for a prayer meeting outside the Washington Cathedral on the eve of the march Friday night were primarily middle-aged.

"We're not here to stir up trouble," Dr. Carl McIntire, a fundamentalist radio preacher from Collingswood, N.J., and organizer of the march, told the group.

"We want victory here at home and victory in Vietnam . . . We pray that this country may not go down in defeat, that it may have a place of honor and glory."

He branded as "religious discrimination and an act of grievous injustice" the refusal of the cathedral officials to allow his group to hold its prayer meeting inside the church. There, 10,000 peace demonstrators held a service the eve of their November march.

SDS Members Sought By FBI

CHICAGO (AP) — FBI agents have intensified a national search for 12 members of the Weatherman faction of fStudents for a Democratic Society charged with inciting a riot in Chicago last autumn.

"It's going to be difficult to find some of these people," commented Thomas A. Foran, U.S. district attorney in Chicago. The 12 dropped out of circulation two months ago.

The eight men and four women were charged Thursday by a federal grand jury with violating a federal law that prohibits crossing state lines with the intent of inciting a riot.

This is the statute under which the Chicago 7 were tried on charges involving disturbances at the time of the 1968 Democratic National Convention. In a five-month trial that ended Feb. 18, the seven were acquitted of conspiring to cross state lines to incite riots, but five were convicted individually of crossing state lines for that purpose.

FBI agents in their search were concentrating on the Chicago, New York City and California areas where young radicals congregate.

The 12 include most of the leaders of the Weatherman group, which believes white radicals must launch a guerrilla war against the American establishment to free America's nonwhite population as well as the people of Vietnam.

The violence, called the Weatherman's "National Action" program, resulted in the arrest of more than 300 persons. Hundreds of youths poured out of Lincoln Park Oct. 8, broke windows, smashed parked cars and attacked policemen.

Policemen also were attacked Oct. 11 when another group ran through the downtown area hurling bricks at windows.

Among those indicted was Kathy Boudin, 26, who reportedly fled to Canada with Cathlyn Wilkerson, 24, one of 28 unindicted coconspirators in the case, after a March 6 townhouse explosion in New York's Greenwich Village.

THESE FOUR PERSONS are among 12 SDS Weatherman leaders who were indicted this week by a Chicago federal grand jury on charges of conspiring to travel interstate "with intent to incite, organize, promote, encourage, participate in and carry on a riot." From left are Mark Rudd, Jeffry Jones, Bernadine Dohrn and Cathy Boudin. All are accused in connection with disorders in Chicago last October. (AP Wirephoto)

Dr. Martin Luther King

Dr. King Slain Two Years Ago

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., civil rights leader, winner of the Nobel Peace Prize, father of four, has been dead two years today. He would have been 41 Jan. 15.

His widow, Mrs. Coretta Scott King, and the Kings' four children—Yolanda Denise, Martin Luther III, Dexter Scott and Bernice Alberitne—planned to lay a wreath on King's grave this morning, then spend the rest of the day at home, in seclusion.

In Memphis, where King was slain by a sniper's bullet on April 4, 1968, civil rights leaders planned a mass march as "a rededication to the ideal of Dr. King and a commitment to the principles of non-violence."

No official ceremonies were scheduled here, where King was born, went to school and launched his far-reaching quest for a better life for America's black and poor.

At the graveside, however, the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, King's successor as head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference SCLC, planned to address a meeting of predominantly black city workers, who have been on strike since March 17.

King had been leading demonstrations by sanitation workers in Memphis before he was shot dead while standing on a motel terrace.

Eight Injured In Two City Crashes

The crash of an automobile into a Ludington St. business building early today and the collision of two cars Friday afternoon injured a total of eight persons, three of whom continue as patients today in St. Francis Hospital.

Four young people were hurt when a car driven by David N. Johnston, 18, of 1609 17th Ave. S. collided with another car and then struck the King Optical Co. building at Ludington and 10th St. at 2:35 a. m. today, city police reported.

Johnston, his front-seat passenger, Lynn Barnhart, 17, of Escanaba Rte. 1, and Sharon Hilton, 17, of 1110 S. Lincoln Rd. and Patrick Morrow, 18, of 301 S. 16th St., in the rear seat of the auto, were all injured and taken to St. Francis Hospital.

Hit Car First

It was reported from the hospital today that three of the four continue as patients. They are listed in fair condition at this time. Johnston, driver of the car, was treated and released.

Miss Barnhart has head and scalp injuries, Miss Hilton appeared less seriously hurt, and Morrow has an injured foot, according to officers.

Escanaba police reported that Johnston was driving east on Ludington St., and that a car ahead of him, driven by John P. Kelker, 23, of 1603 N. 18th St., slowed at 10th to make a left turn. The Johnston car began passing and moved into the oncoming traffic lane, struck the Kelker car on the side and then ran into the west side of the King Optical building.

A large plate galss window was shattered and the car smashed the brick wall below the window. The injured were removed by ambulance.

Autos Collide

Kelker and his passengers, Dave Kositsky, 23, of 1228 S. Stephenson Ave., and Paul M. Woolford, 24, 118 S. 5th St., were unhurt.

Officers said their investigation is continuing.

In the accident at 4:39 p. m. Friday four persons were injured, none seriously.

Cars driven by Lawrence Olivares, 19, of 1415 1st Ave. S., and John A. Ferrari Jr., 209 N. 13th St., collided in the 800 block of N. Lincoln Rd. when Olivares pulled into Lincoln Rd. and into the path of the Ferrari car, police reported. They ticketed Olivares for failing to yield the right of way.

Arrest Driver

Olivares passenger, Allen Starrine, 20, of Rapid River Rte. 1, and Ferrai's passenger, Dave Miller, were also hurt.

City police reported the arrest of Gust C. Myrsten, 65, of 1411 Stephenson Ave., for driving while under the influence of intoxicants at 11:06 p. m. Friday. The arrest followed the officers' observation of Myrsten's erratic driving in the 1000 bloc kof Stephenson Ave.

Myrsten was not involved in an accident, police said.

Traffic violation summonses were issued by city police to Edward J. Destrampe, 615 N. 16th St., failing to exercise due care; Lawrence Brennan, 519 S. 8th St., failing to yield the right of way; Rodney J. Goodchild, Danforth Rte. 1, and Otto J. Swanson, Escanaba Rte. 1, both for speeding.

THIS AUTOMOBILE rammed into a west window of the King Optical Co. at 2:35 a. m. today, injuring its four occupants. The driver, David N. Johnston, 18, of 1609 17th Ave. S., was released from the hospital after treatment. Three passengers are reported in fair condition. The car's front end was wedged into the building. It is pictured after being hauled out. (Police Dept. Photo)

Judge Shipman Addresses Central Methodist Group

Social Concerns committees and other interested members of the Central United Methodist Church sponsored a program on April 2 featuring Dean Shipman, judge of the 94th judicial district.

Judge Shipman described his local volunteer probation program which involves some 70 local persons.

Tax Burden

According to Judge Shipman, early offenders who commit misdemeanors often continue in crime while on probation and commit felonies because of lack of próper counseling and human understanding. To provide professional social workers and psychologists to fill the void would be a substantial burden on the taxpayer, he said.

Volunteer Help

Experience in the local probation program has proven that trained volunteers can provide much of these needs and can be extremely effective in crime abatement, according to the speaker. Volunteers are carefully screened and then trained by an administrative assistant of the court staff.

Qualifications

In describing volunteer worker qualifications, Judge Shipman, emphasized the importance of good communicative skills. A minimum of five hours participation per month are required of all persons who volunteer to work with probationers. Judge Shipman reported that 80% of the probationers who receive counseling never appear in court again.

Began In 1959

The original volunteer probation program began in Royal Oak, Mich. in 1959 when Municipal Judge Keith J. Leenhouts became alarmed at the juvenile crime rate and decided to take corrective action.

The National Board of Social Concerns of the United Methodist Church was so impressed by the program in Royal Oak that it spent $24,000 to publicize its success and to encourage development of similar programs elsewhere.

Arrangements for the program speaker were made by Mrs. Clifford Frasher, chairman, WSCS Social Concerns committee and Mrs. Robert Katarincic, chairman of Council of Ministries committee on social concerns.

Cancer Crusade To Open Monday

"We need people who care enough to conquer cancer," said David Mason, chairman of the American Cancer Society's educational and fund-raising Crusade in Delta County.

Volunteers can alert friends and family to ways of helping to protect themselves against cancer; raise the funds, that raise hopes that cancer will be conquered, he said.

"Last year, about 400 volunteers in Delta County gave their time and talent to this great effort. They worked together with 2.3-million volunteers in thousands of American communities," said Mason.

"We need even more of these dedicated people on our side this year. There is a job for everyone with even a few hours to spare," he added.

Commencing Monday an important part of the Crusade will be the distribution of a leaflet listing protective measures against cancer.

"Many cancer deaths are needless because the chances of a cure are excellent if a diagnosis is made early. There are 1.5-million Americans alive today who are cured of cancer," said Mason.

Volunteers for Crusade 1970 are urgently needed by the Delta County American Cancer Society Unit, P. O. Box 300. "Or," said Mason "please call us at 786-1052.

Schweigert Will Seek Top U.S. Forest Post

BY DON HOENSHELL
Panax Staff Writer

LANSING — Acting Lt. Gov. Thomas F. Schweigert (R-Petoskey) will pitch for a top-level job in the U. S. Forest Service to help the nation save its environment.

He said he will know by mid-May his chances with the U. S. Department of Agriculture or the Department of the Interior.

Schweigert will leave state government Dec. 31 after 10 years as a northern Michigan Senator, barred by a geographical accident from running for a four-year term as lieutenant governor.

"Probably to the average voter it doesn't make much difference," he said. "The problem is the nomination process. You have to get through the convention."

Under the state's 1963 constitution, the governor and lieutenant governor run for office as a team. To the political power brokers, Schweigert lives too close to Gov. Milliken — 67 miles down the Lake Michigan shoreline from Petoskey to Traverse City.

Dead End

And Schweigert envisions a dead end for himself in Michigan politics.

"In Michigan, I can visualize at least a couple of (four-year) terms for Bill. By that time, I'd be 60 years old. So you are kind of locked in.

"I will have had the lieutenant governor's position for two years, for all practical purposes. If I could add anything to the ticket, I'd try. But the geography thing is the problem."

Race Building

As he spoke, Rep. Robert W. Davis (R-St. Ignace) started his own campaign for Schweigert's seat. Davis, 37, was born in Marquette, is a funeral director, and was first elected to the House in 1966.

Schweigert sees other interest growing in the Senate as he waits for word from Washington.

Rep. Joseph P. Swallow (R-Alpena), former county prosecutor and a House member since 1964, has expressed interest "and there will be a lot of people jumping in," Schweigert said.

"I thought it would be well to announce my intentions now to give any interested candidate time to make his decision. It's an interesting district.

"You have industry largely around Alpena and Escanaba, a big resort industry. You name it and we have it, all kinds of things going on.

"The Senator from that district should be young and full of energy, well-educated and one who knows the area and its needs. It would help if he had an outside income."

Schweigert gets a $15,000 Senate salary and a $3,000 a year accountable expense account. He said his actual expenses regularly reach $7,000 a year leaving him a net of $11,000.

Roots In Michigan

In Schweigert's own mind, his future is elsewhere though he said he will always maintain his roots in northern Michigan where his two forestry firms oeprate on a statewide basis.

He holds sizeable financial chunks of the Northern Tree Co., 33 per cent of the stock, and Schweigert and Young Inc., 50 per cent of the stock. Both are based in Petoskey.

"I'd have to divorce myself from both of those (he now serves both as secretary-treasurer) in the Federal job," he said. "I'd have to avoid any conflict of interest."

The special light on Schweigert's horizon is President Nixon's new Council on Environmental Quality, assigned to tackle the nation's ecological concerns.

It will need funding, staff and a good relationship with Congress, an administrative and political problem for which Schweiegrt feels himself ideally suited to help solve.

Top Ranked Forester

Of the nation's 40,000 foresters, Schweigert is the highest ranking in the political field. He has friends at all levels, and as acting lieutenant governor, key contacts in other states.

"In dealing with Congress, I would anticipate very little trouble," he said.

"A forester is a rare animal. He doesn't get involved in the political scene. He is either barred from it by civil service (the Hatch Act) or, if he's with industry, by his corporate bosses."

Schweigert came to Lansing as a state Senator in 1960 after working as a U.S. Forester in northern Michigan since 1948, when he was transferred from Missouri.

In the capitol, he immediately joined the "Young Moderates," the four other new senators and two who had been here for one two-year term. They eventually took control of the chamber.

Now they've all gone on to other glories and Schweigert is the last.

Milliken To Choose

The others were John W. Fitzgerald, son of former Gov. Frank Fitzgerald and now an Appeals court judge; Stanley F. Thayer, now chairman of the Liquor Control Commission; Fred Hilbert, now a member of the State Board of Tax Appeals, Farrell C. Roberts, now an Oakland County Circuit Judge, John Stahlin, now a $1 a year man for the governor—and Milliken.

On March 20, Schweigert under a new law recognizing a vacancy created when Milliken became governor, was officially named as Michigan's first acting lieutenant governor in history.

His successor will have the shortened title of lieutenant governor.

Milliken has said he will handpick his own running mate. Rep. William P. Hampton (R-Bloomfield Hills) is publicly in the running, but others have been mentioned, Budget Director Glenn C. Allen, Labor Commissioner Barry Brown and Dr. John Dempsey, Milliken's aide in Detroit. Schweigert said no one has the inside track.

"It might be one of them, but the governor could come up with some different choice," Schweigert said.

Schweigert is happy in Lansing, is highly respected but knows that on Dec. 31 his home base will be elswhere.

"It's been a great experience," he said.

Two Teens Receive 'Stupidity' Label

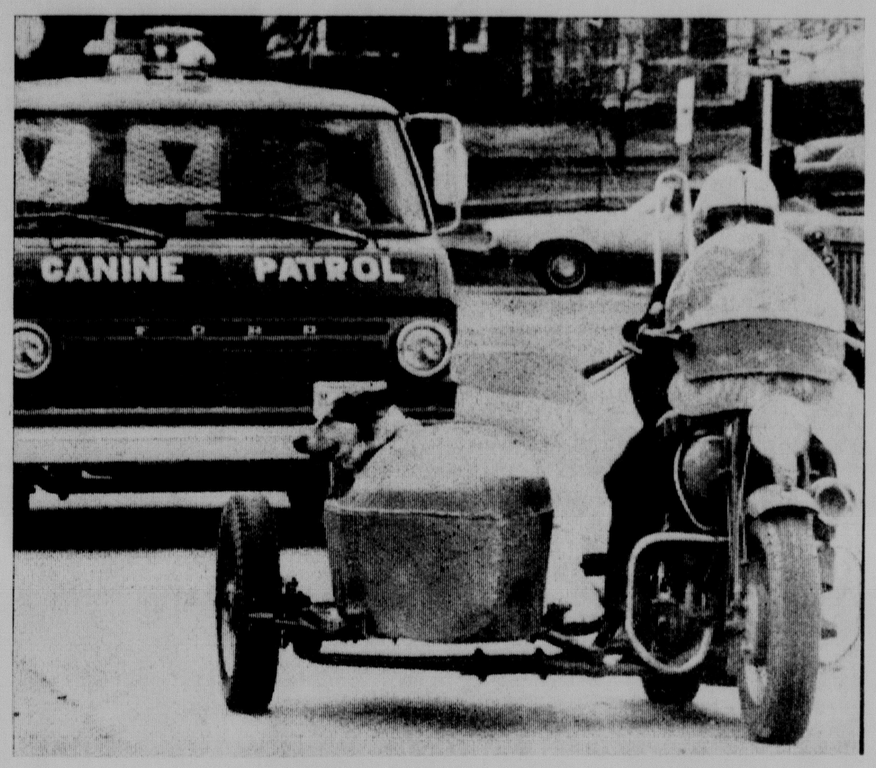

TOWSON, Md. (AP) — A Baltimore County circuit court judge told two teenagers charged with grand larceny he was finding them guilty of stupidity.

Judge John G. Turnbull held off until mid-June a decision on criminal charges of removing parts from a car parked on a dealer's lot.

The judge made the comment about stupidity after hearing Friday that both youths had good records and were due to graduate from high school in June.

O'Hara Welcomes Suit By Georgia Governor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. James O'Hara said this week the Democratic party welcomes a suit by Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox contesting the way political parties select delegates to presidential nomination conventions.

"We're looking forward to this opportunity to have the court look at this and lay down guidelines," the Michigan Democrat said.

O'Hara is chairman of a Democratic National Committee group which will recommended specific rules and practices for the 1972 convention.

"I think it is possible that a political convention will have to be conducted by persons selected on a one-man, one-vote basis," O'Hara told the Women's National Democratic Club.

But he said it will be difficult to pin down just who is a Democrat and who a Republican in states lacking party registration. And he added that even where there are party registrations for the latest general election, sentiment could have changed in the elapsed four years.

"We now will be involved in this with the courts and hope to thrash it out so that the convention will be fairly apportioned," O'Hara said.

Maddox and other Georgia officials sued both the Republican and Democratic national parties March 25, saying their national conventions were malapportioned and that the selection process of delegates violated the Supreme Court's one-man, one-vote mandate.

Maddox alleges it is illegal for a party to allot extra delegates to states which voted its way in the latest general election.

The Georgia plaintifs claim that since its voters went for the American Independent Party's candidate George Wallace in 1968, the state will be underrepresented at the 1970 GOP and Democratic national conventions.

O'Hara's 26-man rules committee has held hearings in Minneapolis and Atlanta and was in Oklahoma City today for another.

Other hearings are planned in Salt Lake City, Boston, New York, the Great Lakes area and in California, he said. The committee expects to recommend rules by the end of the year.

O'Hara said there must be more access to the convention by persons who can't afford the soaring costs of being a delegate and there must be a guarantee of more participation by delegates once at the convention.

Other suggestions are being solicited on how to reduce confusion on the convention floor—including widening the aisles and limiting the number of delegates.

Mishap Fatal

DETROIT (AP) — Joanne Bokram, 40, of Grosse Pointe Woods, was injured fatally Friday on Detroit's Woodward Avenue when her car hit several others and then slammed into a light pole. Police said she apparently hit the first vehicle when she attempted to reach into the glove compartment from the driver's seat.

Ore Loading At Slow Start; Ice Delays Vessels

The seventh boat of the season, the Sykes of Inland Steel, is back for a second load at the Chicago & North Western ore terminal in the first week of 1970 marine traffic at Escanaba.

Ice continues to be a problem, choking channels here and at the Straits of Mackinac and Sault Ste. Marie. But the fleet is persisting and with the help of Coast Guard cutter boats are moving, but slowly.

The North Western's new ore terminal (this is the second season) is operating without any real problems, says Paul Schilling, assistant ore superintendent.

Yesterday one of the largest ore carriers on the Lakes—the Ryerson—loaded 23,500 tons of pellet ore for Indiana Harbor. The Ryerson is also an Inland Steel boat.

The Sykes, the Ryerson, the Block and others are among the 250 vessels of the Great Lakes fleet (Canadian and U. S.) that will bring more than 75 million tons of raw ore and pellets to mill ports on the lakes during this 1970 season.

Ice in Green Bay is reported by the Coast Guard to be 18 to 24 inches thick. The cutter Mesquite has been assisting ore boats in an out here for the past week and is now working to open channels into Green Bay port.

A tanker is expected to be the first vessel into Green Bay next week—perhaps on April 8

At Sault Ste. Marie and the Straits ice conditions have slowed vessel movements to a near standstill. There is the hope expressed that the first ore boat will get through the St. Marys Canal, into Lake Superior and reach Marquette for an ore cargo within a week.

Whitefish Bay was reported frozen over with ice extending north into Lake Superior as far as Caribou Island; and at the Straits ice jams are reported from east of Mackinac Island in Lake Huron to well beyond St. Ignace in Lake Michigan.

N. Korean Spies Dumped Into Sea; 15 Crewmen Die

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — A speedboat believed carrying North Korean spies to South Korea was sunk in a four-hour battle early today, the South Korean Defense Ministry announced.

It was the third sinking of a North Korean infiltration craft since last September.

The Defense Ministry said all 15 crewmen of the 50-ton speedboat were drowned. The South Koreans suffered no casualties and the three ships which took part in the battle against the North Korean craft were not damaged, the announcement said.

Be Sure To Vote!

Monday is election day for the three municipalities in the area and as new people change the composition of a city council or city commission so will they change the government of the city.

That's why it's so important to vote.

Collectively, Escanaba, Gladstone and Manistique will elect seven persons to terms of varying lengths on city governing boards. All three communities have capable slates of candidates, but the most critical election is in Escanaba where voters will put into office a majority.

Because of a resignation of a Councilman in December, 1968, who had served less than a year of a four-year term and the subsequent appointment of a citizen to serve until the next election, three of the five seats on the Council will be determined in Monday's balloting. In Gladstone and Manistique, only two of five places will be elected.

Additionally, in Escanaba, if past practice is followed, the city will elect a mayor as councils in recent years have turned to the person with the greatest number of votes for the mayorship. Under Escanaba's council-manager form of government the mayor theoretically does not wield any more power than the presiding officer's gavel, but practically the mayor sits in a leadership position and can exert considerable influence over fellow councilmen.

Candidates for the four year term (two to be elected) are Harold F. Cloutier, John W. Curran, Ronald DeVos, Albin S. Pearson Jr., and Jon R. Taylor. Candidates for the two year term (one to be elected) are Leo Alperovitz, Richard J. Pryal and Eugene O. Slagstad.

In Gladstone, where the city's new voting machines will be used for the first time, the city by electing Constance Verhamme could put the first woman ever to serve on the city's commission into office.

The other candidates for the two three-year terms are incumbent Douglas Bovin, Elmer Caron, Thomas Elegeert and William Smith.

At Manistique, four men are seeking two seats on the City Council for four-year terms. They are Daniel C. Barber, Raymond L. Krusic, Thor Reque, incumbent and Douglas D. Rose.

The issues in local elections — council, commission, school board or county board — seldom are very apparent to most voters for several reasons. For one thing, in small communities friends run against friends and as such are reluctant to voice strong attacks against a neighbor or business associate. Secondly, the majority of the slate generally is made up of newcomers to public life and outside of personal accomplishments in community affairs have little in the way of "record" to either advance or defend. Even incumbent councilmen and commissioners, while they can inject the argument of experience, rarely have to worry about their voting record while in office. Most of the decisions of a commission, council or board come by unanimous vote and if the city is running smoothly complaints are not often sounded. As elections draw nearer, governing units also display a remarkable consistency — not only on the local level, but in state and national contests as well — to avoid action on any subject which carries the least bit of controversy.

In addition, the time between the deadline for filing nominating petitions and election day is too short to develop much of a meaningful dialogue on community affairs. Campaign messages are remarkably similar. Even such worth while programs as the "Meet The Candidates" program arranged by the League of Women Voters and the "Evening With The Candidates" broadcast in Escanaba and Gladstone this year by American Cablevision have limited range. Candidates are quick to point out "problems" but guarded about proposals for solution.

So voters will go to the polls Monday armed with a slate of names, a little background — residence address, occupation, community involvements — on the persons behind the names and their own personal observations.

It doesn't seem a very sound basis on which to ballot, but that's all the system provides and it has to be enough. What comes out of the ballot boxes may well determine the direction of each community in the months and years ahead.

That's why the election is so vital. It's every citizen's duty and responsibility to exercise his voting franchise to help determine who will make those decisions. Once the polls are closed, the precious opportunity to help govern is lost until the next election. Be sure to vote! That message is one which can't be repeated too often.

Republicans Search New York Candidate

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The New York State political scene is a snake pit.

Republicans and Democrats never know in advance of choosing nominees whether they will be taken on the flank by the Liberal Party, the Conservative Party, the ethnic Italians who don't worry about labels, or by the New York City Jewish population which goes for Liberals or Reform Democrats when Republican Jacob Javits isn't backing someone in his own party who is even more liberal than himself.

Knowing that calculation is chancy from a distance, the White House has kept its hands off Republican Gov. Nelson Rockefeller. They have figured that he is a winner anyway, and they want desperately to see a Republican State government in Albany after the 1970 Census is taken and the boys get around to redistricting.

So when Rockefeller insisted that the party select his appointee, Sen. Charles Goodell, to run for a Senate term in his own right, the White House swallowed its distaste. Charlie Goodell, who had a conservative record in the House before he became a Senator, is even worse than Bill Fulbright or Gene McCarthy when it comes to slandering President Nixon's foreign policy.

Curiously, Rockefeller doesn't go for Goodell's positions. But Goodell is a nominal Republican from upstate New York, and Rockefeller thinks he needs him on the ticket.

★ ★ ★

This, however, was before the Democrats began lining up behind Arthur Goldberg, the former U. S. Ambassador to the UN, for governor. The polls show Goldberg running ahead of Rockefeller. Nelson's checkbook is potent when it comes to underwriting campaign expenses, but what if Goldberg's appeal to liberals, labor leaders and orthodox Democrats can hold off Rockefeller at the wire?

So we come back to Sen. Goodell. It is late in the day to find an attractive Republican to oppose him, and he will probably receive the nomination by default. But if he can't help Rockefeller, and stands to sabotage Nixon in the Senate, who needs him?

If Rocky persists in running with Goodell, it will certainly enrage both the small-c conservative Republicans and the Capital C Conservative Party. This gives the Big-C Conservatives a veto power in the election.

If they run a good man for governor on their own, they can undoubtedly throw the winning margin to Goldberg. And it is very likely that, with a good Senatorial candidate, they can take enough votes away from the Republicans to put a Democrat in the Senate.

★ ★ ★

Why can't Rockefeller see this?

If he were to get behind an acceptable candidate for Senator, the Conservatives might withdraw their long-standing objections to Rocky. At the very least they might put sacrificial nonentities on their ticket and wink at desertions by their rank-and-file.

But who can go up against Goodell at this late hour? Rocky has scared off the Albany pros.

State Sen. John Marchi, who defeated John V. Lindsay in the New York Republican New York City mayoralty primary, has bowed out. He did this before Goldberg altered the name of the game, but it is doubtful that he would now change his mind. William J. Casey, a Long Island lawyer who backs Nixon's foreign policies and was called upon by the White House to help win the ABM public relations fight, made a gesture toward running a short while ago, and he might still be available.

A curious thing, however, happened the other day. When F. Clifton White, who specializes in running campaigns for other people, talked with some possible alternatives to Goodell including Bill Casey, he was startled to learn that the ghost of Priscilla Alden was still around. The "other candidates" said, in effect, "Why don't you speak for yourself, Clif?"

★ ★ ★

White most assuredly prefers to be a man behind the scenes. He has been prominent in Eisenhower, Nixon, Goldwater, and Reagan national politics. But what a candidate he would make in upstate New York!

He is a graduate of Colgate University in the pretty Chenango Valley. He taught for a time in the upstate public school system before becoming a professor at Cornell and at Ithaca College. He was Republican city chairman in Ithaca. He has been State President of the New York Young Republicans, and acting secretary of the Republican State Committee. He was once the Executive Deputy Commissioner of Motor Vehicles under Tom Dewey.

In brief, like Charles Goodell, he is very much a native upstate son. But he never derested his own to go running after Manhattan liberals who, though they may vote for a Republican child of the pavements like Jack Javits, would never go for anybody in force from the Chatauqua or Finger Lake country.

Accept N. Vietnam Domination, Senator Tells U.S. Officials

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright says the United States should accept North Vietnam's domination of Indochina as a political fact of life that poses no threat to American security.

"North Vietnam is far too small a power to have any serious hope of conquering all of Southeast Asia, much less of posing any kind of a threat to the United States," the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said Thursday.

His Senate speech came during a new round of discussions on U.S. policy toward Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia. Senators of both parties began throwing their support behind a French proposal for an all-Indochinese conference to neutralize the three countries

Fulbright also supported the conference idea, but he declared it makes little difference—to the United States and to the area's inhabitants — who rules Indochina.

"The plain fact that comes out of the war in Vietnam—reinforced by recent events in Laos and perhaps Cambodia as well —is that, puny as it is by great power standards, North Vietnam is the paramount power in Indochina," he declared.

"We ought to welcome North Vietnam's pre-eminence in Indochina, because while North Vietnam has shown itself strong enough to dominate Indochina if let alone by outside powers, it has also shown itself willing and able to resist Chinese domination."

He emphasized he is not advocating a Communist-dominated Indochina. "I merely propose to accept it, if it arises from the local power situation, as something unwelcome but tolerable, and most emphatically not worth the extravagant costs of a war like the one we are now fighting."

Fulbright said from the standpoint of U.S. security, "the central fact about Indochina is that it does not matter very much who rules in those small and backward lands."

Sens. Fred R. Harris, D-Okla., and James B. Pearson, R-Kan., introduced a resolution to put the Senate on record in support of an all-Indochinese conference on neutrality.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers, after testifying three hours before Fulbright's committee, said the administration is studying the French plan, adding, "we are interested in any kind of negotiations that could lead to peace."

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield threw his support behind the conference plan. Harris said the purpose of the resolution is "to strengthen the administration's hand" in starting negotiations.

The foreign relations session dealt mainly with Cambodia, and key members who have warned against U.S. involvement in that country said they were pleased by Rogers' assurances.

But Sen. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., said he plans to offer a bill barring American troops from Cambodia. Congress last year banned U.S. ground combat troops from Laos and Thailand.

Rogers said he told the committee the purpose of U.S. policy is "to guarantee the neutrality of Cambodia" and said he hopes North Vietnam will do so, too.

But Fulbright charged Nixon has adopted the Johnson administration's objective of seeking "to preserve some kind of American military foothold, either directly or by proxy, in an alien sphere of influence."

Opening lead—queen of diamonds.

There is such a thing as having too much imagination at the bridge table. It may be all right in a given situation to think about every last possibility, but, unless your judgment is exceptionally fine, this excess of zeal may do more harm than good. There are very few occasions in bridge where the simple game is not the best game.

Let's assume you're East and the bidding goes as shown. Your partner leads the queen and another diamond, which you win with the king.

Of course, you would now cash the king of spades — and that would be the end of the matter as the cards happen to lie. You would collect 100 points and probably go on to the next deal without further thought.

But the player who actually held the East hand did not follow this simple course of play. After winning the second diamond, his imagination began to churn violently. He saw that if he cashed the king of spades and it turned out that South had a singleton, declarer could establish two spade tricks in dummy by leading the J-10 through his A-Q.

So, to stop this from happening, East led the club queen at trick three. He thought that if South had a spade to lose he would still lose it.

East was almost — but not quite — right. South won with the king and started to draw trumps. Not only that, but he led out each and every one of his trumps, keeping the A-9 of clubs in dummy. In his own hand, at this point, South had the nine of spades and a club.

But poor East, on the last trump, had to choose a discard from his holding of the J-10 of clubs and ace of spades. He couldn't discard successfully, so South made five hearts doubled.

NBC Employes Ink 3-Year Pact

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Broadcasting Co. and the National Association of Broadcast Employes and Technicians have announced tentative agreement on a three-year contract.

NBC said Friday the agreement was subject to ratification by the 1,400 NABET members employed by network television and radio studios and company-owned stations across the country.

The tentative agreement, reached in San Diego, was announced after NABET had indefinitely postponed plans for a strike beginning Friday night. The company said the agreement removed any threat of a strike.

The tentative agreement reportedly called for a $55 weekly wage increase over three years.

Premature Grey Not Bad, Young Girl Told

Dear Ann Landers: I realize the chances that you will print my letter are one in a million but it's worth the try. I'm a 16-year-old girl whose hair is turning gray. Premature gray runs in our family and there's nothing I can do about it.

The kids at school have begun to notice and I get teased a little. Although I laugh it off, it bothers me.

Can you suggest a rinse that will not look artificial? My natural hair color is dark brown. Thank you.—Old Before My Time

Dear O. B.: You can go to a beauty shop and get some professional counsel. The decision should be made by an operator who can look at your hair and advise you on the basis of color, texture and style.

If I were you, though, I'd leave it alone. A high school girl with prematurely gray hair would be a standout in any crowd.

Dear Ann Landers: I'd like to say something to that big mouth who is obviously a manhater from way back. True, girls don't get themselves pregnant but most of them know what causes pregnancy and it is their responsibility to avoid it.

The letter made it plain that the boy did his darndest to get rid of the girl but she chased him shamelessly and finally wore him down. I know how predatory females operate because a certain sex-bomb has been chasing me all over the campus for two years.

I've never asked her for a date. I've never given her a phone call, in fact, I don't give her the time of day. But she turns up wherever I happen to be, greets me with hugs and kisses, slobbers all over my face, and I can't get rid of her. Once she was waiting for me outside the men's john.

Not all males are strong, Ann. I can understand how a guy can be taken advantage of if he doesn't have good sense and will power. Just sign me—Hate Aggressive Females

Dear H. A. F.: What do you have that's so special? My readers will surely be asking me. What shall I tell them? I've never heard of a man being raped by a woman but if you don't reduce the animal magnetism you might be the first. Have you considered a chastity belt?

★ ★ ★

Dear Ann Landers: How can I get rid of a creep who won't give up? I'm a 16-year-old girl who knows lots of answers but not this one. To make matters worse my mom thinks this kid is great.

Whenever he calls on the phone Mom is so friendly it encourages him. Every time Mom and I get into a discussion about this pest we end up in a fight. She keeps wanting to know why I don't like him. I tell her it is because he is so sweet and attentive he makes me sick to my stomach. She says this is a crazy reason. Do you know what I mean? Please put it into words for me. I'm—Stymied

Dear Stymied: Yeah, I know what you mean. No challenge. Some girls can't stand a guy who is decent and considerate. They find life much more exciting when they are kicked around. I hope for your sake that you change your tune.

NMU Graduates Improve Wages

MARQUETTE—Starting salaries for 1969 graduates of Northern Michigan University increased by more than 5.8 per cent over the previous year.

A report published by NMU's Placement Office shows that non-teaching graduates received an average salary of $8,172, up 7.0 per cent from 1968. The salary of those entering the teaching profession averaged $6,617, a jump of 4.4 per cent.

In the non-teaching area, the reported salaries for Northern's 1,035 graduates ranged from $10,500 at the top to $7,080 for new graduates in business administration, social service and liberal arts.

Graduates in education reported salaries ranging from $5,580 to $8,000, with special education and the sciences receiving the highest offers.

Four Interviews

The graduates averaged more than four interviews each, as representatives of 542 schools, business firms and governmental agencies made 4,350 recruiting visits to the campus.

Approximately 417 of the 644 graduates entering the teaching profession accepted jobs in Michigan. The rest accepted employment in one of 30 other states and six foreign countries. Of this latter total, 89 found employment in Wisconsin, mostly in the northeastern region.

In Michigan, Marquette County schools employed the greatest number of teaching graduates with 57, followed by Oakland with 30, Macomb with 27 and Wayne with 24.

Northern's 247 non-teaching graduates were placed in seven states. Agencies and firms employing the graduates ranged from Consumers Power Co., Jackson, to Abbott Laboratories, Chicago, Ill.

Demand For Teachers

Northern graduates reported "the type of work I do" as being the primary factor in accepting a position. Location of the job was the next highest for teaching graduates, while the opportunity for advancement was the second reason listed by non-teachers. Both groups ranked fringe benefits last among the seven reasons listed.

The demand for elementary teachers remained high, as Northern's placement office recorded 16,902 requests for the 177 seniors enrolled in the elementary education curriculum.

Areas of demand for high school teachers and the number of graduating seniors available included: special education, 3,483 requests, 30 students; English, 1,515 requests, 66 students; music, 1,336 requests, 18 students; industrial education, 1,310 requests, 67 graduates; mathematics, 1,256 requests, 35 students.

Keith Forsberg, director of placement, also reported that his office assisted 851 alumni in obtaining new employment in 29 states and Africa.

Judges Ignore Massachusetts War Ruling

BOSTON (AP) — Two federal judges have refused to block shipment of a Massachusetts soldier to Vietnam while his lawyers test a new state law that challenges the legality of the Vietnam war.

The law, signed Thursday by Republican Gov. Francis W. Sargent, says that, except for emergencies, "no inhabitant of the commonwealth . . . shall be required to serve" in foreign wars where there has been no declaration of war by Congress.

State Atty. Gen. Robert H. Quinn said that in a little more than 24 hours after the law took effect 10 Massachusetts servicemen asked his office to take legal action to spare them Vietnam duty.

The activity in the federal courts involved John Griffin, 22, of Holyoke, an infantryman under orders to report today at Ft. Dix, N.J., for assignment to Vietnam. Griffin was drafted last July.

His lawyers, Joseph S. Oteri and Monroe L. Inker, asked the courts to issue a temporary restraining order barring the government from sending Griffin outside the United States.

Oteri and Inker went first on Friday to Judge Andrew A. Caffrey in U.S. District Court. Caffrey denied their petition with the explanation that he lacked jurisdiction, because Griffin was stationed in New Jersey.

The lawyers then appealed to Chief Judge Bailey Aldrich of the 1st Circuit Court of Appeals. Aldrich denied the appeal without comment.

The lawyers said they might file a new appeal in New Jersey Monday.

They said they want to insure that Griffin would remain in the United States pending a court test of the law. Some legislative opponents of the law asaid they believe it is unconstitutional.

Weather Takes Turn For Better

By The Associated Press

Fair skies prevailed over a large part of the nation today, but April's first weekend was chilly from the Rockies to the Appalachians.

Snow fell from southern Colorado and northern New Mexico to eastern Kansas. Light rain dampened parts of the Midwest and the central Appalachians and occasionally turned to snow.

Genuinely warm weather was confined to far southern sections of the country. Overnight temperatures in the 20s and 30s were common through the midcontinent. The northern Rockies cooled down to the teens or lower.

Suomi Singers To Tour State

HANCOCK — The Suomi Singers, 29 students from Suomi College, will tour part of the Upper Peninsula and northern Lower Michigan April 9-15, presenting vocal and instrumental musical concerts.

The Singers tour includes a total of 19 public performances and ends with the annual Homecoming concert at Suomi.

Snelgrove Ends Career At Tech

HOUGHTON — A prominent geologist at Michigan Technological University has announced his retirement to become a visiting professor in Ankara, Turkey.

Dr. A. K. Snelgrove, who joined the MTU faculty in 1940, will assist in setting up a department of geology at Middle East Technical University. The institution was established in the mid-1950s through the United Nations. His professorship will be sponsored by the Agency for International Development.

He also plans to continue his research in evolution of major river systems.

FISHERY ZONE MANAGEMENT PLAN AS IT AFFECTS YOU!

Is your future sports fishing or the recreation dollar value it generates worth 10 post cards and 10 minutes to you?

We are now beginning to see an increase in our sport game fish here. Coho, lake trout, rainbows, browns, northern pike and we have high hope for the others. This has been brought about by the D.N.R. planting programs and the zone management plan. One is not effective without the other!

We believe the sports fishing zones have been badly needed for years and worth fighting for to retain them. Note: commercial fishing is permitted in their zone and they will be allowed to harvest any surplus when good fish populations are restored in rehabilitation zones. This fine plan is in danger! It passed Nov. 7, 1969 but opponents have forced a new hearing. Write a postcard to each of the votes that count, as listed below . . . Today! Just say, "We Support The Zone Management For Our Great Lake Fishery."

Three basic kinds of management areas, or zones, are prescribed:

SPORT FISHING DEVELOPMENT ZONES — These generally will be closed to all commercial fishing. They are inshore areas with either an actual or potential high-quality sport fishery and will be managed to expand sport opportunities.

REHABILITATION ZONES — These will be open to commercial fishing but on closely regulated basis. Aim is to protect such endangered fish species as perch, walleyes and herring and, hopefully, to restore them to former abundance. Management efforts will be directed at increasing both commercial and sport fishing potential.

COMMERCIAL FISHING ZONES — These are the traditionally productive commercial fishing areas, and they will be managed with the interests of that industry foremost.

The Commission adopted the plan after hearing considerable expressed opposition from commercial fishermen, many of whom fear they will be forced out of business. Unquestionably, the total number of commercial fishermen will be further reduced. Their numbers have been slowly declining for many years as the quality of the fishery deteriorated.

Department fish biologists believe, however, that zone management will allow more commercial fishermen to operate, at least in the short-term future, than would a direct "limited entry" system which was an alternative possibility.

In voting unanimously for the plan, the five Commissioners individually charged the Department to apply the utmost flexibility in management so as to minimize hardships to individual commercial fishermen.

Commission Chairman August F. Scholle said he believed the zone plan would turn out to be the salvation of the commercial industry. He noted that Michigan had 1,460 licensed commercial fishermen in 1950 but only 350 this year, and predicted those 350 would soon be gone if nothing were done to bring the Great Lakes under firm management control.

Mrs. Gerold L. Latsch

Gail Lynne Newborn, Gerold L. Latsch Wed

The United Methodist Church of Germfask was the setting Saturday, March 21 for the wedding of Gail Lynne Newborn and Gerold Leon Latsch, both of Germfask.

The Rev. R. Wyllys of McMillan officiated at the double ring nuptials at 2 p.m. Organist for the service was Mrs. Leonard Englund.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Newborn of Germfask and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Cecil H. Latsch, also of Germfask.

White Lace

The bride, chose for her wedding a floor length white lace dress styled with a rounded neckline, topped with a floor length matching lace coat fashioned with long cuffed sleeves with ruffle trim.

A pearl crown held her fingertip illusion veil and she carried a cascade bouquet of deep red roses and stephanotis.

Honor attendants for the couple were Barbara Holbrook, the bride's cousin and Lynn Latsch of Kalamazoo, brother of the bridegroom. Performing ushering duties was Earl Holbrook.

Pastel Blue

Miss Holbrook was attired in a floor length pastel blue taffeta gown with a matching whimsie headpiece. She carried a pink and white carnation bouquet.

Mothers of the bridal couple were presented orchid corsages and Mrs. Emmett Crawn, the bridegroom's grandmother pinned a mum corsage.

Reception

The reception was held at the Germfask School beginning at 4:30 p.m. and assisting with duties were Mrs. Charles Holbrook, Nancy Thibideau and Mrs. William Miller.

The newlyweds will reside in Sault Ste. Marie, where the bridegroom is presently attending Lake Superior College. Both young people are graduates of Manistique High School and the bride also attended Badger State Secretarial School in Green Bay.

Home League Meets Tuesday

The Salvation Army Home League will meet at 2 p. m. Tuesday at the Temple. The Rev. and Mrs. Merle Amundson of the Bark River Bible Church will present vocal selections and the Rev. Amundson will be the guest speaker for the day.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Truman Robinson and Mrs. Dan Evans.

Annual Dinner Planned Sunday At St. Michael's

PERRONVILLE — The Holy Name Society of St. Michael's Church in Perronville is hosting their annual sausage and corn beef dinner Sunday, April 5, serving from 11 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. in the parish hall.

Charles Wanic, president of the Holy Name Society, is general chairman in charge of arrangements for the dinner and he will be assisted by: John Bartoszek, preparation of Polish sausage; Al Mott, corn beef peparation; Mike Sape, publicity; Raymond Luchay and Leonard Gatien, tickets.

High school boys of the parish are in charge of setting the tables and serving and other members of the Holy Name Society will work in the kitchen helping with preparation and cleanup. Since the proceeds will benefit the entire parish family, all members of the parish are to bring a cake or salad for the dinner.

The public is invited to attend this annual affair and tickets may be obtained from members of the Holy Name Society or at the door. Dinner guests are also welcome to worship with the parish family at the 11:30 a.m. Mass.

Covenant Women To Meet Monday

Mrs. Earl J. Groleau (Gordon Nelson Studio)

Mary C. Coon, Earl J. Groleau Are Wed

Mary C. Coon of Escanaba became the bride of Earl J. Groleau of Rapid River during a double ring ceremony performed at 12 noon today, April 4 at St. Joseph's Church in Escanaba.

The Rev. Fabian Gerstle heard the solemn exchange of vows. Soloist at the Nuptial Mass was Mrs. Steve Powers of Milwaukee (the former Molly Larsen) cousin of the bride.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. James E. Coon, 1022 10th Ave. S. and the late James Coon. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Emil Groleau of Rte. 3, Rapid River.

Dotted Swiss

The bride, given in marriage by her grandfather, Herbert Tumath, wore a floor length filmy gown of dotted Swiss with Venise lace trim. The gown was fashioned with an Empire bodice, high collor, long cuffed sleeves and a chapel train.

A fresh flower headpiece secured her silk illusion veil and she carried a white basket filled with baby's breath, pompons, daisies and ivy.

Spring Colors

They were attired in floor length dotted Swiss gowns with lace trim in spring colors of blue, yellow, green, tangerine and aqua, styled with high necklines and Bishop's sleeves.

They wore fresh flowers in their hair to match their gowns and they carried baskets of carnations tinted to match their attire.

Miniature Bride

JoAnn Olson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Olson of Bay View, was the miniature bride and wore a replica of the bride's gown. She carried a white basket filled with spring flowers of assorted colors. John Malnar of Marquette and Ronald Malnar of Gladstone, cousins of the bride, were the ringbearers.

Serving as best man was George Majestic of Rapid River and groomsmen were 1st Lt. Marvin Coon of Savannah, Ga. and Dennis Coon of Lansing, brothers of the bride, John Anderson of Escanaba and John Wolfe of Rapid River. Seating the guests were Kirk Erickson of Gladstone and James Coon of Detroit.

Mothers' Attire

The bride's mother chose for her daughter's wedding a three piece gold ensemble with matching accessories and she was presented a cymbidium orchid corsage in gold tones. Mrs. Groleau selected a green dress and coat ensemble with matching accessories and she pinned a cymbidium orchid corsage in green tones. Grandmothers of the couple were also presented corsages.

Reception

The wedding reception is being held this afternoon from 4 to 8 at the Dutch Mill and will be followed by a dance. After a wedding trip through the U. P., the couple will reside at 1022 10th Ave. S.

The bride is a graduate of Escanaba Area High School and attended Bay de Noc Community College. Mr. Groleau is a Rapid River High School graduate and also graduated from Bryant & Stratton College in Milwaukee.

Great Lakes' Ice: More Than A Cover

By DR. ERNEST MARSHALL
Dr. Marshall is Chief of the Ice and Snow Project, Great Lakes Research Center, Corps of Engineers.

Soon, a moisture-laden wind will sweep out of the Gulf, follow the Mississippi Valley north and spread out over the Great Lakes. Shippers will welcome the signal that winter's frozen grasp will soon be relaxed and full navigation of these vital waterways can begin anew.

In a period of only four months, a mere moment in geological time, the ice cover has become an extension of the land—an earth resource, and is now ready to revert back to a water resource.

The traditional interest has been in ice-versus-navigation, and ways to eliminate it, because of the economic factors which are involved. Today, however, we are equally concerned with the development of an understanding of the role of the ice canopy in Great Lakes oceanography. The complex role that it plays is only now being considered as an ecological link that must be thoroughly understood before a reasoned decision can be made as to whether extensive deicing technology is applied.

From an ecological viewpoint, the ice canopy spreads over the Great Lakes much like a heavy cloud cover over land. It restricts sunlight, changes the flow of currents and subtly alters the total water environment.

Many Uses of Ice

The role of the Great Lakes ice canopy varies with the stage of its development through the three to four months of the winter season. During the initial freeze-up period the felt-like ice cover is primarily a filter trap for organisms on the water surface and floating particulate matter. During the winter the ice sheet serves as a platform for airborne organic and inorganic sediments.

It also serves as a lid on the water surface to reduce turbulence, alter wind-driven currents, restrict absorption of oxygen, reduce evaporation and slow up the distribution of pollutants under the ice cover. It further serves as a platform for snows which sweep out atmospheric pollutants and include the chemical condensation nuclei.

Drifting masses of pressure ridges are the Great Lakes icebergs. They are like geologic plows when they run around and disturb both the bottom sediments and faunas.

The ice cover also introduces a retardation effect in calculating the flows out of the lakes and has to be accounted for in lake regulation plans.

Drifting Pollution

During the melting and breakup of the ice cover in the spring, meltwater puddles on the ice surface serve as natural petri-dishes to incubate organisms released from the ice, while melting snows serve as sites for the growth of algae which produce the "red snows."

Concentrations of wind-blown dusts develop thaw pits and the dirt itself serves to generate microclimates for the growth of organisms. Ice floes can act as drifting rafts of pollution which carry included matter far from its orginal site and release the pollution in a new area upon melting.

The one thing that we have learned, more important than any other factor, is that the rock-ice formation that covers the Great Lakes is a unique earth resource that needs to be more thoroughly investigated both on the ground and in the laboratory, as well as by techniques of remote sensing both from airborne and spaceborne platforms.

Major Questions

There are many things that we do not yet have the answers to: What effect would it have on the marine life if the distribution of this ice canopy were changed; what effect would it have on local weather conditions and agriculture if it didn't melt in its historic pattern.

How does this fit into the heightening competition between resource use possibilities, given the requirements of urbanization and industrialization and growing demands for environmental restoration and preservation; even to what effect the removal of this ice bridge would have on winter transportation between island communities and the mainland.

These are questions, among many others, that must be answered before a decision can be reached on the desirability of using deicing technologies in support of unlimited winter navigation. To answer those questions, resarch must continue and should be directed into these areas:

- Developing and utilizing airborne systems which can provide us with an all-weather capability — see through the clouds—to determine on a synoptic basis the areal distribution of ice.
- Continuing field studies to detail ice conditions in selected areas critical to navigation and to utilize existing engineering technologies to eliminate ice conditions adverse to navigation in the selected areas.
- Developing interdisciplinary studies of the role of the ice canopy in the physical and biological sciences so that this can lead to a better understanding of the ice canopy as a natural resource.

New Problems?

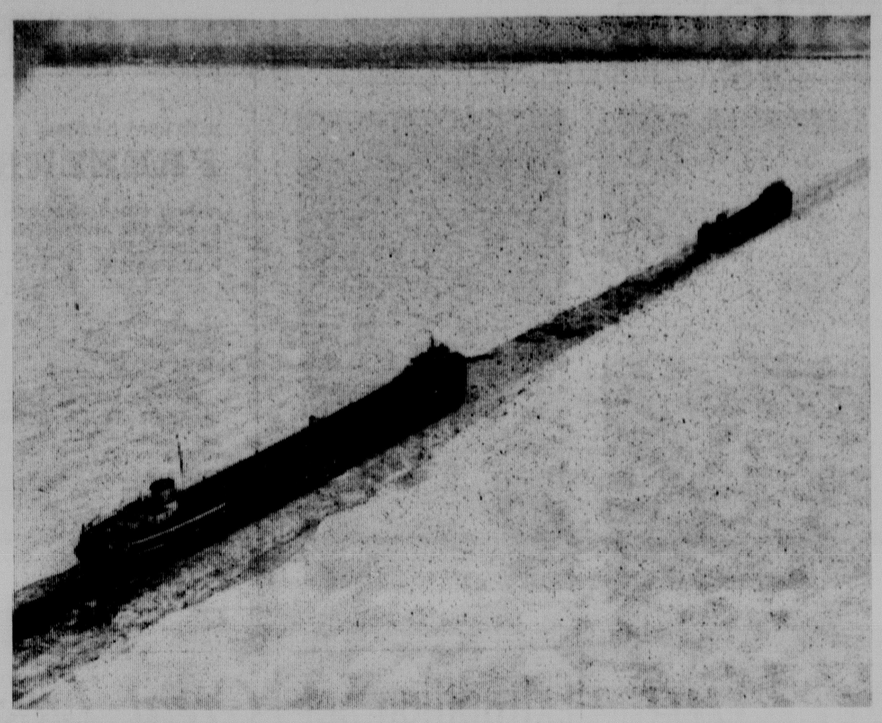

The Great Lakes have had a special significance to the long parade of people that have inhabited this region—from the aborigines, who used the lakes and connecting channels for hunting, trading and war routes, to the successive shifts of French, British and Americans who used these same routes for military, political and economic power.

From the navigational viewpoint, general navigation is suspended from about mid-December to early April.

Winter navigation on the open lake can cause icing on the superstructure which results in loss of trim, instability and excessive drafts which can preclude entrance to channels and locks. Operating in pack ice can cause hull, rudder and wheel damage resulting in lost time and higher insurance rates. Frozen cargo in docks, stockpiles and holds of vessels is common for granular materials.

Interlake navigation is often blocked in the entrance to the restricted chanelways by wind-driven pack ice which forms pressure ridges of great thickness and by various kinds of ice which often holds vessels in its grip. Winter operation of the locks is a problem affecting both interlake navigation and international access.

Before we make major disruptions of the Great Lakes ice cover, we muse be sure that we are not going to create a series of new problems just to solve one.

ALL WINTER ORE HAUL? The ore carriers Sykes and L. E. Block, creeping along an icy channel toward the C&NW ore dock at Escanaba, opened the navigation season here — but only with difficulty. While it is possible to operate boats throughout the winter, Dr. Ernest W. Marshall of the Corps of Engineers, wonders whether greater problems might not result with de-icing the Lakes. Big Mac Traffic For March Best For That Month

ST. IGNACE (AP) — The Mackinac Bridge Authority announced Friday traffic over the bridge during March was the highest for that month since the bridge opened in 1957. The Authority said traffic was up more than 25 per cent over the same month last year. The Authority attributed the hike to an early Easter holiday, school vacations and the state high school basketball tournament. For the first three months of the year bridge traffic was up more than 23 per cent.

Student Claims Long Hair Reason For 'Punishment'

DETROIT (AP) —An 18-year-old Wayne State University student who was sentenced to three weekends in jail, a fine of $25 and the loss of his driving privilege for one year says his long hair cost him the punishment.

John Gregory Faubert was arrested last Nov. 11 near the parking lot of a drive-in restaurant in Detroit. He said he drove into the parking lot and left immediately after someone threw a bottle at his car.

Faubert said an unmarked police car then stopped him and charged him with "driving through a drive - in restaurant for purposes other than constructed."

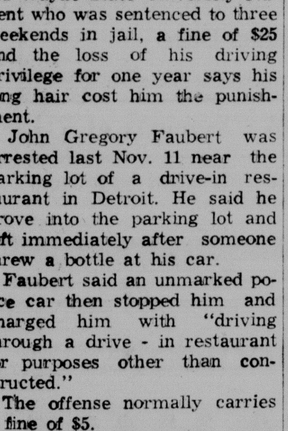

The offense normally carries a fine of $5.

Faubert appealed a conviction by a traffic court referee, and has the assistance of the American Civil Liberties Union. Faubert says when he was scheduled for appeal before Recorder's Court Judge George T. Ryan, the judge told him that he "may wind up in jail" if he didn't get a haircut. Faubert's hair is worn shoulder length.

Judge Ryan said the long hair "had absolutely nothing to do with the sentence."

Faubert's attorney Mary Anne McMicken and the ACLU lawyer, Fredrick B. Bellemy, obtained a writ late Friday that delays the jail sentence until a further appeal is completed.

"I like my hair the way it is," said Faubert. "It's the principle of the thing."

Four Candidates Seeking Two City Council Seats

City electors will choose two candidates in Monday's biennial spring election. Four candidates have been certified for the four-year council seats at stake, the only issue city voters will be asked to decide.

Candidates are incumbent Thor Reque, seeking his second term, Daniel C. Barber, Raymond L. Krusic and Douglas D. Rose. Twelve-year veteran councilman Harold Carlson did not file for reelection.

A light voter turnout is expected. City Clerk Ralph Ekstrom said Friday that only 24 applications for absentee ballots had been made. Deadline for return of the abstentee was 2 p.m. today. There are 2,224 registered city voters.

The polls will open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m. This year a special board will count absentee ballots, under a new law, with the count beginning at 7 p.m. election night at City Hall. Voters in the 1st Precinct will ballot at the Lincoln School; 2nd Precinct, Youth Center; 3rd Precinct, the Lakeside School. Voters in the third Precinct are asked to note the change from the former City Hall to the Lakeside School.

The candidates all responded to a Daily Press request for statements which appear below along with brief biographical sketches. Listed alphabtically:

Daniel C. Barber, 28, owner-operator of the Gambles Store, is a 1960 graduate of the Manistique High School. He is past president of the Jaycees, a member of the Knights of Columbus and currently serves as co-chairman of the retail division of the Chamber of Commerce.

He and his wife, the former Donna Johnson, and their two children live at 546 Park Ave. This is his first bid for elective office.

Raymond L. Krusic, 33, operates the Lakeview Bowling Lanes. A Manistique native, he is a 1954 graduate of the Manistique High School. He was employed at the First National Bank before opening the bowling alley in 1960.

Krusic was elected to the City Charter Commission and has been city representative on the Tax Allocation Board for the past five years. He was chairman of the board last year. He served a three-month volunteer period as acting city clerk and treasurer in 1963 when the post was temporarily vacated.

He is a director of the State Savings Bank, a member of both the Third and Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus, and belongs to the Indian Lake Golf and Country Club.

He and his wife, the former Mary Lawrence, and their six children live at 428 Alger Ave.

Thor Reque is seeking his second four-year term on the council. He retired last June after 42 years as a school teacher.

A three year member of the Board of Supervisors before redistricting, he was chairman of both the Welfare and Education committiees. He has been city delegate for the past four years to the Upper Peninsula Commission on Area Progress (UPCAP), a voting delegate to the Michigan State Municipal League, member of the Airport Advisory Committee, city representative to the Community School Advisory Board and is treasurer of the Senior Citizens Drop-In Center.

Reque and his wife, Florence live at 631 Oak St.

Douglas Rose, 26, is a switchman for the General Telephone Company. An Alpena native, he graduated from Alpena High School and attended Alpena Community College for one year. He served in the U.S. Navy from 1962-64.

Rose, who is seeking his first elective office, transferred to Manistique in 1967 from Roscommon where he worked for two years.

He and his wife, Carolyn and son, Stephen live at 411 Intake Park Rd.

Each candidate made the following statements concerning their reason for seeking office:

BARBER: "I am concerned with the loss of our youth from this area after they graduate from high school. Many of our young residents leave because they are unable to find employment to provide a livelihood. With this thought, plus being concerned with conditions in this area in general, I have decided to become a city council candidate. I have been a resident of Manistique for the past 15 years and graduated from the high school. The past two years I have been owner-manager of the Gamble Store in Manistique."

KRUSIC: "Having been born and raised in Manistique and a businessman, naturally I am concerned about the problems and future of Manistique. I feel my experience as temporary city Clerk and treasurer and my service on the City Charter Commission makes me familiar with city accounting, ordinances and city government procedures. In times of ever-increasing costs, I also feel my business, accounting and financial experience may be of some value to the city. I do not represent any special interest group but hope to do the most good for the most people as I realize I will not be able to please everyone."

ROSE: "Because I am concerned about the individual members of our community, who collectively comprise the city, I am seeking to represent them as a city council member. I feel when a person is concerned he should be active. Although relatively new to Manistique, I have respect for its past. This is my home and I understand and share the pride involved in preserving various traditions. However, progress is desirable and I feel it is possible without destroying the interests of individual people. I am young, eager and truly concerned about the future of our community. I will be able to devote my time to representing you because I am not involved in other clubs or organizations."

REQUE: "My four years experience on the council can be valuable in continuing the programs the city has undertaken in recent years. We have achieved much and I hope we will continue to upgrade what we have. We have begun a program of street improvement, are seeking federal funding for a harbor improvement program, conducting a feasibility survey for a phospherous removal plant and considering other improvements. All of this progress is due to the cooperative spirit of the present council. If this cooperation is continued, I am sure much more can be achieved."

Extradition Set In Wisconsin Car Theft Case

Melvin J. Morse, 52, no permanent address, pleaded guilty in District Court Thursday to driving with a revoked license and was ordered to serve three days in jail and pay a fine of $20 and costs of $30.

Morse is in jail serving his sentence and also awaiting extradition to Wisconsin to face charges of automobile theft. He agreed to extradition and arrangements are being made through Prosecuting Attorney G. S. Johnson's office, Public Safety officers said.

In addition, Morse also admitted to City Patrolman William Reno that he had broken and entered the Martin Novak residence, 406 Alger Ave., on Mar. 26 and taken a portable television set and a radio. Both of these items were sold, he said Police have recovered the radio and expect to reclaim the television set.

Morse came to the attention of city police officers at 2 a.m. Thursday when he was stopped for a defective equipment (no tail lights) check. When he was unable to produce an operator's license, he was lodged in jail.

Further investigation by City Patrolman William Reno revealed that Morse's license had been revoked and that the automobile he was driving, a 1963 Rambler with Wisconsin plates, had been reported stolen in Milwaukee on Mar. 27.

Upon questioning, Morse admitted his guilt in the auto theft, the fact that his driver's license had been revoked and the breaking and entering and theft of articles from the Novak home.

Upon his agreement to extradition and in view of his confession to the breaking and entering offense and the recovery of one item and expected recovery of the second, officers said these charges will be dropped since he faces a felony charge in Wisconsin.

City police arrested Aldred DeMars Sr., Cooks, Friday at 12:25 a.m. on W. Deer St. and charged him with driving while under the influence of intoxicants. Demars was jailed until his Friday morning bond arraignment before Magistrate Howard Magoon. He was released on his own recogniance and will appear for arraignment before Judge Charles Stark on Thursday, Apr. 9.

Bank In Lansing Target Of Robber

LANSING (AP) — Lansing Police report that the main branch of the American Bank and Trust Co. was robbed of an estimated $1,200 late Friday afternoon.

Police said a man thought to be in his mid-20's hid in the bank's basement after closing time. A guard inspecting an open vault door was hit from behind with a crow bar. The guard was hospitalized in good condition.

Police say the bandit escaped on foot.

Controlling Worst Drivers Aim Of Hare

LANSING (AP) — In a move to crack down on "Michigan's worst drivers," Secretary of State James M. Hare is urging all police agencies to check driving records each time they issue a moving violation ticket.

Hare praised some police agencies as "doing an excellent job in checking traffic offenders."

But he said others are "not checking as they should."

"Unless this check is made," Hare said, "We have an impossible situation in trying to control many of Michigan's worst drivers."

Hare said an average of 60 checks ad day clear his department's computer system, which is linked with the Law Enforcement Information Network (LEIN).

But that total compares with at least 3,000 moving violations issued daily by police, he noted.

Recent studies have shown that 33 out of each 100 suspended and 68 out of each 100 revoked drivers can be expected to drive while they are under suspension or revocation, the secretary of state reported.

Hare said he recognized that police agencies have problems "higher priority," such as criminal work and that many agencies are understaffed.

"But unless we can control the 'scofflaw' and keep him from driving in Michigan we have a problem of astronomical proportions — one that costs Michigan taxpayers many millions of dollars in property damage and many deaths and injuries annually."

Hare's comments, included in a memo to Michigan law enforcement agencies, added that:

"Suspensions and revocations are rising to new highs and it's absolutely imperative that officers check records through their car radio each time they issue a moving violation.

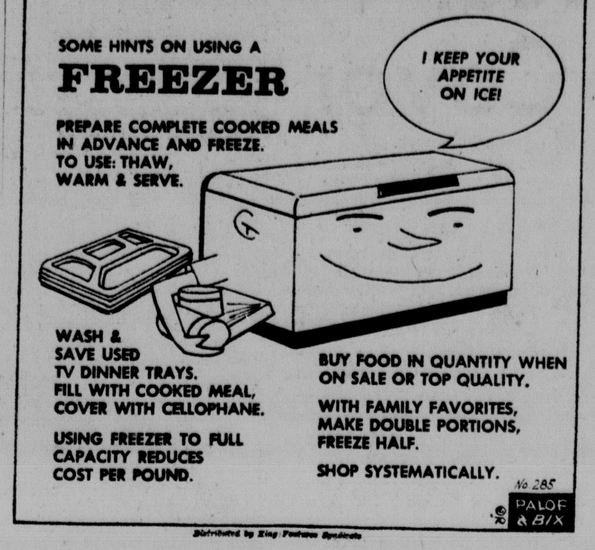

"Unless this is done, enforcement and safety agencies are obviously hamstrung in their effort to get some of the traffic tramps off Michigan roads."

Great Lakes Military Haul Held 'Wasteful'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md., has complained to Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird that a test shipping of military cargo through Great Lakes ports in 1969 was outrageously wasteful and should not be tried again.

"This little experiment cost the taxpayers over $400,000," Tydings told the Senate this week.

Tydings said the test was undertaken by the Defense Department during the 1969 shipping season of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

"The test was undertaken at the behest of the Great Lakes maritime interests and encouraged by the Great Lakes Conference of Senators," Tydings said. "They were complaining that military cargoes were being shipped out of East Coast ports and that the lake facilities were thus unjustly ignored, he added.

Tydings recalled that last July he wrote Laird to say the test project was contrary to economic good sense. Other senators from Maryland, Maine, Delaware Virginia, New Jersey, Rhode Island and Connecticut also signed the letter.

Tydings said the test program has been completed and evaluated by the Defense Department and by the General Accounting office.

The analysis found that $415.218 excess costs were incurred in shipping the test cargo through the Great Lakes compared with East or Gulf Coast ports, Tydings said.

"The test was not only contrary to economic good sense, it was an outrageous waste of federal expenditures," Tydings said.

"We all recognize the need to eliminate unnecessary government spending," he continued. "I suggest we start here and drop what is obviously a political boondoggle.

"Let us make sure that another test not be conducted in the 1970 shipping season."

"A statement by Great Lakes senators that it was apparent that the all-water voyage would prove to be more efficient and cheaper than the two-part rail-plus ship method of routing cargo overland to the East Coast before placing it on oceangoing vessels has been shown to be incorrect," Tydings maintained.

"The St. Lawrence Seaway route costs more, not less. The fact is that Baltimore, Md., and her sister ports provide better service," he declared.

Five Drug Firms Agree To Refund Of $32.5 Million

NEW YORK (AP) — Five drug firms charged with fixing the price of broad-spectrum antibiotics between 1954 and 1966 have agreed to refund $32.5 million to the nation's private hospitals and 74 Blue Cross plans.

Lawyers for American Cyanamid Co., Bristol-Myers Co. Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp., Chas. Pfizer and Co. and the Upjohn Co. told of the settlement Friday in U.S. District Court.

It adds $12.5 million to a prior offer.

In separate negotiations, 43 state governments have agreed to share $82.6 million in refunds to individual consumers, as well as state, county and local governmental units.

However, seven states and some claimants decline to settle with the firms and are going ahead with triple-damage suits.

Judge Inzer B. Wyatt oversaw the negotiations.

Voters To Elect Commissioners

Gladstone residents will elect two persons from a field of five candidates to three-year terms on the City Commission when they go to the polls Monday.

Voters will ballot between 7 a. m. and 8 p. m. at the City Hall.

Candidates for the two seats on the commission are:

Douglas Bovin, 1607 Lake Shore Dr.; Elmer Caron, 702 Dakota Ave.; Thomas Elegeert, 709 Michigan Ave.; William Smith, Shorewood Motel, and Constance Verhamme, 709 Delta Ave.

Bovin is the only incumbent on the ballot. Commissioner Delbert Nelson, whose term also is expiring, did not seek reelection.

Other members of the commission are Arne Anderson, mayor, Raymond Norton and George Young.

The election will be the first in Gladstone under the two precinct system and voters will ballot by machine for the first time. Previously, four precints were used and voting was by paper ballot.

Instruction on the use of the voting machines will be given at the City Hall Monday. Two demonstration machines will be used to give voters an opportunity to see how they work before balloting on the commission. The commission election is the only issue to be considered.

GHS Lettermen Collect Easter Seal Drive Funds

Gladstone High School lettermen, under the direction of Don Pfotenhauer, collected a total of $236.30 for the Delta County Easter Seal drive for Crippled Children.

The funds, weighing in at 17½ pounds, were collected by students working in teams. Top teams were Bob Young, Lauri Nelson, Clifford Young and Kathy Gillis, checking in with $61.72; Bob Degrand and Joe Guennette, $40.11, and Mark Isaacson, Bob Richards and Ron Lantagne, with $35.12.

Lettermen and their able assistants canvassed the business district after church on Good Friday and again in the evening and on Saturday morning.

Bucks Triumph; Capture First Playoff Series

By The Associated Press

Lew Alcindor's up to his old tricks again.

He's got the Milwaukee Bucks dreaming of championships just as UCLA did during the years the amazing athlete played the roll . . . just as he did at Power Memorial Academy in New York. In other words, Lew Alcindor became the first National Basketball Association team—oops, pardon the slip—The Milwaukee Bucks became the first team to advance to a divisional championship series in the NBA Friday night when they beat the Philadelphia 76ers 115-106.

Alcindor scored 46 points. It boosted his total for five playoff games to 181—an average just a shade over 36 points.

Chicago shot down the Atlanta Hawks, who were trying to make it four straight, in the night's other NBA playoff action, the Bulls winning 131-120. Atlanta holds a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven Western Division 1emfinals.

Los Angeles, behind 2-1, plays at Phoenix in tonight's only NBA action. The Los Angeles-Phoenix survivor takes on the Atlanta-Chicgo series' winner for the Western Division title.

Milwaukee now plays either New York or Baltimore, which trails the Knicks 3-2 with the Eastern Division series resuming Sunday at Baltimore.

"We should be ready for whichever one we face," said Milwaukee Coach Larry Costello, calling Baltimore and New York both "great clubs."

It was an uphill fight for Milwaukee, however. The 76ers had an 85-82 advantage after the first three periods. The Bucks didn't get their first lead of the second half until Alcindor made good on a three-point play to put Milwaukee ahead 92-90 in the fourth period.

"I like Alcindor all the time," said 76er Coach Jack Ramsay. "He is a thoroughly dedicated team player. Milwaukee played a great series."

Bill Cunningham and Wally Jones kept the 76ers in contention until the waning moments. Cunningham scored 28 and Jones 26.

Chicago, with Chet Walker and Clem Haskins providing the scoring punch, breezed past Atlanta in the first period and the Hawks could never get the upper hand, although they led briefly after intermission.

"It was a breakdown in our defense," said Richie Guerin, the Atlanta coach. "It could have been a natural letdown after a 3-0 lead, but it'll be over Sunday, that's for sure."

Dick Motta, Chicago's coach, isn't ready to just hand the series to the Hawks in the fifth game at Atlanta Sunday.

"I know no team has ever come back from 3-0 to win a playoff but there was a time when nobody gave us a chance of making the playoffs and we did," said Motta. "Thi win eliminates some self doubt. If we win at Atlanta Sunday, anything can happen"

Walker scored 39 points to lead Chicago while Haskins contributed 29. Joe Caldwell was high for the Hawks with 38 points.

Fails To Yell; Golfer Sued

DETROIT (AP) — A Detroit golfer who failed to yell "fore" when he teed off frfom the 15th hole has been ordered to pay $6,500 in damages to another golfer who was struck behind the left ear.

The golfer, Leon Heller, 56, hooked his tee shot to the left in august 1967 and struck Joseph Stack, who now lives in California.

Heller told a Wayne County Circuit Court jury that he didn't yell "fore" before making the shot because he is a consistent slicer, sending his drives off to the right. He said Stack was down range 120 yards and to the left.

Stack sued for $100,000 in damages, claiming that the injury left him short-tempered and prevents him from holding his old job as a salesman.

Heller testified that he relied on laws from Scotland that say golfers must always be alert for flying golf balls.

Stack countered by calling as a witness professional golfer Louis Powers, former head pro for Detroit's municipal golf courses. Powers said players must yell "fore" before and not after making shots.

Central League Opposes State Tourney Setup

The league further recommended that the state basketball tournament.

The league further recommended that the state basketball tournament be returned to the three-week setup.

The Central U. P. League desires the help of all basketball enthusiasts to help correct this situation.

Twins, Red Sox Picked To Win Division Titles

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — If anybody is going to beat the Baltimore Orioles in the American League East, it will be the Boston Red Sox. If anybody is going to top the Minnesota Twins in the American League West, it will be the Oakland A's.

It says here the Red Sox will do the job on the Orioles, although they finished third, 22 games back, in 1969, but Minnesota will stagger past Oakland in the West only to be ambushed by the Red Sox in the pennant playoff.

Jim Lonborg appears back on the beam. The addition of Gary Peters from the White Sox seems to have given the Red Sox a solid pitching base that includes Ray Culp and Mike Nagy. George Scott had an outstanding spring and Carl Yastrzemski had one of his best exhibition seasons. Catching appears to be Boston's chief problem now that Luis Alvarado has fitted into the infield at third base.

Here's the way the two divisions look from here:

East
1.Boston
2.Baltimore
3.Washington
4.Detroit
5.New York
6.Cleveland

West
1.Minnesota
2.Oakland
3.Kansas City
4.Chicago
5.California
6.Seattle-Milwaukee

The Orioles have a solid lineup from top to bottom with fine power in Boog Powell, Frank Robisnon, Brooks Rboinson and Paul Blair. Mike Cuellar, Dave McNally, Jim Palmer and Tom Phoebus are tough pitchers to crack. A rookie has to be a new Ty Cobb to break into the starting lineup still, this same awesome array of talent fell before the Mets last October. It could happen again.

Boston is hungry. With a new manager, Eddie Kasko, at the helm to create a new spirit of togetherness on a club that feuded with Dick Williams last year, they could recapture the spark of 1967.

Much depends on Alvarado, a hotshot shortstop in the minors but now a third baseman. If he makes it, Scott can remain in first where he prefers to play. Rico Petrocelli and Mike Andrews form a fine second short combo and the outfield of Yaz, Reggie Smith and Tony Conigliaro is second to none.

Ted Williams worked miracles with his Washington club last year, finishing only one game behind the Red Sox. With hitters like Frank Howard, Ken McMullen and Mike Epstein to carry the load, the Senators could sneak into third place.

The McLain case and a subsequent magazine article by Bill Freehan, who wrote of dissension in the clubhouse, may have wrecked the Tigers. Mickey Lolich must carry the heavy load. The lneup still is solid with Willie Horton, Al Kaline, Jim Northrop, Mickey Stanley, Norm Cash and Freehan to swing the bat. Who can replace McLain's 24 wins? The answer is easy — nobody.

Ralph Houk hopes to get more zing in the batting order with Curt Blefray in right field and Danny Cater on first. Rookie catcher Thurman Munson must come through big and Bobby Murcer must have a big year. Mel Stottlemyre, Fritz Peterson and Stan Bahnsen must struggle along without any big innings.

Ken Harrelson's loss was a tough blow to the Cleveland club even if Dean Chance comes back to help Sam McDowell.

The Twins floundered through spring training, losing nine in a row at one stage. Harmon Killebrew, bothered by a chronic knee condition, was slow coming around. Bill Rigney is counting on Luis Tiant to step in there with Jim Kaat, Jim Perry and Dave Boswell while the Killer and Tony Oliva do the heavy bombing.

Oakland might just be ready to make its move. The A's gave the Twins a scare last year until the very end. The addition of Don Mincher and Felipe Alou, plus the holdover power of Reggie Jackson and Rick Monday should keep them in most games.

Kansas City surprised a lot of people last year and Charlie Metro will be cracking the whip to get the most out of the players he personally picked as scouting director in the expansion draft. The White Sox are short on pitching and the Angels are weak at the bat. The three should finish in a pack with third fourth and fifth up for grabs.

And the Seattle Pilots? They won't even be in the league this season. Milwaukee's Brewers will have to be satisfied with dreams of the future.

Sizzling NHL Race Faces Key Games

NEW YORK (AP) — The tightest race in National Hockey League history steams into its final weekend Saturday with the East Division packed so tight that any one of four teams can still finish first.

The NHL commissioned Warner, Bicking and Fenwick, Inc., a New York firm, to have its computers figure out the various possibilities of East Division finishes. The computers came up with 125 possibilities for final standings after Sunday's games.

The only constant is Toronto's last place finish. The Maple Leafs cannot escape the cellar no matter what happens this weekend. But they can play a large role in the rest of the race.

Just five points separate first and fifth places with Chicago and Boston sharing first, Detroit third, Montreal fourth and New York fifth. The Rangers, however, trail Montreal by only two points and Detroit by just three.

By sweeping their final two games against the Red Wings, New York could qualify for the playoffs and finish as high as third, depending on what Montreal does in its last two games with Chicago.

The outcome of those Canadien—Black Hawk games and the two between Boston and Toronto will also determine who finishes first.

The Hawks and Bruins both have 95 points heading into the weekend but Chicago, with five more victories than the Bruins, has the edge.

If two teams finish the season tied in points, the team with the most victories is credited with the higher finish. If the victories are the same, then the team with the most goals scored gets the higher position.

Rarely is the race so close that the goals scored must be considered but that could also happen this weekend in the East scramble.

The race is so close that Montreal and Detroit both still have a shot at first place and, at the same time, either could miss the playoffs completely. It is an unprecedented situation.

Don Ruck, vice president of the NHL, said both league and individual club offices are being swamped with phone calls asking where and when the Stanley Cup playoffs will begin.

"We can't tell them," said Ruck. "We simply don't know. All we can tell them is that the Cup playoffs in the East Division will start somewhere on Wednesday, April 8."

Foster Favorite In Title Bout

MISSOULA, Mont. (AP) — Cool Bob Foster, a thinking man's champion, carries a vast advantage of reach, height and charisma into his light heavyweight title defense tonight against Montana brawler Roger Rouse, in this scenic western Montana city.

Foster has the standard fight line that he must beat Rouse and regain the light heavyweight title, but admits he's looking beyond that to a heavyweight shot against brutal Joe Frazier.

Foster somehow packs the wallop of a mule into a 6-foot-4 frame that looks deceptively slender and vulnerable. He will be going for his 43rd victory against the cut-prone Rouse.

Rouse battled Foster once before, losing on a fifth-round TKO when Foster opened up a gushing cut under one eye. The journeyman Rouse, now 34, has a 38-7-3 record in his 10 years of fighting in the ring.

Spartans Post Win No. 1,000

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The Michigan State University baseball team won a slugfest 11-6 victory over Miami Friday.

The Spartans had 16 hits which included four doubles, a triple and a home run. MSU catcher Phil Rashead had a homer with one on base in the fifth inning and a triple with bases loaded in the eighth. Rashead totaled five runs batted in and scored two himself while catching the entire game.

The leading hitter for the Spartans was center fielder Gary Boyze who belted three singles and a double and infielder Rob Ellis tagged a double and two singles.

This game marked the 1,000th win for the team since baseball came to the East Lansing campus in 1883 and MSU stands 9-1-2 for the spring training season.

Mets, Reds Picked To Win National League Divisions

ST. Petersburg, Fla. (AP) — Mets will fall flat on their faces. Maybe Gil Hodges will lose his magic. Maybe Tom Seaver and Jerry Koosman won't win at least 40 games. Maybe, but don't bet on it.

The Mets have bolstered the one weak spot in their infield with Joe Foy at third base. They picked up an experienced left-hander in Ray Sadecki. And they will have the full-season services of big Donn Clendenon.

After beating off the Chicago Cubs, Pittsburgh Pirates and St. Louis Cardinals—to say nothing of the Phillies and Montreal—they must take on the best in the West before they make the World Series again.

The best in the West could be any one of five teams. We exclude only San Diego from the race. Despite a pitching problem that still exists, that raw power in the Cincinnati Reds' order suggests they will outslug Atlanta, Houston, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Here's the way it looks from here in the two divisions:

East—1. New York: 2. Chicago; 3. St. Louis; 4. Pittsburgh; 5. Philadelphia; 6. Montreal. West—1. Cincinnati; 2. Atlanta; 3. Houston; 4. San Francisco; 5. Los Angeles; 6. San Diego.

The Pirates have been getting a big play from the sports writers in Florida.

But it is hard to overlook the Cubs, who had a 9½ — game lead on Aug. 13 and appeared ready to sell Series tickets. Losing that lead had to leave scars on the Cubs.

However, the big reason why we put them second is a shortage of starting pitchers behind Fergy Jenkins, Bill Hands and Ken Holtzman.

Getting back to the Mets for a moment, there is reason to believe that Nolan Ryan may be ready to step up right behind Seaver, Koosman and Gary Gentry to make a formidable staff.

Seaver and Koosman, of course, are the keys.

St. Louis is in a muddled situation because of the illness of Mike Shannon. Red Schoendienst has been trying Joe Torre, Phil Gagliano and Richie Allen at third base.

Ted Simmons, the rookie who is expected to be the No. 1 catcher, still is in the Army. The bullpen is in trouble without Joe Hoerner.

The Phillies are rebuilding the kids, installing Larry Bowa at short and Denny Doyle at second in the middle of the infield. They are short one outfielder. Much depends on comebacks by Chris Short and Jim Bunning in the pitching department.

Montreal is in over its head again but could do better than last year's sad 52-110 record.

In the West, the booming bats of the Reds will have to make up for pitching shortages.

The loss of Ron Reed was a blow to the Braves, taking away an 18-game winner for an indefinite period.

The Braves are a solid club and could repeat with another big year from Hank Aaron.

Many regard the Astros as the sleeper in the field. That pitching staff, led by Larry Dierker, Don.Wilson, Tom Griffin and Denny Lemaster, set a strikeout record lalt year.

Remember, they clobbered the Mets 10-2 in the season seriel. The addition of Joe Pepitone has to help.

Juan Marichal and Gaylord Perry on the mound and Willie McCovey and Willie Mays at the plate are going to keep the Giants in the thick of it..

They have finished. second five years in a row.

The Dodgers are another club that could blow up a storm if kids like Bill Buckner and possibly Steve Garvey come through. Much depends on Willie Davis in Center and the ability of Maurry Wills to play steadily.

San Diego should move up a few lengths but it is difficult to see them getting out of the cellar.

Bengals Face Washington In Season Opener Monday

A White House relief pitcher will launch baseball's 101st season Monday at Washington while Canada's young major league entry helps ring in tte last Crosley Field opener at Cincinnati, where it all began.

Neither President Nixon nor Vice President Agnew will be on hand for the Washington inaugural, which pits the Detroit Tigers, without Denny McLain, against Ted Williams' ambitious Senators.

Mickey Lolich is set to pitch for the Tigers in the absence of McLain, under suspension until July 1 for his 1967 gambling activities. Dick Bosman, American ERA king last year, will be the Washington starter.

David Eisenhower, Nixon's son-in-law and grandson of the former President, is a candidate to handle the traditional first-ball assignment.

At Cincinnati, where the Reds' forerumners began playing professionally in 1869, Jim Merritt will be on the mound for the home club against Joe Sparma and the Montreal Expos in the other traditional opening day game. The Reds are scheduled to shift from ancient Crosley Field to a new stadium in time to host the July 14 All-Star Game.

The spotlight shifts Tuesday to Milwaukee, new home of the ill-fated Seattle Pilots, which entertains California in its opener while all other clubs except St. Louis also swing into action, the Cardinals play their first game Wednesday at Montreal.

Milwaukee, without its own franchise since the Braves defected to Atlanta five years ago, plans a gala sendoff for the renamed Brewers—despite a hectic race against the clock to prepare for the opener. "We have four months of work to do in four days," Marvin Milkes, the American League club's general manager, said Friday.

In Tuesday's other AL games, league titlist Baltimore is at Cleveland, Minnesota at Chicago, Boston at New York, Oakland at Kansas City and Detroit at Washington.

The world champion New York Mets visit Pittsburgh, Atlanta is at San Diego, Chicago at Philadelphia, Houston at San Francisco and Cincinnati at Los Angeles in National League play.

The Orioles have been tabbed solid 9-to-5 favorites by Las Vegas bookmakers to repeat in the AL and St. Louis is the 7-2 choice in the NL, followed by the Mets and San Francisco, at 9-2.

While President Nixon has put in a bullpen call for the Washington opener, Baltimore's Dave McNally, Boston's Gary Peters and Los Angeles' Claude Osteen appeared geared for distance as their clubs' opening day pitchers.

McNally, a 20-game winner for the Orioles last season, Peters, obtained by Boston in a winter trade with the White Sox, and Osteen, another 20-victory man, were the standouts among half a dozen hurlers who worked Friday exhibition games in final tuneups for Tuesday starting assignments.

The Orioles bowed to Montreal 3-2 at Arlington, Tex., despite McNally's three-hit, seven inning stint. The Red Sox rallied for three ninth inning runs to top Cincinnati 3-1 at Tampa, Fla., as Peters yielded just two hits and stretched his scoreless string to 31 2-3 innings before being nicked for an unearned run in the eighth.

Osteen, who worked six innings, and Jim Brewer combined to limit California to three singles in the first eight innings, leading the Dodgers to a 7-2 victory over the Angels at Los Angeles.

Elsewhere, the Chicago Cubs outsocked the White Sox 13-12 in a 35-hit donnybrook punctuated with three grand slam homers —by the Cubs J. C. Martin and the Sox' Buddy Bradford and Syd O'Brien; St. Louis trimmed Eddie Stanky's University of South Alabama team 9-2 with the help of 13 walks and Atlanta, keyed by Hank Aaron's homer, spilled Oakland 4-2.

Doug Rader drove in four runs with a double and homer as Houston downed the Yankees 9-5, San Francisco edged Milwaukee 6-5, on Hal Lanier's eigmth inning infield hit, Pittsburgh blanked Columbus of the International League 5-0 and Cleveland bowed to Wichita of the American Association 7-5.

Palmer Shares Tourney Lead

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — He's still the king. He's 40 now, the hair is thinning in the front and the back of the neck is lined and seamed as a farmer's.

But Arnold Palmer still is No. 1, still the greatest attraction golf has known. And he still gets the job done.

The game's all-time leading money winner fashioned a sparkling first round 64, seven under par, and was tied for the top spot with golf's most famous bridesmaid, Tommy Aaron, going into today's second round in the $180,000 Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament.

The dynamic Palmer, winner of more than 50 tour events, drew galloping herd of fans from the huge gallery of about 15,000 and responded to their urging of "Go, Arnie, go" with a brilliant effort.

He gained a share of the top spot when he pitched to within 2½-feet on the final green and the sound that went up sounded like Shea Stadium during the World Series. It took him 15 minutes to fight his way to the press tent.

But at least part of his mind was on next week's prestigious Masters.

"Do you have some second thoughts now about coming to Greensboro instead of waiting for the Masters?" he was asked.

The famous grin spread over the putty face and Palmer responded:

Edwards Named Most Valuable

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Red Wings have canceled the Trophy Night proceedings that were to precede tonight's game at Olympia Stadium, but there's still a big honor for goalie Roy Edwards.

The Detroit hockey writers selected him Friday as the team's most valuable player in the season, making him only the third goalie to win the award since it was instituted.

Edwards edged Gordie Howe, who has won the honor 14 times, and defenseman Carl Brewer to take the award.

Playoff Tickets Ready For Wings

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Red Wings announced their ticket sales plans for the Stanley Cup Playoffs, Friday in the event the team qualifies.

Tickets for the quarter-final series will go on sale at 10 a.m. Monday at Olympia Stadium Box Office. Purchaser's will be limited to four seats for each game.

All tickets will be sold at Olympia and no mail orders will be accepted. Prices will be $5, $6, $7 and $8 for reserved seats and standing room will go for $4 in the balcony and $5 in the arena.

Season ticket holders will be protected for 48 hours, they must purchase their tickets by noon Wednesday.

Seals, Flyers Tied For Third

OAKLAND (AP) — A suspenseful numbers game is coming to a close in the National Hockey League West Division and the Philadelphia Flyers have been reluctantly drawn into the game.

The Flyers, who seemingly were assured of a playoff berth, found themselves tied today for third place with Oakland, which beat Los Angeles 4-1 Friday night in the only NHL contest.

Philadelphia ended the season today against Minnesota, faced with the possibility of being shut out of the playoffs if they lose or tie, because fifth-place Minnesota still has another game Sunday at Pittsburgh.

Oakland ends its season tonight at least-place Los Angeles, and the only way the Seals could miss the playoffs now would be to lose while Minnesota ties Philadelphia and also beats Pittsburgh.

If two, or all three teams, end the season in the tie, the team with the fewest victories is left out of the playoffs.

After Oakland's victory before 9,964 fans, second largest Oakland home crowd this season the situation looked like this:

Minnesota, with two games remaining, had 17 victories and 56 points. Philadelphia had 17 victories and 58 points. Oakland had 22 victories and 58 points.

The Seals exploded for three final-period goals to doom last-place Los Angeles.

Leading 1-0 on Earl Ingarfield's second-period score, the Seals got another goal by Ingarfield and one by Gary Jarrett and Bob Dillabough. Defenseman Doug Roberts contributed three assists.

Los Angeles averted a shutout on Bill Flett's goal at 17:24 of the final period.

Lake St. Clair Fish Get Okay From Officials

LANSING (AP) — Michigan authorities have concluded that there is no health hazard in drinking water or eating fish taken from Lake St. Clair.

That conclusion is part of a report presented to Gov. William G. Milliken Friday by experts in the state departments of Agriculture, Natural Resources and Public Health following study oe reports of contamination from mercury discharge.

No Contamination

The report said the Public Health Department found no mercury contamination in Lake St. Clair drinking water and no evidence to suggest Michigan should restrict commercial fishing in Lake Erie.

The Natural Resources Department said it would not curtail sport fishing on either lake. The joint report said "there is no risk of toxicity or illness in sport fishermen or others who occasionally eat fish from these waters."

At the same time, Wyandotte Chemical Corp. announced it would reduce its rate of mercury discharge to a maximum of 1-2 pounds daily by April 15 and hopes to eliminate it entirely within six months.

10-Pound Dumping

In the wake of reports of contamination of fish and water supplies by both American and Canadian industries, Wyandotte Chemical was found to have a mercury dumping rate of 10 pounds a day. A Canadian affiliate of Dow Chemical Co. was found to be discharging some 200 pounds of mercury a day.

The report released by Milliken's office said in part:

"There is no indication that there has been any recent large increase in mercury contamination of the lakes; in fact, recent action has greatly reduced the daily discharge.

"Based upon all available information, there is no evidence of any acute or chronic health problem due to mercury contamination of the water or fish.

Seizure Action Possible

"The food and drug administration has established 0.5 parts per million of mercury as an interim guideline to be used in protecting the public food supply," the report said, adding "seizure action will be immediate if the 0.5 ppm guideline is exceeded in fish for sale."

Tests are being continued on fish taken from lakes, St. Clair, Erie, Michigan, Huron and the Detroit and St. Clair rivers, the report said.

Mercury contamination discovered in tests of perch and walleye pike (also known as pickerel) from Lakes St. Clair and Erie already has resulted in the Canadian government clamping a ban on their sale and export.

Tests Being Taken

Similar tests are still being conducted on fish taken from the American side of the lakes.

James Beebe, acting director of the FDA office in Detroit, said he expected to have the results Monday.

Beebe said the FDA has set no official tolerance level for mercury in fish but follows the interim guideline which establishes a concentration of .5 parts per million as the limit over which interstate commerce is banned.

This is the same level set by Canadian food and drug authorities, but only half the limit established by Ontario scientists as a safety level.

High Mercury Content

Some samples tested in Canadian laboratories disclosed a mercury content of 1.36 parts per million in fish taken from Lake St. Clair last week.

Officials say they have not yet established what is the limit for human consumption — but they are taking no chances for the present. Mercury poisoning attacks the central nervous system and may cause death, according to some scientists.

Why hasn't a level been established for human consumption?

"Really there hasn't been a need," said Beebe. "No one has ever applied for a regulation where you would add mercury to a product and thereby need to have a safe tolerance—up to this point."

Beebe pointed out, however, that the 0.5 level of mercury in fish is one that obviously would not be from a natural background source.

Would Remove Product

"At that level, or above, we know something is wrong," he said, "and we would remove the product from the market."

Canadian authorities believe they have at least a partial answer to what went wrong. Investigation showed that the Dow Chemical plant at Sarnia, Ont., had been leaking about 200 pounds of mercury a day into the St. Clair River before a crash control program was started.

In addition, five Canadian pulp and paper mills were ordered to abandon the use of mercury to remove slime from paper rolls.

Meanwhile, another Michigan official said he believes fish in all the Great Lakes probably are contaminated by mercury.

Tests Conducted

Carlos Fetterolf, supervisor of the water quality appraisal section of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, said tests are being conducted to determine the amount of mercury—if any—in salmon, perch, and chub from Lakes Michigan, Huron and St. Clair, as well as Saginaw Bay.

A new mystery—possibly connected with the fish contamination—has dropped up at the Walpole Indian Reservation in the St. Clair flats. Chief Burton Jacobs reported that several dead muskrats had been found in marshy areas and are being tested for mercury poisoning.

Muskrat trappings on Walpole Island yields some $80,000 to $100,000 a year to the Indians there, according to Jacobs.

$4 Million Catch

In Canada, where the annual Lake Erie catch is worth $4 million on the commercial market, fishermen complained bitterly about the indefinite ban on the sale and export of perch and walleyes from the lake.

"We didn't do anything wrong—why should we be put out of business?" asked one commercial fisherman, Laverne Kelly of Erieau.

Under the ban, fishermen are permitted to continue making catches, but will have to freeze them until further tests for mercury levels are carried out.

Top level discussions are being held in Washington by the International Joint Commission, a Canadian - American group that considers problems of mutual interest to both countries.

Out of the meetings may come a new program for joint control of similar pollution problems in the future.

Lake Survey Publication Informative

DETROIT (AP)—Know what to do if you're fishing or pleasure boating on the Great Lakes and see a square, red Coast Guard flag flying with a square black center?

The answer is: Get out of there as fast as you can. It's a storm warning and winds of 55 miles an hour or higher are expected. A triangular red flag is a small craft warning.

Know what to do if you want the Black River bridge at Port Huron to open for your boat?

Sound your horn: One long, two short and one long blast. This also is the signal for any bridges on the Saginaw River, but other signals are required elsewhere.

On what frequency do you make an SOS "Mayday" call in case of trouble? Answer: 2182 kHz.

Want a detailed description of coast line, harbors, islands and reefs on the Great Lakes and their connecting waters, as well as on the Hudson River and Lake Champlain?

You can find these things and literally hundreds of others in the 1970 edition of "Great Lakes Pilot," a publication of the U.S. Lake Survey of the Army's Corps of Engineers. It retails at $3.25 and is available from Lake Survey offices in Detroit's Federal Building.

There are nine pages of laws regarding navigation and navigable waters and 72 pages of rules and regulations, along with what the penalties are for violations.

Depths of waters and distances between various points are given in charts for all the lakes, and a table for conversion of knots into miles per hour also is included.

The book itself covers 599 pages and it has a 24-page index.

Special Studies In Alcoholism Set

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A specialist in studies on alcoholics says most compulsive drinkers are too moral, too conscientious and set goals that are too high for them.

Blythe Sprott, associate professor of health studies at California State College at Los Angeles, told an interviewer Friday: "Alcoholics have an overdeveloped conscience."

They use alcohol to anesthetize their guilt at falling short, he said.

"Alcoholics are often found among the most up-and-coming young executives, and that's why many companies nowadays have become so interested in restoring them to full efficiency," the educator said.

Kopechne Inquest Notes Misplaced?

EDGARTOWN, Mass. (AP) — The question of what happened to the stenographic notes of the Mary Jo Kopechne inquest has arisen only a few days before the Dukes County grand jury opens its own investigation into her death.

Miss Kopechne, a former campaign secretary for the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, was found dead in Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's car after it plunged off a narrow bridge into a tidal pool last July 18.

The notes of the testimony were taken by Harold T. McNeil and Sidney R. Lipman, professional court reporters from Boston. Under orders of Judge James A. Boyle, who presided at the District Court inquest, the notes were turned over to the court each day along with the typed transcript.

By an order of the state Supreme Court, the transcript, the judge's report and any other documents received as exhibits were impounded at the conclusion of the inquest, and later were turned over to the Suffolk Superior Court in Boston for safekeeping.

The clerk of the Suffolk court, Edward V. Keating, who sent to Edgartown to pick up the papers after the January inquest, said they were in a heavy cardboard box the size of a fifling cabinet drawer.

Inside were sealed envelopes, each marked as containing transcript, the judge's report, and other exhibits. None bore any notation to indicate the notes were in them, he said.

In Edgartown, neither Judge Boyle nor the clerk of his court, Thomas A. Teller, would discuss the disposition of the notes.

Specialized VA Programs Get Nixon's Okay

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon moved Friday to expand the specialized medical programs of the Veterans Administration to meet the needs of the men returning from Vietnam.

Nixon asked Congress for an immediate appropriation of $15 billion for the fiscal year ending this June 30 and another $50 million in the VA's medical care budget request for fiscal year 1971.

The Veterans Administration has a medical budget of $1.54 billion for the current year and has asked Congress to approve $1.70 billion for next year.

"I am determined that no American serviceman returning with injuries from Vietnam will fail to receive the immediate total medical care he requires," Nixon said in a statement.

"This commitment will require more than dollars to redeem; it will require sound management of existing VA facilities, wise use of existing personnel and equipment and—most importantly a sensitivity to the needs of our veterans, personal as well as medical," he said.

The President said the $15 million supplemental appropriation he requested would be spent in April, May and June partly to clear up the excessive backlog of dental claims of Vietnam veterans.

It would provide funds also to improve the staffing of existing specialized medical programs, especially the spinal cord injury centers and the coronary-intensive care units; carry out plans for taking hemodialysis units into the homes of veterans suffering from serious kidney ailments; and help meet increased costs of needed drugs and medicines.

Nursing Home Upgrading Set In Five States

DETROIT (AP) — A program to upgrade nursing homes in Michigan and four other states was outlined today by the Michigan Nursing Home Association.

Incentive payments to be made under a "flexible payment schedule" would vary from $9.55 to $20 a day in state reimbursements for each patient under medicaid.

Maximum payments would be awarded only to first-rate, skilled-care homes, a spokesman for the association explained.

The plan calls for a complete overhaul of the existing medicaid program which now pays $14.50 a day regardless of services offered. The program was drawn up by top nursing home officials in Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio, Texas and Wisconsin.

Marvin Diamond, a Spokesman for the Michigan association, said a higher payment scale for better homes would serve as an important stimulus to nursing home improvement.

"The state now can punish homes for poor maintenance," he said, "but it offers no reward to improve service and facilities."

Diamond said that if the plan were adopted nationally "It could save medicaid from almost certain downfall at the end of the year—something has to be done and the state knows it."

Nursing home officials in Michigan believe that new state medicaid regulations are overly restrictive for the small operator, with requirements geared to facilities rather than services, he added.

Under the proposed plan, each home would start with a base fee of $9.55 per patient. To this would be added a 25-cent reimbursement for each extra service provided, up to a limit of $3.

In addition, other incentive points would be based on pay scales, services offered and degree of staff professionalism, up to a maximum of $20 per patient.

'70 Car No Match For Huge Snowball

KALAMAZOO (AP) — A half-dozen Western Michigan University students decided to have some fun in the snow Thursday and started to roll up a gigantic snowball.

When it reached a diameter of about five feet, the snowball started rolling down a hill.

It kept going until it was stopped by a 1970 model car parked nearby. The result: a smashed hood and shattered windshield, with damage estimated at $500 by the owner, Edwin Basile, another student.

Stop Dredging

CHICAGO (AP) — The Army Corps of Engineers has halted its dredging of the Great Lakes —at least temporarily.

The only exception is in waste disposal areas, the Corps' Chicago office said. The Corps has been dumping dredging wastes into the lakes for years.

"We've restricted dredging in all the Great Lakes pending a new antipollution policy statement from President Nixon.

38 Communities, Firms Cited For Pollution

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — The Lake Michigan Pollution Enforcement Conference this week branded 38 communities and industries violators of its cleanup orders issued nearly two years ago.

All are accused of failing to meet deadlines for completing some phase of the Lake Michigan pollution abatement program set up by earlier sessions of the federal-state conference.

Only Michigan, of the four states involved, got a pat on the back for doing the job, before the conference recessed.

Citations went to municipalities as large as Milwaukee and as small as Kiel, Wis., and to businesses ranging from the United States Steel Corp. to the Baileys Harbor, Wis., laundry.

Besides Milwaukee, 18 Wisconsin cities and the Southern Colony and Training School at Union Grove were cited for failing to have effluent chlorination equipment operating before May, 1969.

All had been given extensions by the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources.

Any or all of the organizations receiving citations may get 180-day compliance orders, said Murray Stein, conference chairman and chief enforcement officer for the federal Water Pollution Control Administration.

U.S. Steel was cited for not meeting deadlines on orders issued to its Waukegan, Ill., and South Works (Chicago) plants for diverting waste water from the lake.

Also named were six Indiana municipalities, including South Bend, which has been fighting an order from the Indiana Stream Pollution Board for 10 years.

The conference agreed to meet in about a month for an executive session to draw up new rules and timetables as a result of testimony at this week's session.

Also on the agenda for that meeting will be proposals for regulating discharges of heated water used to cool nuclear power plants. Only one now is in operation on the shores of Lake Michigan, but eight are in various states of construction.

Such plants require tremendous amounts of water for cooling.

Panama exports $52 million worth of bananas a year. The pampered fruit is grown in plastic bags to protect it from insects and scarring by wind-whipped leaves.

DNR To Discuss Coho-Littered Platte River

LANSING—The Department of Natural Resources announces it will hold a public hearing May 8 at the Benzie High School in the Benzonia-Beulah area to air alternative means of handling this fall's coho run in the Platte River.

DNR fisheries officials are now starting to shape plans for managing the river's fall run of salmon, which they will bring up for public discussion at the hearing.

The Department is focusing on ways to meet objections of anglers temporarily closing the Platte River to fishing in the fall.

Equally important, the DNR hopes to arrive at an answer for local streamside owners who have been upset over the problem of dead salmon littering their river banks in the winter.

DNR Aide Dies

GRAYLING (AP) — Charles F. Welch, 59, a state natural resources department employe since 1935, died Friday in a Grayling hospital after a long illness.

Welch, regional education supervisor at the department's Roscommon office, was a former secretary of the Michigan Outdoor Writers Association and had long been active with that organization.

Building Code Records Now Open For Inspection

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit's Department of Building and Safety Engineering announced Friday that records on building code violations are open for public inspection.

The Detroit Commission on Community Relations two days ago said that it had been denied access to the records. The commission said it wants to check on the city's assessment of conditions at 22 apartment houses that it listed in 1967 as having a long history of building violations.

Gerald Sands, a building department supervisor said that the reports by department inspectors would be available for inspection, but copies could not be handed out.
